That's That.
Marconi's New Baby.
Governor Smith Builds.
Lowest Wheat in 16 Years.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE SENATE, yesterday afternoon, confirmed the naval treaty, neatly constructed by Great Britain and Japan, to limit the fighting power of our ships.

The chief and ablest officers in our Navy wanted 8-inch guns throwing 260-pound shells. We get, by order and permission of Japan and Britain, 6-inch guns, throwing 105-pound shells.

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, says we shall "spend a billion and be weaker at sea than we are." Congratulations are in order, for Britain and Japan.

MARCONI, Italian electrical genius, and his wife have a little girl, just born. The mother certainly is disappointed, the father probably. Mothers want boys, to please fathers; fathers want boys to gratify their own vanity.

Fortunately nature interferes.

ACCORDING TO LAWS of heredity, daughters inherit and hand on to their children the genius of their fathers.

A son inherits the father's genius rarely. You can count the really great sons of great fathers on the fingers of two hands. Marconi has three daughters, two by his first wife, no sons.

FORMER GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH, erecting a building on Fifth avenue in New York where the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel used to be, intends that it shall be a REAL building. It will have 102 stories, and rise 1,222 feet above Fifth avenue, 20 per cent higher than any building ever erected by man, hitherto, excepting, of course, the Tower of Babel.

EVEN SO, ex-Gov. Smith's structure of brick and steel will be small compared with the monument of votes that he piled up in the last campaign.

His vote was almost 100 per cent greater than that ever cast for a Democratic presidential candidate.

RATHER SAD AND DULL in Wall street yesterday, not a good beginning for the brokers' week. Prices down, dismal "minus" signs were scattered all through the list.

Money went begging. You could borrow all you wanted at 2 per cent, or lower.

Cotton was very weak. And wheat, rocked in the protecting arms of Uncle Sam, was much feebler and unhealthier than in old days when rough "supply and demand" ruled it.

POLITICIANS BELIEVE that wheat will be the big factor in the Western elections, with prices the lowest in 16 years.

The government was going to fix everything, through its Farm Board, and did invest millions, with painful results.

For a campaign song farmers might rewrite the sad old tune:

"You told me I'd be happy, but no happiness I see."

STOCKHOLDERS and lawyers objecting to a merger of Bethlehem and another steel company discover that Eugene G. Grace, head of the Bethlehem company, is paid a salary of $12,000 and got a bonus in 1929 of $1,623,753.

Some stockholders think the money should have gone to them, not to Grace.

They may be right, but the probability is that the Grace bonus was money wisely spent.

Iron ore, fuel and machinery are plentiful, but brains that know how to utilize them are hard to find.

GANDHI'S FOLLOWERS have a new idea. Instead of spending one full hour every morning in prayer, as is the custom in India, the Hindus of different castes start out at 5 o'clock in the morning and sing "hymns of hate against England."

THEY ARE MILD HYMNS compared with some produced in the World War. They only advise Hindus to wear homespun, boycott British goods, etc.

What the gods of the Hindus, Parsees and others will think about substituting hymns for morning prayers remains to be seen.

MORE RIOTING and trouble in Egypt, 123 hurt. Egypt is far away and that is hardly news.

In New York, where this is written, the thermometer at the moment stands at 96. Twenty-eight are said to be dead. In some cases other things besides the temperature are to blame. In Ohio the mercury went to 110.

That is very hot for Ohio, but on California's Mojave Desert where the wind blows from the Pacific Ocean, 110 is just a nice alfalfa growing temperature, not too hot for hard work.

THE AMERICAN RESEARCH FOUNDATION announces that this summer $13.72 will feed a family of four for a week, giving all necessary food values and "intriguing summer menus." That may be true in theory, but one writer can testify that to board men working on a farm costs at least $40 a week for four men, and their summer menu is not at all "intriguing."

Braddock Man Found Dead In Home; Rain Brings Relief to Pittsburgh Area

The heat wave claimed another life in Pittsburgh today, but Weatherman Brotzman confidently assured perspiring inquirers that the wave had been broken. He said:

"That warm spell is over. We're going to have cool weather for a while."

Mr. Brotzman predicted that rain, which started at noon, would continue at intervals this afternoon and tonight. And tomorrow the weather will be fair.

DIES IN HOME

The heat victim was Vincent Jakamkvikius, 40, who died in his home at 116 South Seventh street, Braddock. In the morgue report the cause was given as heat prostration.

The thermometer today was bearing out Brotzman's prediction. At 2 p. m. the reading was 75 degrees. At 2 p. m. yesterday it was 95 degrees.

Six deaths and scores of prostrations were listed before this morning's light rain.

The thermometer reached 96 yesterday, three degrees less than Sunday, when the highest mark of the year was recorded. Granville Smith, 28, Negro, of 3027 Spruce way, collapsed in the

CARMEN VOTING TO SAVE JOBS

Whether approximately 300 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company will be furloughed or retained for steady employment will be decided Thursday night at a meeting of trolley car operators. The meeting will follow all-day voting to decide whether the six-day or seven-day week schedule shall be in effect here.

The vote will be announced at the meeting of the carmen, all members of Division No. 85, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, to be held in Plumbers' Building, 1901 Fifth avenue. The vote will be taken throughout the day at all car barns.

If the railway employes vote to accept six days a week, the majority of the 300 men due to be furloughed will be retained.

DAVIS TO RUN ON PINCHOT TICKET

G. O. P. Senatorial Candidate Joins Independent Party Move, Philadelphia Reports

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Reports were current here today that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Republican senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania, will accept a place on the independent ticket to be put into the field for the November election by Gifford Pinchot.

In announcing his decision to run as an independent candidate for governor because of the dispute raised by Francis Shunk Brown, his defeated opponent, over the validity of Pinchot's Republic nomination, the former governor said places on the ticket would be offered to every nominee.

Intimations by a close friend that Davis already has accepted a place on the ticket are expected to be followed here b yannouncement of the decisions of a number of other state nominees.

Most are expected to accept places on the Pinchot slate.

Judge Could Learn, Says Carrol Dancer

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—Faith Bacon, whose fan dance in the Earl Carroll "Vanities" brought her to court with several others, believes that judges' opinions "are the result of experience gained in limited fields."

So she affirmed in an affidavit presented today, asking for a trial by jury. Carroll, Kay Carroll and the comic Jimmy Savo also asked for jury trial on a charge of having taken part in an objectionable performance. Decision was reserved.

'Mercy Killer' Goes To Insane Asylum

WALTON, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Declared insane by a commission of alienists who examined him yesterday, Andrew Beers, 79-year-old "mercy killer" of his daughter, was committed to the Binghamton State Hospital today for an indefinite period by County Judge Andrew J. McNaught.

Brickner, Surgery Editor, Dies at 55

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., July 22.—Eugene Vilelli, who escaped from Dixmont and was being held for shooting at his wife and daughter in an auto with three men Sunday, hanged himself with his belt in the police station here, early today.

Vilelli had been a resident of Anita and a political leader there.

'Paddy' Harmon Dies In Auto Accident

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS.)—"Paddy" Harmon, nationally known sports and boxing promoter, died today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident here this morning.

He formerly operated the Chicago Stadium. When his car skidded near Des Plaines, Ill., and overturned, Mrs. Harmon and Dr. E. Thomas Brand also were badly hurt.

Highest Paid Animal Actor Dies in Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., July 22.—(AP)—Joe Mendi, the chimpanzee that wore clothing, and was said to be the highest paid animal of his kind on the American stage, died last night at the home of his owner, Lou Backenstoe, here. Backenstoe said he recently had rejected an offer of $35,000 for Joe. It was reported here that the chimpanzee was insured for $100,000.

Klan's Fiery Cross Heralds Detroit's Recall Vote

DETROIT, July 22.—(INS.)—The special recall election today, in which the office of Mayor Charles Bowles is at stake, was ushered in by the burning of a fiery cross, the emblem of the Ku Klux Klan, on the steps of City Hall.

The Klan has held mass meetings to announce its opposition to impeachment of the mayor, a reported klansman.

Mrs. Mary Wykowski, 27, a challenger in the Seventeenth ward, fell dead at the polls. Excitement is believed to have caused her death.

The city is tense over the recall issue, with both sides claiming victory.

While Mayor Bowles was in Louisville last May 17, attending the Kentucky Derby, his police commissioner, Harold H. Emmons, ordered raids on race betting establishments. Nearly 300 arrests were made. The Mayor returned and fired Emmons, thereby precipitating the recall move which culminated today in a special election.

Friends of the Mayor have declared Commissioner Emmons "double-crossed" his chief in ordering the raids, and Mayor Bowles said he had intended to discharge Emmons for failure to enforce gambling laws and "fired him in spite of rather than because of" the Derby Day raids.

PASSENGERS IN WILD RUSH

16 Women, Child Among Victims; Glass Shattered In Both Cars; Crew Unhurt

Sixteen women, six men and one child were injured when a Frankstown avenue street car and a Butler street car, both inbound, crashed at Penn avenue and Butler street—"the forks of the road"—this afternoon.

Shrieks went up from the women as the cars collided at the switch. The Butler car pushed the Frankstown car eight feet away from the tracks toward the curb. The Butler car was also derailed, and windows in both cars were smashed.

CONFUSION PREVAILS

Confusion was great at this principal Lawrenceville junction as ambulances and police patrols rushed the injured to St. Francis and West Penn Hospitals.

None of the injured was reported in critical condition, although three or four were reported seriously hurt.

Mrs. Grace Moriarity, who was riding the Frankstown car with her 8-year-old daughter, Esther, and her aunt, Mrs. Mildred McKenna, all of 308 Main street, described the crash:

"I thought we were gone. I was sitting there watching the Butler street car. I wondered which one would get the right of way when all of a sudden they came together. I guess they both got it."

THROWN TO FLOOR

Mrs. McKenna, who suffered a wrenched hip, added:

"My only thought was of little Esther. I turned to grab her and was thrown to the floor."

Betti McLoy, of Travella street, a passenger on the Butler car, said:

"The passengers screamed and tried to rush from the car after thec rash. I was thrown to the floor, but wasn't hurt. I ran

HEAT HELPS TO CURTAIL SESSION

Hoover's Appointees Left Unconfirmed, With Fight Threatened in December

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—After ratifying the London naval treaty by an overwhelming vote and ending its special session, the Senate today joined the House on a vacation to last until the seventy-first Congress reconvenes in December.

Ratification of the pact officially bound the United States, along with Great Britain and Japan, to mutual limitations on the battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers submarines and destroyers.

Proponents of the treaty declared the limitations gave the United States an actual parity with England, and a superiority over Japan, but treaty foes protested the British were given a superiority and Japan parity with America.

FLEE CAPITAL'S HEAT

The tremendous heat wave in Washington, with temperatures soaring over the hundred mark, helped to terminate the special session. The final adjournment came unexpectedly, and administration leaders abandoned fights to procure confirmation of three members, named by President Hoover to the new Federal Power Commission, along with several other lesser nominations.

The Senate adjourned with Democratic spokesmen threatening fights next December against presidential appointments to both the Power Commission and the newly-reorganized Tariff Commission.

The President probably will name recess appointees to the Tariff Commission, but the Federal Power Commission will lie dormant during the summer, because recess appointments will not be in order.

TO CHECK ON NOMINEES

Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, took a parting shot at the administration over the President's failure to name the tariff commissioners while the Senate was in session. He announced that every recess appointee would be "scrutinized from the day he was 21," and that if either Chairman Edgar D. Brossard, of Utah, or Thomas O. Marvin, of Massachusetts, were reappointed, there would be bitter battles waged against their confirmation. He termed both men the "special advocates of special interests."

The three nominations of the President to the Power Commission died because Senators McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, and Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, objected to immediate confirmation.

McKellar said he intended to investigate closely the qualifications of all three appointees, even though they had received unanimous endorsement from the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission.

13 RESERVATIONS LOSE

In all, 13 proposed reservations were defeated, the treaty foes never getting more than 11 votes for any reservation.

The administration's "steamroller" crushed the opposition and the treaty itself was ratified by a vote of 58 to 9. The opponents had five more votes paired against the treaty so their maximum strength totaled 14. They were Senators Bingham, Hale, Johnson, Moses, Oddie, Pine and Robinson, of Indiana, Republicans, and McKellar and Walsh, Massachusetts, Democrats, who voted; and Waterman, Republican, and Brousard, Copeland and Pittman, Democrats; and Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, who were paired against it.

Commons to Take Up Naval Pact at Once

LONDON, July 22.—(AP.)—The House of Commons will proceed immediately with further consideration of the bill for giving effect to the London naval treaty, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald informed the House this afternoon.

Neighbors Save Baby As Father Wields Ax

SCRANTON, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Joseph Elko, 27, of North Scranton, snatched his 5-day-old baby from its crib, early this morning, and taking it into the yard, was about to crush its skull with an ax when neighbors rushed to the baby's rescue, in time to save its life.

KIDNAPING LAID TO ARCH-KILLER

PEORIA, Ill., July 22.—(INS.)—The hand of Fred Burke, wanted throughout the United States as the murderer of 21 men, was seen today in the abduction of William Urban, wealthy sportsman, who was kidnaped yesterday by five men.

Descriptions of one of the gunmen tallied closely with that of Burke, who is wanted for a score of ransoms for abduction in addition to the 21 killings. Burke has also been identified as one of the participants in the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven Chicago gangsters.

More than 200 officers are engaged in the hunt. Although Urban's relatives deny it, authorities believe the kidnapers have demanded a huge ransom. Urban operated a cafe here where a baseball pool has been in operation for several years.

COSTE WAITING ON WEATHER

PARIS, July 22.—(AP.)—Dieudonne Coste was all set today for his trans-Atlantic flight to New York, accompanied by Maurice Bellonte, and is held up now only by unfavorable weather.

Coste and Bellonte have agreed to fly on from New York to Dallas, Tex., if they cross the Atlantic, Col. W. E. Easterwood, Jr., of Dallas, announced today.

Should they carry out their promise, they will receive the $25,000 prize which Easterwood has offered for a Paris-New York-Dallas flight.

The noted airman yesterday finished the last of his trial flights and made final tests of the wireless apparatus. Coste said:

Wins $500 Award When Canaries Die

ATLANTA, Ga., July 22.—(AP.)—S. E. Guess, who once had 88 canaries in his home, is to receive $500 to assuage his grief. A heating plant went wrong and emitted gas that killed all the songsters. The State Court of Appeals upheld a verdict against the man who installed the heater.

3 HURT AS LIFT FALLS 4 FLOORS

Three men were injured, one seriously, today when a freight elevator dropped four floors in a building occupied by the Golden Furniture Company, 1520 Fifth avenue.

They had begun descent from the top floor of the building when the cable snapped, and the heavy carrier plunged to the basement.

The injured are Samuel Golden, 45, of 1412 Fifth avenue, proprietor, suffering severe chest and back injuries; John Pash, 19, of 1511 Fifth avenue, back injured; Robert Lawson, 22, Negro, of 1630 Watson street, chest and head injuries. The two latter are employes.

All were removed to Mercy Hospital.

BOMB PERJURY AIDS BILLINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—While John MacDonald, witness in the San Francisco 1916 Preparedness Day bombing, awaited the opportunity to tell Gov. C. C. Young he had perjured himself, the State Supreme Court yesterday decided to consider a new pardon application of Warren K. Billings, convicted with Thomas Mooney for the outrage.

Gov. Young expected to confer with MacDonald's attorneys today to decide procedure in examining the Baltimore night watchman who came 3,000 miles to refute testimony which helped send Mooney and Billings to prison for life.

In connection with their decision to accept Billings' new plea, the seven justices voted unanimously to have MacDonald appear before the court for questioning. The court previously recommended the governor deny Billings a pardon.

M'CORMICK OUT FOR PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, July 22.—(AP.)—The Harrisburg newspapers controlled by Vance McCormick, former national chairman of the Democratic party, the Patriot and the Evening News, have announced that they will support Gifford Pinchot for governor of Pennsylvania in the November election.

Editorially, the newspapers state that they will not support the program of the Democratic leadership and the Democratic gubernatorial candidate—John M. Hemphill—because of the party's stand for repeal of the state liquor enforcement act. They point out that they refused to support Alfred E. Smith for President because of his position on prohibition.

SUBWAY TIEUP CAUSES PANIC

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—One of the worst tieups in the history of New York's subways today held up thousands of workers in sweltering stations after a car in a seven-coach train was derailed. One woman was injured and panic seized hundreds of passengers until guards quieted them.

Conditions Favor Home Building, Says Coolidge

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 22.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

No one can tell just how high or how low the price of commodities will go. When they are much above the cost of production it is probable they will be cheaper. When they are well below that line probably they will be higher. At the present time the price of most building materials has reached a low level. The savings banks and insurance companies are taking in a great deal of money and interest rates have declined. Labor is seeking employment. Yet residential building has decreased about one-half.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

Present conditions suggest that this is a favorable time to build a home. The future may be better or worse, but the present appears good.

The moral power of the nation rests on the home, the school house and the place of worship. The government looks after education and few churches are overcrowded. But home owners are too few. Good roads, automobiles and transportation, opening large spaces hitherto unavailable, have much increased the opportunity for the people to provide their own homes. The reliable real estate operator can perform a high public service in co-operating with the people to make this a nation of home owners. It would strengthen the whole fabric of society.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

'Let It Rain,' Tree-Sitters Say, Hoisting Umbrellas

"It'll take mor'n a little rain to get us down out of here," Robert Gravely, 9, one of four youngsters staging an "until school starts" tree-sitting contest in the Gravely back yard, 631 Sickles street, announced this morning.

Robert and his brother, James, 14, occupy a platform high up in a cherry tree, while nearby another brother, Lawrence, 11, and a cousin, Sam King, 14, perch among the branches of a locust.

The boys began their sitting contest a week ago today. When rain began falling shortly after midnight, they hoisted their umbrellas, pulled their canvas canopies over them and "just let it rain," one of them told Mrs. Gravely when she placed their breakfasts in buckets which are drawn up to the platforms by ropes.

Paul Roper, 13, of Plum way, Homestead, who was chased from a tree last week by the police, will make another attempt. Tonight he and Ed Thomas, 10, will climb into two big trees in the Thomas yard at 122 West Thirteenth avenue, prepared to while away the hours.

Mother Becomes Tree-Dweller to Get Rest

Mrs. Edwin Knight, however, instead of seeking fame and fortune, is doing it merely to get a rest.

Her son, Daniel, 14, and a neighbor, Walter Lawrence, 15, are among those seeking a tree-sitting record. Knight, the proud father and fond husband, is the only member of the family aground. He is keeping bachelor quarters.

GRACE REVEALS OTHER BIG BONUSES

Bethlehem Vice Presidents Received Large Sums, Merger Hearing Told

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—(AP.)—Attorneys for Cyrus S. Eaton, waging a court battle against the billion dollar merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, completed their probe of Bethlehem bonuses today and launched a quiz into the terms of the merger and the buying of stock to be voted for the merger.

Following the promise of President Eugene G. Grace, of Bethlehem, defense attorneys furnished figures on the bonuses paid to Bethlehem vice presidents during 1929 and the first half of 1930, and they were introduced into evidence by the Eaton attorneys.

LISTS OTHER BONUSES

Grace testified yesterday his own bonus in 1929 was $1,623,753, and for the first half of 1930, $701,968. The bonuses paid to vice presidents for the same periods were:

	1929.	First half, 1930.
Q. Brent	$378,664	$163,701
C. A. Buck	378,664	163,701
J. M. Gross	110,017	47,588
H. E. Lewis	375,784	61,146
R. E. McMath	134,538	58,162
J. H. Ward	54,305	23,477

OTHER OFFICERS

Lewis retired February 28 this year. Other officers who shared in the Bethlehem bonus plan received a total of $370,548 for 1929.

R. E. McMath, financial vice president and secretary of Bethlehem, went to the stand as a "hostile" witness for the plaintiffs.

Attorney Harry J. Crawford, of Eaton counsel, questioned McMath about the $800,000 loan to Pickands, Mather & Co., which was advanced from Bethlehem funds without security.

McMath said he saw nothing wrong in the loan, although Grace called it back in a few days for fear it would be misunderstood by the federal government.

ASKED FOR MONEY

Elton Hoyt, II, of Pickands, Mather & Co., asked for the money, McMath said.

Crawford asked:

"What did he tell you he needed the money for?"

McMath said:

"He left me to infer for what purpose he needed the funds."

Crawford asked:

"Did he tell you he needed it to buy Sheet and Tube stock?"

McMath replied:

"No, but I think he knew that I knew what he thought and for what purpose he needed the money. I, of course, know he was buying stock, keeping in touch with the situation."

After drawing from McMath the statement that he knew H. G. Dalton, a director of Bethlehem, was a partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., Crawford asked him:

"Did you know there is a law in New Jersey prohibiting the loaning of money to a director?"

Bethlehem is a New Jersey corporation.

McMath replied no.

"Did you know it is a penal offense?"

"No."

Scranton Rum Truck Seized Near Shore

ATLANTIC CITY, July 22.—(INS.)—Two men who said they were from Scranton, Pa., a truck bearing the name of the American Trucking Company and 200 cases of what police said was rye and Scotch and champagne, all were seized outside the city limits today. The cargo, police said, was worth $15,000.

Berardino and 2 Cancelliere Brothers Facing Terms In Workhouse; Fined $250

Michael Berardino, New Kensington business man and banker, and two brothers-in-law, John C. Cancelilere, of Stanton avenue, and C. Cancelliere, 929 North Highland avenue, face terms of six months each in the workhouse as the result of the affimation of verdicts brought against them in Allegheny County Criminal Court by the State Superior Court, it was learned today.

The opinions on appeals carried to the higher court were returned in Philadelphia yesterday.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Bernardino was convicted of an attempt to commit felonious assault and battery on the persons of his wife, Margaret Cancelliere Bernardino, Louis Finelli and John C. Cancelliere in an automobile crash in August, 1928.

It was testified at the trial that Bernardino deliberately drove his car into the machine occupied by his wife, her brother and Miss Finelli. The superior court held that Bernardino was actuated by malice.

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Punxsutawney, declared he would file a motion for reargument before the Superior Court and at the same time appeal the decision to the state supreme court.

BROTHERS CONVICTED

The Cancelliere brothers were convicted of assult and battery in an alleged attack upon Berardino and a constable in Pittsburgh in the same month. Berardino charged he was beaten by the brothers when he attempted to regain household goods and other property taken from his home by his wife after she left him.

All the defendants were sentenced to the workhouse and ordered to pay fines of $250 each. They have 10 days in which to appear before the lower court.

through the door, which the conductor finally opened, and then helped thei njured get out."

Observers wso saw the wreck pointed out that neither motorman was able to see the other car until they were close to the switch. The Frankstown car approached the junction from Penn avenue and the other car moved in Butler street.

HER THIRD ACCIDENT

Miss Pancy Bryan, 18, of 5058 Monticello street, recently selected as alternate to Miss Pittsburgh in the national beauty contest, was in the Frankstown avenue car on her way to appear in the Stanley Theater when the accident occurred.

She said:

"It all happened so quickly I didn't know what had occurred. When it was over I found myself on the floor with glass all around me. I didn't feel hurt and I wanted to continue on to the theater, but they made me come to the hospital. I am used to accidents by now, though. This is my third."

Miss Bryan, who suffered slightly from shock, was permitted to leave the hospital after an X-ray examination and she started for the theater.

The conductors, Everett McKnight and John Calvin, were unhurt.

Anna May Brangwinne, 18, of 4917½ Dearborn street, a passenger on the Frankstown avenue car, blamed the crash on the Butler street car motorman. She said:

"The motorman on the Frankstown car rang and rang, but the Butler street car didn't seem to want to stop. The Butler street car came into the tracks and they crashed head-on."

Thomas Fitzgerald, general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways, said that an investigation was under way and promised an explanation of the crash.

LOTTERY VICTIM'S FUNERAL

Carrying the coffin of Antonio Bancale, retired Italian, broken and driven to suicide by the clearing house lottery racket, into St. Peter's Church today for his church's rites.

LOTTERY VICTIM BURIED

County detectives continued their search today for Hill district operators of the "clearing house pool" that caused the loss of savings to Antonio Bancale, 64, of Dawson and Wilmot streets, who ended his life Saturday.

While first arrests were awaited, funeral services were conducted for Bancale, with a requiem mass in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Fernando street, and burial at Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

The date for the coroner's inquest into Bancale's death in a North Side park, has not yet been set. District Attorney Andrew Park awaited reports of county detectives ordered to investigate the pool operations in the Hill district.

Meantime, arrests still were awaited on the cleanup order of Inspector Albert Beebe, of the First Police district. Two plain-clothesmen in addition to his regular force, received orders yesterday to cleanup the number racketeers.

Bancale was known to have placed his money with Hill district writers.

While detectives were handicapped by the secrecy Bancale had thrown around his gambling on "numbers," in playing with cash and failing to keep record of any checks issued. Payment of the last check was stopped by the family. This check, for $60.26, was played Saturday and the numbers it backed failed to win.

The Rev. Francis Oppici, pastor of St. Peter's Church, of which Bancale was a member, yesterday deplored the widespread increase in "number" gambling and urged authorities to wipe out the condition before it becomes too serious.

Portugal Honors New Brazil Ruler

LISBON, Portugal, July 22.—(AP.)—This capital was attired in gala dress today in honor of President-elect Prestes, of Brazil, whose homeward bound ship, the Arlanza, dropped anchor for a short call. Public officials greeted the Brazilian.

MILLS HERE GET RECORD ORDER

National Tube Plants to Turn Out 1,400-Mile Pipe Line To Cost $12,000,000

The National Tube Company has been awarded the contract for 75,000 tons of pipe for a gasoline line to be built by the newly-formed Great Lakes Pipe Line Company.

The greater part of the order, requiring 1,400 miles of 4, 6 and 8-inch pipe, will be made in plants in this district. Production will be started at once. The first pipe will be laid next month.

LARGEST LINE

The line will be the largest built for the exclusive transportation of gasoline. Its cost has been estimated at $12,000,000. The Great Lakes Pipe Line Company is controlled by the Continental Oil Company and the Barnsdall Corportion.

An eight-inch line will extend from the Barnsdall (Okla.) refinery, with spur lines to the plant of the Continental Oil Company at Ponca City and that of Barnsdall at Okmulgee, to Des Moines, Ia. From this point it will reach to Council Bluffs, Omaha, St. Paul and Minneapolis. A six-inch line will be laid from Des Moines to Chicago and a four-inch extension from Chicago to Milwaukee.

DISTRIBUTING STATIONS

It is proposed to build distributing stations along the line at intervals of 58 or 60 miles. At these points gasoline will be drawn off and delivered by trucks to points within a radius of 50 miles. The lines have a capacity of 30,000 barrels daily.

SEARCH ON FOR 8 GIRLS' PRISON

WEST COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., July 22.—(INS.)—A lonely house in the woods, out of which has come a story of nine girls held captive by three youths, was the object of a search by detectives today.

The story, police said, was told hysterically by Ruth Kuhnell, 14, who disappeared near her home here Sunday night and reappeared early today. She told police three young men had leaped out of bushes and overpowered and gagged her. They dragged and carried her a quarter of a mile through the fields to an automobile.

The men drove to a lonely house, according to the police version of the girl's story, and there she found eight other girls, all held captive. She was held until early today, she said, when the three men drove her to a point a mile from her home and threw her out.

New Yorker Robbed And Slain in Canada

PORT CREDIT, Ont., July 22.—(AP.)—Philip G. Rumbold, of Tonawanda, N. Y., was found slain in his automobile near here today. He apparently had been beaten to death with a hammer, also strangled with a rope which was around his neck.

N. Y. Broker's Wife Given Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., July 22.—(INS.)—Charging that her husband, Philip Sands Graham, said to be a New York broker, often threw things at her in a violent temper, Mrs. Eleanor Belmont Graham today had been granted a divorce and $500 monthly alimony for support of herself and child. The complaint charged that Graham once hurled a night lamp at his wife.

Fishing Stream in W. Va. Quarantined

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 22.—(AP.)—Marshall County health authorities established a quarantine against bathing in Fish Creek, famous bass fishing stream today. Tests have shown typhoid and malaria germs abound, it was explained. The creek is extremely low at most points.

Cannon on Honeymoon, Bound for Madeira

LONDON, July 22.—(INS.)—Honeymooning aboard the steamship Arlanza, Madeira-bound, today were Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Mrs. Cannon, the former Mrs. Helen H. McCallum.

From Madeira the couple will continue to Brazil before returning to the United States. The wedding was performed secretly on July 15 at Christ Church here, under a special license.

Mrs. Cannon, who gave her address as New York, has been Bishop Cannon's secretary for nearly a year. She is between 40 and 45 years old. She preceded Bishop Cannon to England as guest of Sir Henry and Lady Lunn, where she planned to rest until Bishop Cannon's arrival and his subsequent return to America.

The wedding, it was believed, was hastened when Mrs. Cannon was advised that an ocean trip would be beneficial to her health. Hurried plans were then made for the wedding.

Bishop Cannon's first wife died about two years ago. He is noted for his prohibition crusades and was a bitter opponent of Alfred E. Smith as Democratic presidential nominee in 1928.

WIFE, BROTHER AID SUSPECT IN GIRL KILLING

Relatives Say They Can Prove Campbell Innocent of Capital Murder Charge

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—The wife and brother of Herbert Campbell, Virginia real estate operator, who was charged last night with the murder of Mary Baker, came to his aid today, claiming they could prove his innocence.

The arrest of Campbell early today after six hours of uninterrupted questioning by Washington and Virginia police, came as a sudden turn in the three-months' search for the slayer of the young Navy Department clerk.

As he was led to the Arlington County (Va.) jail, Campbell denied he killed Miss Baker. Police had quoted him as saying earlier, dict, "You have enough on me to indict, convict and electrocute me."

prominent Arlington County busi-

His brother, Frank Campbell, ness man, said he had investigated and knew that his brother was innocent.

Miss Baker disappeared from downtown Washington on an April afternoon, and her body was found next day in a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery.

1 KILLED AS GAS TANKS EXPLODE

ROCK ISLAND, Ia., July 22.—(AP.)—A man was killed and another burned in an explosion of six gasoline storage tanks at an oil company's yards here last night. Fred Yappen, 35, son of the owner of the company, was the victim, and Fred Stubbe, about the same age, suffered burns on his right arm and back.

The explosions, which continued at intervals of several minutes as the flaming liquid spread from one tank to another, shook the town. Pieces of the tanks were blown 300 feet.

Four dwellings close by caught fire and were destroyed.

FLIER SAVES CARGO, DIES

Empties Gasoline Tank While Ship Falls, Prevents Fire; Farmer Discovers Body

HURON, O., July 22.—(AP.)—William Frederick Martin, 26, of Bay City, Mich., flying the air mail from East to West for the Thompson Aeronautical Corporation, was killed early today when his Pitcairn plane crashed two miles west of here.

The crash is believed to have occurred about 4:30 a. m. The plane fell on the farm of George Beatty, who said he heard a crash at that hour, but disregarded it. An hour later when he went into the field he discovered the plane.

PLANE CRUMPLED

It was crumpled as if it had been squeezed between two huge hands. There was no blaze and no odor of gasoline. The pilot's parachute was in its pack. The body was crushed in the cockpit.

Jack Parker, manager of the Parker air field at Sandusky, who accompanied Coroner A. Grierson, said he believed Martin had dumped his gasoline as he fell to prevent the mail from burning.

The fog and rain is believed to have caused the accident.

WEATHER BLAMED

CLEVELAND, July 22.—(INS.)—A freak of nature that caused the flying "ceiling" to drop 2,500 feet in an hour was believed by aviators here today to have been responsible for the death crash of William Frederick Martin, 26, of Pontiac, Mich., air mail pilot, near Huron, O., this morning.

Martin received his last weather report at 3 a. m., today, officials here stated. At that time the "ceiling" was 2,700 feet. An hour later the "ceiling" fell to 200 feet, but Martin had taken off in the meantime from the Cleveland municipal airport without knowing the changed weather conditions.

The National Air Transport mail plane Chicago, which took off a short time before Martin, was forced down at Vickery, O., until weather conditions became better.

HEAR REPORTER IN GANG QUIZ

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS.)—Larry T. Brundidge, a reporter for the St. Louis Star, went before the grand jury today to amplify the charges of racketeering he has made against Chicago newspapermen in connection with the Lingle murder investigation.

Meanwhile, gangland guns today had claimed another victim.

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—Peter (Ash Can Pete) Inserio, whose North Elizabeth street saloon used to be called the "Ash Can Club," was shot to death last night.

Six bullets entered his body.

At a hospital, before he died, a policeman asked who shot him.

"I don't know," he answered, "but they made a good job."

Rattlers Scarce, Students May Go Hungry

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 22.—If reports of huckleberry pickers in mountainous sections of Centre County are correct, the Rattlesnake Club of the State College forestry students, now encamped in the Seven Mountains, may have to forego its annual feast of fried rattlers. So far not a single report of a rattler having been seen or killed has been received.

The scarcity of rattlers in the mountains will also interfere with the occupation of a few old-time woodsmen in the Alleghenies, who are reported as still engaging in the hunt of rattlers for their oil and skins, which are said to bring good prices when used in alleged remedies for rheumatism.

Court Voids Wedding Of Girl to Japanese

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Annulment of the marriage of Catherine Penxa, 13, and Harry S. Tanno, a Japanese of 28, was ordered here by Judge W. A. Valentine in Luzerne County Court.

The matter came up in the form of an equity suit, brought by the girl's mother. Judge Valentine held the marriage was illegal because of the girl's youth.

When securing the license, she said she was 21.

Boats Hurled 100 Feet During Storm

SEASIDE PARK, N. J., July 22.—(AP.)—A freak storm lasting less than five minutes struck this place last night and did damage estimated at more than $50,000.

Boats were lifted from Barnegat Bay and dropped a hundred feet inland. Awnings were torn from houses and porch furniture carried away.

16 PLANES OFF TO CINCINNATI

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 22.—(INS.)—Sixteen planes hopped off here today for Cincinnati on the third leg of the all-American air derby.

Inclement weather conditions and poor visibility caused a delay of several hours in the take-off.

The planes took off at short intervals apart and were headed by the Little Rocket, piloted by Lee Gehlback, of Little Rock, Ark., who came in first yesterday.

From Cincinnati the planes will go to Little Rock, Houston, San Angelo, Tex.; Douglas, Ariz.; Los Angeles, Ogden, Lincoln, Chicago and back to Detroit, where the 5,520-mile jaunt stated yesterday.

Around-Europe Flier Killed by Propeller

HESTON, Middlesex, England, July 22.—(AP.)—Ill-fortune caught up with the around-Europe air races here today when Mechanic von Redern, of the German plane piloted by H. E. von Oertzen, was struck in the head and killed by a propeller blade.

This was the first serious mishap of the flight, which started from Germany on Monday.

Hurled Inkwell Cuts Head of Wrong Man

Nicola Varrati, 26, of 1329 Woodbine street, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital with a deep gash in his head today when he was struck with an inkwell during an argument in the McGeagh Building, according to police.

The inkwell was aimed, police were told, by Fred Antignan, 41, of 1329 Woodbine street, at B. D. Margan, 36, of 607 Webster avenue, but Margan ducked and it struck Varrati. All were charged with disorderly conduct.

BRIDE KILLED BY INTRUDER

BALTIMORE, July 22.—(AP.)—Shot five times, once in the back of the neck, the unclothed body of Mrs. Evelyn Dix, 41, bride of a few months, was found in bed at a rooming house here.

The murder was believed to have been committed by a man who drove up to the house a few minutes before the shooting and gained entrance by climbing in a window on the first floor.

A man with whom, police said, she had quarreled during the day was arrested.

WALKER WARNS N. Y. OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker has warned city department heads that corruption, irregularity and dishonesty will not be tolerated in his administration.

The warning was uttered in an address to executives and deputies of the city's 38 departments, which was broadcast over three radio systems last night.

The mayor defended his regime against charges of scandal, and accused state Republicans, who have been demanding a Legislative inquiry into the affairs of the city, of attempting to drag the city's name in the mud because they lack an issue for the fall campaign.

Weather Conditions.

A trough of low pressure extends from the Far Northwest southwestward over the Ohio Valley area and the southern States to a center in the Gulf of Mexico. The southeastern high remained nearly stationary and the southwestern high extended southeastward to the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains. Generally fair weather prevailed over the Great Lakes region, the Ohio Valley states and the Lake region, but only a few localities in Northern Ohio and Southern Michigan received appreciable rainfall. Thunderstorms occurred in many places in the Ohio Valley states and the Lake region, but only a few localities in Northern Ohio and Southern Michigan received appreciable rainfall to break the severe drought. The temperature changes were nowhere severe.

Aviation Bulletin.

The skies are overcast nearly everywhere east of the Mississippi, ceiling 400 to 4,000 feet, and thunderstorms are in progress at scattered places. Visibility ranges from one to seven miles, the lower being at Pittsburgh where a thunderstorm was in progress. The wind is light from the Southwest to West.

Thunderstorms will occur over Ohio and Western Pennsylvania this afternoon and this night, followed by fair weather Wednesday.

WHEAT CONTROL FOES SCORED

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, says opposition to the board's wheat policy is "political bunk" of "the same kind" that put the farmer in his present unfavorable economic position.

In a statement published today, he said he was fighting in the open and not hiding behind President Hoover. He added he would make a report to the chief executive soon on the progress of the board's campaign for a reduced wheat acreage.

"The farm board," he said, "was created to assist the farmer and not for politics. The farmer's problem is an economic one that will never be solved by political remedies.

"The President has not interfered with our program and we have gone ahead sawing wood. I expect to report to him soon on the acreage reduction campaign, but I am not hiding being behind his skirts."

Legge said he was prepared to tell Mr. Hoover he expected cooperation in the acreage reduction program from the farmers of every state in the winter wheat belt. He described the purpose of the campaign as to show the farmer he must reduce production or accept a lower price for his wheat.

Ex-Justice of Peace Murdered in Florida

LAKE CITY, Fla., July 22.—(AP.)—W. L. Farris, alias Bill Rogers, said to have once been a justice of the peace in Chicago, is dead—his body riddled with bullets—and today authorities are searching for two unidentified men who went to his filling station Saturday night and fired on him without warning or explanation.

A telegram from a woman who described herself as his wife was received by officials today asking that the body be sent to Cleveland, O., for burial.

No motive for the slaying has been disclosed.

Armed Gang Takes Rum Worth $80,000

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS.)—Seven overall-clad men who posed as warehouse workers and $80,000 worth of rum they carted off in a raid on the Continental Warehouse were being sought by police today.

The men, carrying sawed-off shotguns, invaded the stockyards warehouse last night, herded 14 employes into an office, loaded 40 barrels of liquor on a truck and escaped. Two of the hijackers fought a running gun battle with a special policeman.

SUES TO REGAIN ACTRESS' RINGS

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 22.—(AP.)—An action charging W. R. Coy, former Laguna Beach banker, with concealing a portion of the estate of Adele Ritchie Post, two decades ago "The Dresden Doll" of the stage, has been filed by Moresby White, executor.

White claimed Coy had declined to answer his letters inquiring if he possessed valuable rings which belonged to the actress. He asked the Superior Court to summon Coy for an explanation.

HOOVER WELDS VET AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—President Hoover has issued an executive order consolidating the Veterans' Bureau, the Bureau of Pensions and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

The order followed closely the confirmation by the Senate of Brig. Gen. Hines as head of the consolidated veterans administration authorized by Congress recently.

Indian Madman Kills Woman, Man, Self

HONG KONG, July 22.—(AP.)—An Indian constable went mad last night at Lokmachau police station on the Kowloon-Kwangtung frontier, killing with a rifle the wife of Sergt. Madgwicks, in charge of the post, and fatally wounding a fellow Indian. Then the madman barricaded himself in a room and poured out machine gun bullets at 50 European sergeants who had hastened from Hong Kong. When he ceased firing the sergeants found him dead, a bullet in his head.

ARCHDUKE TIRES OF JAIL FARE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—Archduke Leopold, of Austria, who recently went to jail voluntarily in the hope his presence in prison would speed his trial in connection with the sale of a diamond necklace, today was attempting to arrange his release on bond. He was informed by the district attorney that he must wait until October for trial.

The archduke is accused of assisting in the sale of a necklace belonging to the Archduchess Marie Therese, of Austria, and originally the gift of Napoleon to his bride. The archduchess charged the circlet was sold without her consent for a sum much less than its worth. Leopold was accused of getting a commission on the sale.

Bridge Club Bars Women—'Gamblers'

LAWRENCE, N. Y., July 22.—(AP.)—Because it is feared women would play for high stakes, they are unacceptable as members of the Peninsula Bridge Club, a new organization. It is strictly stag, and play for money is forbidden.

4 MINERS CUT IN LOAN FIGHT

Three men were in Allegheny General Hospital today and county detectives were looking for another as a result of a free-for-all cutting affray in Cheswick late last night. All are coal miners.

Those in the hospital gave their names as Mike Gurinch, 53, of Cheswick, and John Kenny, 27, and Steve Kruhenk, 42, of Wildwood. Gurinch was said to be in a serious condition. A fourth man, treated by a docter in Cheswick, eluded police.

Gurinch told County Detective Philip Goldberg that Kenny, whom he knew only slightly, called at his home and asked for a loan of $15 to pay a taxicab bill. When Gurinch refused, he said, Kenny started a fight which involved two other men visiting in the house.

NOW WHICH BABY IS WHICH MOTHER'S?

MRS. CHARLES BAMBERGER MRS. WILLIAM WATKINS DR. ARNOLD REEGAL

Mrs. Watkins with the baby she says isn't hers, but really Mrs. Bamberger's, who won't believe it though the Chicago hospital and physicians are convinced there was a mistake. So now blood-tests of parents and both few-days-old babies will settle this dispute.

Seven Scientists Weigh 'Which Baby' Problem

CHICAGO, July 22.—(INS.)—Seven specialists in the world of science were to meet in conference today to try to work out a method by which two sets of distracted parents can distinguish the infants Bamberger and Watkins.

The squad of experts who will perform tests on the parents and babies included an anthropologist, a dermatologist, a pathologist, two crime detectors, an obstetrician and an ophthalmologist. Solution of the mixup that has thrown Englewood Hospital into an excited turmoil will be difficult, they admit, because there is no precedent.

Each of the experts will perform independent tests. Skin samples of the babies and parents will be taken and studied chemically for pigment distribution, racial characteristics and hereditary transmissions.

There are, according to the experts, minute similarities in fingerprint convolutions and hair thicknesses which may furnish evidence as to which infant belongs to Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins and which to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger.

The infants were born on the same afternoon in the same department of Englewood Hospital and through some error, the baby thought to belong to the Watkins family was affixed with a tag "Bamberger" and the supposed Bamberger child was found to bear a tag labeled "Watkins."

County Buys McGovern $4,300 Automobile

The county commissioners today bought a new $4,300 Packard sedan for Comissioner C. C. McGovern, and a $1,163 delousing machine for the guests at the county jail.

McGovern said:

"Seems to me we need voting machines more than delousing machines."

McGovern's friends may not be able to recognize the rebellious commissioner in his new car. His old one brought only $200 in the trade-in.

That's the one which McGovern and his predecessors drove 145,000 miles. McGovern parted with it reluctantly when the county repairmen said repairs would cost more than the car was worth.

Because he is out of the city, Commissioner Armstrong lost the opportunity to join in presenting McGovern with the new vehicle.

McGovern and Commissioner Babcock also voted to buy a Hupmobile, worth $2,794, from the Perry garage for District Attorney Park and a $520 Ford truck from the Miller Motor Company for the county parks.

LANDING AT SEA PREPARED FOR IN PARIS HOP

By GEORGE R. HUTCHINSON,
Famous Aviator Who Plans to Fly From New York to Paris Shortly.

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—To prepare scientifically for a flight from New York to Paris one must take every possible occurrence into consideration.

First, of course, come the plans for the trip itself—gasoline consumption, lifting ability with a heavy load, durability, power, speed——

Secondly, the route over which the plane will pass and methods of ascertaining whether or not the ship is on that route.

Thirdly, what to do if by chance the plane comes down in the middle of the ocean.

CRAFT LOOKS GOOD

My Lockheed ship is now ready to take the air for its first flight. The engineers are satisfied with it. It looks good to me. We shall see.

Next will come minor tests by the factory pilots for the above-mentioned items.

Then I will give it the test on which I will base judgment for the trans-Atlantic hop.

It will be a long flight—perhaps non-stop—from Los Angeles to New York, if possible.

And it will be done with a capacity load—a burden of 700 gallons of gasoline and 35 gallons of oil.

If tailwinds help, who knows but that we may even break Hawks' record for a starter? But we will try for no records—only for a complete test of the ship.

Thus, with this 2,600-mile flight as a laboratory test, the longer flight across the Atlantic will be merely a further step. By the trans-continental flight, it will be possible to determine exactly how much fuel the ship requires, find out how much is left after 2,600 miles, see if the remainder is enough to make up the difference on a flight to Paris, and to know the actual speed under flight conditions.

Then, by leaving Los Angeles on July 21 or a day later, it will be possible for me to be ready for the longer jaunt at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, two days later—with a tentative take-off date on July 24 for Europe!

PREPARES FOR TROUBLE

The only real hazard as I can see it will be to take off with the 700 gallon load here at Los Angeles. If that can be accomplished without trouble, there is no reason why the ship cannot do the same with the same load at Roosevelt Field.

In case of any trouble I have made provisions whereby I can float until picked up.

Assume, for instance, that over mid-ocean a landing becomes necessary.

First the entire gasoline load will be dumped instantaneously through a special arrangement of drain cocks.

Then for a landing atop the waves.

The great tanks containing the gas will stand up for many days. Full of air, they will be more than enough to keep me up.

Then, the radio that will serve for communication with ships on the way across would be called into play to notify rescuers of my position.

One can live only five days at the most without water, but a man can live about eight weeks on 16 ounces of water a day, even if there is no food.

So I am taking one of those respiration condensers that furnishes about 16 ounces a day—if necessary.

HOPES TO BETTER TIME

I hope to get there in less than 24 hours—some 10 or more hours faster than did Lindbergh.

The factors will be similar—one man, one plane, one engine, but of course the plane will be more modern, the engine will be more powerful, and the man will have the advantage of being able to look back at Col. Lindbergh's trip as a standard for his calculations.

My little girls—Janet Lee, 4, and Blanche Catherine, 8, both with more than 100 hours in the air on trips with me and their mother—said to me before I came to Los Angeles:

"Daddy, don't take too long in crossing that ol' ocean, 'cause we'll be waiting with mother for you in Paris. Please hurry so we can have a good time over there!"

Do you think that I could possibly land anywhere but at Le Bourget after that appeal!

Details of the actual flight and of the results of this trans-oceanic experiment will be published in my stories after the trip.

Modern Methuselah Ignores Heat Wave

NEW YORK, July 22.—While New Yorkers complained of the intense heat, Zaro Agha, the Turk who claims to be 156, today refused cooling drinks and did his daily dozen on a hotel roof.

The secret of the aged man's visit to America is out, too. He is a Trader Horn, no less, and plans to write a book here and sell millions of copies.

Flier Keeps Cool Five Miles in Air

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 22.—(AP.)—Boris Sergievsky, aviator, knows how to get cool. Perspiring, he taxied his amphibian plane on the water, and then climbed five miles and shivered. "It was so cold up there," he said, "that ice formed on my windshield."

QUARRY OF DEATH FOR 3

QUARRY POND INTO WHICH THREE CHILDREN WERE THROWN

Taylor Hott, 34, out-of-work Martinsburg (W. Va.) man has confessed to police that he garrotted his three children, aged 5, 6 and 7, and threw their bodies into this abandoned quarry pond.

street in front of his home late in the evening as a result of the heat. He was reported in a serious condition today in St. Francis Hospital.

WATER AMPLE

Light showers last night and early today downtown and in outlying districts brought but slight relief.

Hundreds sought relief in parks, following announcement by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh that he would open the parks to all those who wished to sleep there.

Denying reports that the city faced a water shortage, Edward G. Lang, director of Public Works, said:

"We have no shortage of water in the city, except on the higher points, and even in these sections we have sufficient water to take care of the ordinary domestic consumption, if the use of lawn sprinklers is discontinued during this extreme drought.

"All reservoirs are practically full, which assures us a supply of 420,000,000 gallons. We want the public to co-operate with us so that those living in the high districts will not suffer from lack of water."

Mt. Lebanon is co-operating with the city and the water companies in the conservation of the water supply. Yesterday the Community Association called on its members and other residents to refrain from sprinkling lawns and to otherwise curtail the consumption of water until relief is forthcoming.

EUROPE IN GRIP OF COLD, RAIN

LONDON, July 22.—(AP.)—While the United States is panting from a pronounced heat wave, great Britain is experiencing one of the most unusual summer cold spells in years.

It was colder here last night than for ordinary nights in November, the thermometer on Hampstead Heath dropping to 45 degrees.

At 10 o'clock this morning the temperature in central London was only 55. Torrential rains have fallen in eastern England.

PARIS, July 22.—(INS.)—Rainy weather, in some cases damaging to crops, has persisted from here to the Azores the past week, the meteorological office announced today. The rainfall in France for the month of July so far has nearly achieved a record, with further downpours in prospect.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 22.—(INS.)—While North America sweltered, Chile and the Argentine shivered. Heavy snows 44 miles from here have caused the death of four persons.

FATHER ADMITS HE STRANGLED 3 CHILDREN

Meant Also to Kill Himself But Lost His Nerve; Lays Tragedy to Wife's Neglect

By E. P. O'BRIEN,
Staff Correspondent.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 22.—Taylor Hott, 34, a day laborer, has signed a confession that he killed his three children, Gertrude, 7; Calvin, 6, and Floyd, 5. He said he strangled them because their mother would not care for them.

He is believed mentally deranged and was examined last night by four doctors, who are to make their report on his condition today.

Arrested yesterday after the bodies of the three children, found submerged in an abandoned stone quarry a mile south of Martinsburg, had been identified, Hott was questioned by police and admitted the crime.

Taken to the scene of the tragedy, Hott led police down the path, over which on Sunday he took the trio of trustful youngsters to their death.

In his confession he declared:

"I intended to jump in and drown myself after I had killed them, but I lost my nerve on the way to their doom."

CUT HIS FOOT ON STONE

Calvin, the older boy, cut his foot on a sharp stone. He picked up a piece of cloth lying in the pathway and asked his father to tie up his bleeding foot. It was this cloth, Hott said, that he used to strangle them. A strip of the cloth was tied tightly around the neck of each child when the bodies were discovered by four boys.

It was at first believed the children had fallen into the water and drowned. Removal of the bodies, however, disclosed the garottes with which Hott had choked the life out of his children. The bodies were in shallow water at the end of the abandoned quarry, a gigantic limestone pit 600 feet long and 200 feet wide, fed by springs.

The Hott family has been almost destitute. They live in a hovel on the outskirts of Martinsburg.

Hott was committed to jail without bond, to be held for action by the October grand jury.

Long, Cool Drinks And Light Garb Heat Remedies

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—Surgeon General Cumming of the United States Public Health Service today prepared a hot weather comfort prescription with 10 ingredients:

Dress as lightly as possible.
Imbibe long, cool drinks.
Keep your temper.
Keep windows closed.
Use discretion in getting out of the heat.
Keep the spinal cord protected; wear hats outdoors.
Use discretion about work and exercise in the heat.
Eat what you please, but don't overeat.
Guard against infected food.
Be discreet, physically, mentally, emotionally.

TRI-STATE HEAT TOLL HEAVY

In the tri-state district the heat took a heavy toll. Frank Patterson, 52, shot himself at Franklin because of illness aggravated by the heat, and W. O. Tillson, 56, died at Greenville after being prostrated.

Irene Gearhardt, 12, who, with her sister, Ruth, sought relief from the heat in the Conemaugh River, near Blairsville, drowned after she fell from a barrel on which they were floating.

Mrs. Celestial Cutchall, 79, was stricken while riding in an automobile with her son, Jerry Cutchall, of Oil City, near Cochranton.

Stricken with convulsions superinduced by the heat, Francis G., 5, son of Ray Mineard, of Beaver Falls, died in the Beaver Valley Hospital.

Felice Procacci, 32, of Midland, drowned in the Beaver Creek, near Smith's Ferry.

Hot Wave Helps Zoo Break Tiger's Fast

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—The weather has solved a problem at Central Park Zoo. For 10 days a Malay tiger refused to eat. Then it became so warm that she evidently thought she was in her native jungle. On the hottest day for years she broke her fast with raw meat.

Heat Kills Veteran Porter Aboard Train

GRAFTON, W. Va., July 22.—(AP.)—John Boston, 75, for more than 50 years a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad porter, dropped dead last night on train No. 4, operating between Parkersburg and Grafton. Death was attributed to the heat.

Hellespont Swum By 21 U. S. Students

ISTANBUL, July 22.—(AP.)—Twenty-one American students have swum the Hellespont like Byron. As a reward they have sprigs of laurel from the gardens of Mrs. Henry Bacon, widow of an American architect.

U. S. HOT SPELL BREAKS, 50 DIE

International News Service.

With more than 50 dead in its wake, the backbone of the three-day heat wave which swept the nation almost from coast to coast, was broken today.

Cooling showers in the Middle West and breezes early today along the Atlantic seaboard indicated that the searing heat was taking at least a temporary departure, International News Service dispatches showed.

Rain has fallen in Missouri, Iowa and other sections of the Middle West; winds broke the hot waves in the Chicago area and light winds fanned baked New Yorkers this morning, although any great relief was not promised for the New York area until this evening.

14 DIE IN NEW YORK

Fourteen persons were dead, either by heat or drowning in New York with the mercury reaching 99. Parks were opened to parched New Yorkers and in many offices workers were sent home.

Fifteen deaths were reported in Chicago before the mercury dropped.

Temperatures reached 103 in Washington and some government offices closed.

Cleveland reported three deaths and 13 drownings; in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia 26 persons died with readings of 112 degrees in West Virginia. Three persons died in Baltimore, 10 in the Philadelphia area, and there were four heat deaths and eight drownings in St. Louis.

Boston, parts of the Rockies and the Pacific coast escaped the terrific blasts of the sun.

At Plainfield, N. J., a government weather observer reported 102 degrees in the shade. Tomato and berry crops in New Jersey have been damaged by the hot weather and in the midwest grain crops were burned up in some sections.

Maryland officials estimated almost half of summer crops had been ruined. Wells were reported dried up in that state.

Detroit Editor Dies of Heat Prostration

DETROIT, July 22.—(INS.)—The death of Philip J. Reid, 65, retired journalist and former managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, was attributed to the intense heat by doctors today.

Reid, a graduate of Brown University at Providence, R. I., and one-time reporter for the Providence Journal, died suddenly late last night. Although he had been in failing health, doctors said that the high temperatures caused him to succumb.

Fear Water Dearth In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(INS.)—A water famine confronted Philadelphia today as the terrific heat wave continued unabated, leaving a toll of 12 dead in its wake in this district. The mercury reached 103.

Motor squads of police were sent throughout the city to shut off hydrants and scores of persons, including many children, disporting under open fireplugs, were arrested.

Pattern 1991
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A flared skirt attached in points, and a graceful cape collar pointed back and front are important features of this delightful summer frock. The lines are decidedly slenderizing, a welcome bit of information for the woman who is no longer slim. There are sleeves with the pattern

Pattern 1991 makes up beautifully in sheer cotton or silk . . . voile, georgette, swiss, batiste, lawn, organdie, flat crepe, etc. Dark grounds dotted or figured in light tones are very popular this season, and becoming to every figure. Blue and beige, brown and tan, black and turquoise, black and rose, are just a few suggestions you may care to look over.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 5⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

GERMAN POLICE BATTLE REDS

FRANKFORT-ON-ODER, Germany, July 22.—(AP.)—The police of this city, in a clash with several thousand Communists last night barely managed to hold their own. A number of Communists were injured.

The Communists had staged a meeting attended by their local following and 1,700 out-of-town sympathizers. They attempted to surround and disarm police stationed to watch the meeting.

The riot squad which was hastily summoned was attacked with flag poles and clubs. When the police retaliated with blackjacks, the Communists bombarded them with stones, bottles, beer mugs and other objects.

It was not until the police started to use firearms that the Communists ceased their attacks.

NARRAGANSETT HOTEL BURNS

NARRAGANSETT, R. I., July 22.—(AP.)—The four-story Surf Hotel, rambling wooden structure on the famous resort's main street, was destroyed by fire.

The majority of the guests were on the beach bathing when the fire started. They lost personal effects.

The fire is believed to have been caused by the explosion of an oil stove on the ground floor. Firemen from surrounding villages were called to prevent the blaze from igniting the dry roofs of neighboring structures, among them exclusive hotels.

INDIANS BEGIN SUN DANCE

POCATELLO, Ida., July 22.—(AP.)—To the monotonous throbbing of tomtoms, half a hundred Indians of the Bannock, Shoshone and Lemhi tribes began their annual devotions to the sun god.

The young braves will continue their measured stamping for 72 hours, or until hunger and fatigue compel them to drop out.

While the older men and children look on, the squaws will alternate at the drums, encouraging the young braves. At the close of the dance the tribesmen will join in a feast.

INDICT BANKERS IN FRAUD CASE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Sixteen former officials of three Long Island banks and a Brooklyn security company and a New Jersey note broker were charged with mail fraud and misappropriation of funds in 20 indictments returned by a federal grand jury.

The four leading figures in the alleged conspiracy, by which the banks were looted of an estimated $500,000 through forged notes, are W. Douglass Miller, note broker, of Tenafly, N. J.; William H. Siebrecht, Jr., former president of the Long Island National Bank of Astoria; William Douglass Mott, former president of the Bellport National Bank and the Bellport Securities Corporation, and Albert R. Hansen, former president of the Elmhurst National Bank, of Elmhurst.

Assistant Federal Attorney Wilkinson said the three banks had been reorganized and their losses with the exception of $8,000, recovered.

Watermelons Yield Water for Arid Community

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 22.—So dry is Wiley Hill, North Sewickley Township, due to the drought, that citizens depend on watermelons for their drinking water and take their baths in the Connoquenessing Creek. Cisterns and wells have gone dry. Residents haul water from Ellwood City.

RIVER SURVEY FUND VOTED

COLUMBUS, O., July 22.—(AP.)—The State Board of Control approved an application for $10,000 to finance a survey of the Ohio River and its tributaries within the state with a view to maintaining navigable stages.

The survey will be made in cooperation with the Federal Government. Plans for the survey are to be completed by the board Saturday.

Woman Kills Self To Join Mate In Death

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—Mrs. Mabel Hammond, 54, is dead of bullet wounds self-inflicted July 11. Seated in the chair where on April 11, three months before, her husband had died, Mrs. Hammond shot herself. She had been in a hospital since then.

Before firing the shot, she called Mrs. E. V. Potts, her best friend, asking her to come to spend the evening. When Mrs. Potts arrived, she found Mrs. Hammond wounded and insisted on sending for a doctor. Mrs. Hammond protested, saying she wanted to join her husband, Oliver.

Earlier in the day she had placed flowers on her husband's grave.

GUARDSMEN GO TO SCHOOL AT TOBYHANNA

Pittsburgh Soldiers Given Special Training; Drills And Road Marches Begin

TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 22.—Monday was devoted to close order drill, special training and road marches by the combat units of the One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, also to the organization of the various schools of instruction.

These included mess and supply sergeants school, conducted by the regimental supply officer, battery clerks' school conducted by the regimental adjutant; recruits' school, machine gun school, sabre school, communications school and buglers' school.

The regimental staff of the regiment, as well as the regular army officers assigned as instructors for the camp, are well pleased with the recruits enlisted in the regiment.

MOUNTED DRILL HELD

There was a mounted drill with the tractors and motor equipment. Col. Dunlap has issued orders that all the parades of the artillerymen will be mounted with caisson, tractors and 155 m. m. howitzers in line.

On Friday of this week the Sixteenth Field Artillery, regular army outfit in camp, will hold a mounted review and exhibition drill. Col. Dunlap, in command of the Pittsburgh troops, the highest ranking officer in camp, will be the reviewing officer.

SOLDIERS PREVENT FIRE

The presence of mind and quick action on the part of two men from Battery D averted a fire in a restaurant in Tobyhanna. An oil stove in the kitchen caught fire and was threatening the wooden partition when the two soldiers rushed in, carried the stove out of the building and extinguished the blaze with several buckets of water before the owner returned with a small fire extinguisher.

The regiment's baseball team of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth, coached by Capt. James A. Blair, will take the field against the team of the One Hundred and Tenth Field Artillery Tuesday afternoon. The Pittsburghers are anxious to even the score, as they came out on the short end last year.

CLOISTER TAX SALE BALKED

LANCASTER, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—An act of the last Legislature was stressed by counsel for the Seventh Day Baptist Church in securing a temporary injunction to restrain Tax Collector M. B. Hacker from selling antiques of the Ephrata Cloisters to cover alleged tax arrearage. The injunction was granted by Judge Charles I. Landis on application of K. L. Shirk, attorney for the trustees of the church.

Shirk, in his petition, called attention to the fact that Hacker's term as tax collector expired on January 6, 1930, five days after the law providing that retiring collectors may not collect back taxes after leaving office. The act was passed by the 1929 General Assembly.

Three additional reasons for asking issuance of the injunction were set forth by the attorney. They were: Hacker had no right to sell church property; the collector had failed to report the alleged delinquencies to the county commissioners, school board and road board, which could have granted exonerations, and he did not specify which articles he intended to sell.

Pedestrian Routs Trio With Gas Pipe

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 22.—Effectively wielding a piece of gas pipe, which he carried for such an emergency, Charles Guarala, 45, Adalaide, fought off three men who attacked him as he walked toward home along a lonely road. He fought so vigorously that the assailants ran.

Gas Drum Explodes, Kills Cafe Owner

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 22.—Thomas Nickolulis, 38, proprietor of a restaurant at Bentleyville, was instantly killed last night when a gas drum used in the soda fountain of the restaurant exploded. Nickolulis was blown to the ceiling.

President, Incog, Quizzes Ferry Pilot

WHITE'S FERRY, Md., July 22.—(AP.)—The weather was hot. It was Saturday and the ferryman who pilots the scow across the Potomac between Virginia and Maryland was a busy, perspiring and grease-spattered man.

An automobile, traveling toward Virginia, crept upon the boat. The ferry engine began to sputter and the cable took up its task of guiding the scow across.

One of the passengers, a middle-aged man, seemed to have some knowledge of machinery. He asked several questions about the operation of the craft. Little information passed, as the ferryman was busy with his motor.

The ferryman has just learned that the inquisitive passenger has some reputation as an engineer. He was President Hoover, who with Mrs. Hoover and their son, Allan, was seeking relief from the heat of the capital.

Boys Still Seek Wagon Record As Pal Quits

ALLIANCE, O., July 22.—The first break in the ranks of the sextet of boys seeking an endurance record on a coaster wagon came when Louis Schneeberger, one of the original coaster-pushers, deserted his pals to leave for the "Y" camp at Brink Haven. The remaining five are carrying on, undismayed by Louis' desertion and the heat.

A complete set of tires has been worn out in more than 100 hours of slow wheeling. Two wheels are changed at a time as the pilot tilts the coaster at an angle while 'mechanicians' make the quick change.

Water Low in Ohio; Crops Burned Out

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., July 22.—Water was scarcely trickling over the Tuscarawas River Dam west of this city today. Farm crops are practically burned out in Tuscarawas County. No water shortage has been noticed by the municipal plants in this city and Dover, which rely upon deep wells.

Real Estate

The six-foot frontage at the northwest corner of Wood and Diamond streets whereon is erected a structure reputed to be the world's slenderest business building has again changed hands. The new purchasers are Sam Leff, who resides in the Seventh Avenue Hotel, and Mrs. Minnie Pinsky, of 5543 Wilkins avenue. Louis Pinsky, furrier, it was stated will announce the purpose of acquiring the building.

The three-story brick and steel building, erected about three years ago by Louis Hendel, front six feet more or less in Wood street and runs up alongside the party wall separating it from the jewelry store of John M. Roberts & Sons Company. It extends 80 feet along Diamond street to Book alley. The former owners were William F. Simeral and Ethel Myers Simeral, his wife, of Bellevue. They purchased it from Hendel August 1, 1929.

The purchase price in the recent deal is not stated. A mortgage for $59,000 carried on the property and reduced by Simeral to $45,192.68 has been assumed by the purchasers.

Through the Freehold Real Estate Company the Allegheny-Bellevue Land Company has sold to Ernest J. Doods a lot in Stanford avenue, West View.

Gribbin Company through John J. McKenna sold for Robert J. Koepp to Francis O'Halloran a brick dwelling at 4212 Calvin street for $5,500.

The Ben Franklin Realty Company through Joseph Dolfonro reports the sale of two brick dwellings at 7758 and 7760 Calhoun street to Antonio and Guiseppe Falvo for $6,000, and a frame dwelling at 1133 Willing street to Vincenzo Mancuso for $3,300.

A dwelling occupying a lot 40 by 110 feet in Richland avenue, West View, has been transferred by John A. Metzler to August H. Vedder for $4,750.

C. B. Nuller has applied for a building permit for brick duplex to be erected at 306 Waldorf street, Twenty-sixth Ward, at an estimated cost of $16,000.

J. Nusser, Nineteenth Ward, has made application for a building permit for a brick and frame store and dwelling at 6 Boggs avenue. The cost is estimated at $12,000.

We Now Present

By CHARLES EARLEY,
Pinch-Hitting for Darrell V. Martin.

Words and music exclusively by local composers and authors will tell the story of Pittsburgh to the world tonight at 10 o'clock eastern daylight time, when KDKA as key station, and 35 others broadcast the Westinghouse Musical Salute to Pittsburgh. Intermingled with works of Stephen Foster, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Victor Herbert, Ethelbert Nevin and others, Frederick Rodgers and Louis Kaufman will describe the steel mills, water and rail developments and the city's cultural activities.

The ancient though ever new Hawaiian love ballad, "Aloha Oe," will be presented in Vincent Lopez' own inimitable manner in the Pure Oil broadcast from WCAE at 8 o'clock.

What is believed to be a new take-off on "Frankie and Johnnie" will be heard at the same hour over WJAS and the Columbia network when Frank Crummit, populizer of that famed barroom ballad, does his stuff in the song "Mary and John" on the Blackstone program.

Cousin Lora, the big shot over at WCAE, has returned, brown as a berry, from her annual vacation. Lora, we are told, spent her time skiing, swimming, golfing and—worst of all, listening in on the radio.

* * *

Lloyd Drake, official Joshua Reynolds to the staff announcers of KDKA, is busy at work on a new portrait of what the femmes say is the handsomest microphone boy in town. His identity is a matter of much conjecture.

* * *

About the biggest request received by any local radio editor was the recent query as to whether 26 prominent radio entertainers were married and what, if you please, were their ages. When Darrell Martin left town to play with a little white ball for two weeks in the wilds of Emporium, this was what he left on our desk. It's a tough assignment but we'll do or die.

TODAY'S TIDBIT

The dapper youth who attempted mulcting radio fans in several Eastern Pennsylvania towns with the lingo that he was Floyd Gibbons of newspaper and radio fame, was outsmarted by an alert listener-in. This pseudo detective knew that Gibbons always wears a white or black patch over an eye, dating to the time when the socket was shot out in a heroic rescue in France during the World War. The imposter left the section in a hurry, 'tis said, under threat of prosecution.

Ray promises to give a braid by braid description of the dignified fellow's uniform. The doorman will also have a few words to say to the audience.

"Curley's Life Threatened."

Curley's life is seriously threatened by a rattlesnake. Numerous rattlesnakes are reported in the vicinity of the Bar-A Ranch. The men kill a num'er of them and are later lying around in the grass, some talking and a few dozing, when suddenly to the horror of everyone, a large rattler slips out of the grass and crawls up on the chest of Curley Wallace who is sound asleep. The snake calmly coils itself up and proceeds to go to sleep on top of Curley.

The boys hold a council to consider what they shall do. If they wake Curley, he will jump and the snake will bite him. However, they have to do something because at any moment Curley may awake and get bitten. They finally decide that all they can do is to take a chance at shooting the snake's head off as he lies there. There is, of course, the possibility that they will hit Curley. Also they may merely wound the snake and it would naturally sink its fangs into the startled cowboy.

DIVORCE ASKED BY WAR HERO

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—Capt. Christian Gross, war hero and author, has filed two suits against his wife, Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of the former governor of the Philippines, his attorney, Robert E. Cantwell, Jr., revealed.

One suit asks divorce on ground of desertion. The other seeks to clear Capt. Gross' title to an $830,000 trust fund in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York.

Capt. Gross, at present secretary of the American legation in Berne, Switzerland, asks in the second suit that a separation agreement made with his wife in Paris in 1928 be set aside. That purports, his papers said, to give Mrs. Gross $250,000 of the trust fund he formed of all his assets several years ago.

Mrs. Gross now has a suit pending in New York courts to recover the $250,000 which she asserts was part of an $830,000 trust fund she established to hold her husband's love.

IRISH RAILROAD TIEUP DELAYED

DUBLIN, July 22.—(AP.)—A general strike of railwaymen over Southern Ireland, scheduled for last midnight, was dramatically averted by the intervention of the Free State government.

The railwaymen agreed to postpone the strike call until tonight, pending another conference between the National Union of Railwaymen, the Great Southern Railway and the affiliated Irish Omnibus Company.

Negotiations between the railway and the railwaymen broke down earlier in the day after the railwaymen asked for the reinstatement of workers dismissed last week for refusing to handle freight consigned to the omnibus company.

MURDER CHARGE IN WHIPPING

MT. HOLLY, N. C., July 22.—Mrs. Ella Mae Butler, 40, is charged with the murder of a young woman she horsewhipped because of alleged intimacy with her husband, in a warrant sworn out here. Miss Grace Whitaker, 28, the girl she whipped, died four weeks after the attack.

Mrs. Butler, mother of five children and wife of L. F. Butler, mill superintendent, was given a jury trial last week on a charge of manslaughter in connection with Miss Whitaker's death.

The jury found her guilty of assault, and Magistrate Hiffman, who presided, fined her $50 and costs.

Warmth Explodes Bottled Drink In Man's Hand

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 22.—The heat wave which gripped this section proved its potency when a bottled soft drink which had remained exposed to the sun for a few minutes exploded in the hands of Charles Wallace, a Waynesburg fireman.

Aerial Hits Power Line, 2 Die, 3 Hurt

MERCED, Cal., July 22.—(AP.)—Two persons were killed and three badly burned near here when a radio aerial they were erecting came in contact with an 11,000-volt power line.

The dead are Mrs. J. R. Gaffery and Jean Gaffery, her niece, and the injured are Allan Gaffery, 19, her nephew; J. W. Gaffery, her son, and Eileen Gaffery, her niece.

67 CLUBS JOIN ROTARY MEET

COLLEGEVILLE, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Sixty-seven of the 71 clubs in the section were represented here at a conference of the fiftieth district of Rotary International. The district embraces parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Edward S. Fretz, of Collegeville, the newly-elected district governor, was in charge of the meeting. The official representative of Rotary International was Charles W. Ackley, of Vineland, N. J.

Dr. Harry S. Fish, of Sayre, a past district governor, emphasized that for a harmonious existence, Rotary must be kept free from politics. The Pottstown Club entertained the delegates at a panquet.

Furnished rooms in every part of the city are listed in the Classified Ads. It's easy to find one you like.

SOVIET FOREIGN CHIEF QUITS

MOSCOW, July 22.—(AP.)—Georges Tchitcherin, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, resigned yesterday, and his resignation was accepted by the Central Executive Committee. He had a brilliant record as a statesman.

The resignation has been reported imminent for many months because of the commissar's ill health. After treatment at Wiesbaden, Germany, he returned to Moscow early in June, and his retirement was then definitely forecast.

Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar, was appointed to succeed Tchitcherin by the Central Executive Committee.

Nikolai Nikolaevich Krestinsky, Soviet ambassador to Berlin, was appointed first vice commissar, in place of M. Litvinoff, and Lev Mikhailovich Karakhan, second vice commissar. The board at the commissariat will consist of Krestinsky, Karakhan and Boris Stomoniako.

Ohio Man Confesses Slaying, Gets Life

WOODSFIELD, O., July 22.—Roscoe Suter, 42, ex-service man, indicted for first-degree murder of his friend, Ray Tisher, Hannibal, pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and was given life sentence to the Ohio penitentiary. Frank Voegtly, accused of supplying the gun, will be tried next month on a first-degree charge.

RECORD 'BLIND' FLIGHT MADE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—Capt. Arthur Page, crack Marine Corps flying officer, completed the longest blind flight on record—from Omaha, Neb., to Washington.

Leaving Omaha, Page flew entirely by instruments and following radio-controlled airways to Chicago, where he brought his plane to within 200 feet of the ground. Lieut. V. M. Guymon, also a Marine, whose cockpit was uncovered, executed the landing.

The fliers left Chicago, pausing briefly at Cleveland and arriving last night at naval air station here. All the piloting except the landings was done by Page, whose covered cockpit prevented him from seeing anything but his instrument board.

Injured Man Dies, Autoist Under Bond

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 22.—Joseph Black, 72, farmer, died in the Providence Hospital from a fractured skull received when he was run down by an automobile, which police say was driven by Harry Freed, Cannelton, Pa. Freed was held under bond pending an inquest by coroner H. C. McCarter.

Avalon Pool Mecca For Heat Sufferers

Avalon's new swimming pool is a mecca for heat-oppressed citizens, according to Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager. A total of 2,350 residents have purchased season tickets, one-third of the population of the borough.

No further protest against opening of the pool Sunday afternoons has been made. One thousand bathers took advantage of the cooling waters during the three-hour period Sunday afternoon, it was said. Non-residents are not permitted to use the pool on Sunday.

Men Rescue Aged Woman from Fire

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 22.—With the assistance of Thomas Allison, a neighbor, Ralph Smith saved the life of his mother, Mrs. Mary Smith, 80, a paralytic, when their residence was razed by fire. The family was awakened by the flames, which had made much headway. The two men carried Mrs. Smith through smoke-filled halls to safety.

MOVIE NEWS, AMUSEMENT COMMENT

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

COPYRIGHT 1930 DAILY MIRROR, INC.

Reminiscences of a Hoofer

(Being the text of a series of columns reprinted from the files of Walter Winchell, now holidaying for two weeks.)

O M Samuels, the New Orleans representative and critic for Variety who gives actors the miseries. He is a prosperouse housewrecker there but reviews theatricals for diversion. He hasn't accepted a wage in 15 years.

The mouth whitening used by actors whose teeth are not so hot.

The Winnipeg manager's wife who also heads the local Gerry Society and prosecutes parents who have children in their act.

Irene Martin, who was Gus Edwards best looker in 1910. George Jessel (then 11) awakened her every morn and ran her errands. She married Skeets Gallagher a few years later and Jessel fainted at the news. Divorced last year. She was grand!

The photo of Marilyn Miller at the age of 4, which hangs in the green room in the cellar at the Bijou, Lansing, Mich.

The waiters at Coffee Dan's in Frisco, where the mob meet after theater time. Everybody is welcomed by the din of silverware and plates banged on tables, and when Vera Gordon paid her initial visit she paused on the steps leading to the cave mistaking the noise for a personal reception. She raised her hand dramatically, and between tears gulped: "Drinks, drinks, drinks, so much!"

The collegiates at Champaign, Ill., who frequent the Orpheum Theater there and make faces at the ballad singers.

The sailors who peddle their smuggled goods and cloths to the Pantages and Orpheum players at Tacoma, Seattle and Vancouver.

Provo, Utah, a one-night stand to break the long and tedious leap across the desert from Long Beach, Cal., to Salt Lake. You arrive at 4 p. m. and depart the next 4 in the morning. And only get one-seventh of your salary.

The Folly Theater, Brooklyn, 4-a-day, where they yelled out the answers to your gags!

Mabel Harper, who once took a shot at her third husband in Philly but missed him. She was the only woman in the profession with the distinction of being able to laugh before noon without taking orange juice.

Dave Seed, of Seed and Austin, who whipped three Chicago toughs single-handed, while his pals (who shall be nameless) ran like anything.

North Adams, Mass., where, as the late Frank Van Hoven used to say, "they sit down front and devour their young!"

And the gag they used to tell on that burg, viz:

"Talk about tough luck! Poor Loney Haskell broke a mirror last week, and the next day he was booked to play North Adams!"

The Boston censors who won't let you dance on the Sabbath or permit girls to go on stage sans hosiery. Tights, however, are okay.

The Amen Corner in the N. V. A. Club, where a group of veterans insisted that there was a conspiracy to keep them unemployed.

Moran and Mack in El Paso 12 years ago doing the same act that has made them a rage today on stage, screen and via the phonograph platters.

Capt. Rheta Crawford, of the Broadway corps of the Salvation Army who used to attract the greatest crowds at 46th Street and the Stem. It is against the rule, you know, for a Salvationist to go to the theater, but Rheta was the pet of the profession, and E. F. Albee presented her with a life membership in the National Vaudeville Artists' Association. Which means nothing now.

Phil Baker (now a grand extemporaneous comic) on the Loew circuit in 1920, when he couldn't open his mouth and was always scared.

Lancaster, Pa., where Roy Mack was annoyed by two Greeks who flirted with his wife in a restaurant. Mack broke a bottle of ketchup on one of their domes and was fined $25 in court for the privilege.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., the home of the Cherry Sisters, who were the rottenest act ever known. They are aspiring politicians now.

Loew's Greeley Square Theater in New York, where they used to permit a paid audience watch you rehearse with the orchestra. The Good Old Days?

Loew's National in the Bronx, where Eva Tanguay once went on at Amateur Night unannounced for a lark and offered an imitation of herself. She was lemon'd off and given the hook!

Hammerstein's Victoria (now the Rialto location) at 42nd Street, where acquitted murderers were immediately headlined.

Al Herman, the blackface comic, and Mel Klee, who did his act. And their snooty cracks when any one walked out on them. They'd chirp: "I hope you miss that train!" Or when they flopped they'd say: "Am I keeping any one up?"

Mother Howard's boarding house in Baltimore, where the biggies sat at the same tables with the smallies because the food was so delicious. $1 per day with room!

Dallas, Tex., where the women are very beautiful, and sit in the loges at the first matinee and flirt until you forget your cues.

The time Bix Biederbecke, crack cornetist with Paul Whiteman, missed the train for Shreveport, and, rather than disappoint his boss, he hired a plane to make the leap for a $100 fee. After he got there he took a nap and missed the matinee.

War From Feminine Side Moving in Usual Screen Cycle

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.

Moving in the customary cycle of story production around the studios the feminine side of war is taking its place with the westerns and underworld films.

M G M is starting production on "War Nurse" and Warners have just released a woman spy story, "Three Faces East." Now comes Paramount with the announcement that the German actress, Marlene Dietrich, is to be starred in a spy vehicle.

Gary Cooper

The story as yet untitled, is being written from an original idea of Josef von Sternberg's, and will be directed by him early in the fall. It was Sternberg who discovered Miss Dietrich when he was directing Emil Jannings in Germany and persuaded Paramount to put her under contract.

While it is being prepared the director is filming "Morocco," a story of the Foreign Legion, with Gary Cooper and Miss Dietrich in the leads.

CRASH!

Those who are accustomed to say, "It's a fake or a miniature," may leave the theater after seeing "Steel Highway" with the knowledge that they have witnessed a train wreck that is really on the up and up.

Warners built a half-mile special track off a mainline and engaged two complete trains for the crash. The acting shows a freight fail to completely clear the mainline as the oncoming passenger thunders down the tracks crashing into the rear cars.

Two wrecks were necessary before Doctor William Wellman okayed the stuff. The scenes were made at night and lights were strung a half-mile on either side of the trains. The sound equipment recording the crash and the voices of the firemen and

KOOLMOTOR OIL

A perfectly balanced Pennsylvania Motor Oil for modern motors

The manufacturer of your car built balance into your engine. This balance gives you a maximum of speed, power, dependability and smoothness of operation.

Cities Service experts have built perfect balance into Koolmotor Oil; have brought the five tests of oil quality into perfect harmony to enable you to get maximum service from your motor.

These are the benefits you receive—greater power, more speed, lower oil and gasolene consumption, fewer repairs and longer life for your car.

Don't try to make your motor do its best on out-of-date oils. Insist on a modern oil—a perfectly balanced oil—Koolmotor Oil—the oil with 5 point balance.

Al Boasberg has obtained his release from M. G. M., having been under contract there the past four years. Believing it impossible to write comedy 52 weeks out of the year, he asked for the remainder of his contract in order to free lance. His first new assignment is preparing the comedy dialogue on "Fifty Million Frenchmen," for Olsen and Johnson.

EDDIE LEAVING

Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cantor and the little Cantors will leave Hollywood bound for their Long Island home.

Eddie Cantor

Their absence will only be temporary, however, as Sam Goldwyn has signed the comedian to a five-year contract to appear in his productions.

Cantor has several weeks of vaudeville to fill before he can return, which will give the studio ample time to prepare his first story.

LUKE RETURNS

About once a year this department receives a personal visit from Luke Cosgrove. Today the old character actor dropped in and explained his long absence. He has been in Utah, where he played Shakespearean roles through the entire state. However, one-night stands and the lure of Hollywood proved too much, so he is back to try his luck in pictures again.

SCHOOL DAYS

Bessie Love's dressing room is being transformed into a schoolroom every morning when Mary Doran, Dorothy Jordon and Anita Page join the blonde star to take an Italian lesson.

Bessie Love

Not only are they learning the language, but they are doing it at reduced prices. The instructor makes the four a nominal charge by holding a class instead of instructing each one separately.

"We're no fools," said Mary Doran. "This is an economy wave."

NEW PLAYERS SIGNED

Three more important members have been added to the cast of "War Nurse." They are Marie Prevost, Hedda Hopper and Zasu Pitts.

Marie, whose activities have been confined to Columbia of late, is to have the leading comedy role, and Hedda and Miss Pitts have important supporting parts.

The Rebecca West story, which is being produced by Cosmopolitan, has gone into rehearsals under the direction of Edgar Selwyn. As you already know, Robert Montgomery and Anita Page have the featured leads.

MOVIE CLOCK

Hours at which feature photoplays begin in first run houses are in accordance with the following time schedule:

PENN: "Let Us Be Gay"—10:05, 11:51 a. m., 2:30, 5:11, 7:42, 10:23 p. m.

STANLEY: "Holiday" — 11:32 a. m., 2:09, 5:06, 8:10, 10:47 p. m.

ALDINE: "Good Intentions"—10 a. m., 12:01, 2:02, 4:03, 6:04, 8:05, 10:06 p. m.

ENRIGHT: "Sweet Mama"—2:06, 4:14, 6:17, 8:25, 10:33 p. m.

SHERIDAN SQUARE: "Lawful Larceny" — 12:46, 2:40, 4:34, 6:28, 8:22, 10:16 p. m.

HARRIS: "Cheer Up and Smile"—12:45, 3:10, 5:25, 7:50, 10:20 p. m.

In Person

Bernice Claire, who appears in support of Joe E. Brown in "Top Speed," which opens in the Stanley Thursday, also will be seen on the stage, beginning the same day. Miss Claire's screen appearance have been in "No, No, Nannette," and "Song of the Flame."

Mimic

Mitzi Green, whose imitations have made her well known, gives an imitation of Clara Bow in Miss Bow's picture, "Love Among the Millionaires," which comes to the Penn screen Friday.

STEALING HUSBANDS LAWFUL LARCENY IN SHERIDAN

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"Lawful Larceny" is the new talk screen feature in the Sheridan Square. Its title comes from the idea that stealing husbands is within the law. And it is all about a young wife who gets even with a husband-snatching lady.

Bebe Daniels is, we presume, the star of the affair. But it is Lowell Sherman who walks away with most of the acting honors. He gets off a lot of humorous and sophisticated lines. One of his modern proverbs is that a wise man keeps his home far away from his apartment.

The production is well made. It has been directed with the precision of a stage drama. And for this the aforementioned Mr. Sherman deserves additional honors for he also was the director.

And surely all the efforts Mr. Sherman made in behalf of this talkie should have won him a better fate than overtakes him at the finale. The fadeout sends him riding into the dawn, full dress suit and all, on the rear of a milk wagon.

Kenneth Thomson, former Pittsburgher, is in the cast as a young husband who is lured from wife and baby by a worldly woman and the gambling table. And Olive Tell has the role of the worldly woman.

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Tonite at the River . . . Montrose Hotel Landing . . . On the Allegheny . . . Drive Out Freeport Road just above Aspinwall . . . World's Greatest and Most Palatial Golden Rod Showboat proudly presents "Titty Ann," a smalltown comedy drama in four acts . . . Not a motion picture.

That's what Capt. J. W. Menke's handbill has to say. But a closeup of the boat last night showed that the "palatial" Golden Rod is aging fast. And it could stand a good scrubbing. But then, away with such thoughts. The drama is the thing! And the novelty!

And, oh, what drama! It was terrible. But funny. With a struggle we hung onto our seat. It was a howling evening.

A Cinderella-like heroine got herself a movie star in the end. A villain was foiled. An embezzling father was saved from a prison cell.

THE CLOTHESLINE

There was a telephone with a piece of clothesline three feet long for its wire. There was a dress box from Kaufmann-Looby's. There was a constable who went into a faint every time the word blood was mentioned. And there was a character in the drammer who gave one fellow a hat and then found none was left for himself when it came his turn to exit.

The aforementioned constable was a wow. He chased funeral processions off the streets so the bootleggers could pass.

Sandwiched between the drammer was vaudeville of a 1902 variety. There were songs and jokes that had more moss on them than Lon Chaney has faces. And the older they were, the funnier they were.

BEHIND THE LAUGHS!

Into this evening of riotous burlesque crept a hint or two of true artistry. One of these came with the appearance of a bell ringer. Its seldom you see or hear this brand of entertainment nowadays. And he knew his bells. But then, he should. He has been a trouper for 46 years, they say.

And into this evening of riotous burlesque crept a faint hint of romance and true drama. What lurks behind the stage masks of these showboat people? Edna Ferber tried to tell us some of it. But no novelist living can tell it all.

The Golden Rod is anchored for an indefinite stay. It promises a varied repertoire, or a "rip and tear" as the showboat folks say. And if you're looking for something novel and insanely funny, opportunity is knocking.

Home means most when it really belongs to you. There are many splendid values advertised in the Classified Section.

Nash value greater than ever

EIGHTS and SIXES

Recent developments stress the fact that Nash gives more for the money

Amid all new claims and counter-claims, one fact stands out as clear and as strong as sunlight.

That is the unmistakably greater value which you get when you buy a Nash.

No other car at anywhere near the Nash price affords the pronounced advantages of Nash—including such features as twin ignition, with its greater power, speed, smoothness, and saving of oil and gas.

Such a feature as twin ignition is highly important—but it is even more important as indicative of the superior engineering and in-built value which distinguish every Nash car.

You know Nash beauty. You may be familiar with Nash performance; Nash comfort and convenience; Nash thorough-going quality.

But until you compare what the Nash is and what it does with the remarkably low cost at which it may be purchased today—you cannot appreciate its wholly unexampled value. Come in and drive a Nash today.

PYTHIANS MARK ANNIVERSARY

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 22 — The fiftieth anniversary of the organization of Robert Blum lodge No. 466, Knights of Pythias, was observed by a banquet last night in the Fountain Inn.

Addresses were made by Earl T. Snyder, deputy grand chancellor of Lawrence County; Chester S. Nagel, of Beaver Falls; Mayor William H. Gillespie, William Sylvester, Pittsburgh; W. C. McKim, Ellwood City; E. H. Hutchinson, of Harmony; William C. Hess, a charter member of Robert Blum lodge; W. J. Moffatt, grand tribunal; Benjamin Moore, of Bellevue; O. W. Zeigler, Zelienople; John C. Wilkes, Sharon, and M. R. Daugherty, of Pittsburgh. C. W. Herman Hess, grand chancellor of Pennsylvania and a member of Robert Blum lodge, was toastmaster.

3 DEAD, MONEY WORRY BLAMED

GENEVA, Ill., July 22.—(AP)—Financial troubles today were blamed for the deeds of a farmer's wife who killed her husband and 18-year-old son with an ax, set fire to their home and then ended her own life by slashing her throat with a razor.

The victims were Charles A. Anderson, 55, Kane County farmer, Willis, the son, and Mrs. Anderson, 49.

The tragedy was discovered by Charles Larsen, brother-in-law of the farmer, who slept on the second floor. Larsen said he was awakened by smoke. He descended an outside stairway and with the aid of neighbors battered in the kitchen door.

The sheriff learned the family had had financial troubles which worried Mrs. Anderson.

Back Broken Year Ago Causes Death

ROCHESTER, Pa., July 22.—His back broken, when he fell 30 feet into an airshaft in July of last year, Thomas Cochran, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cochran, Rochester, died yesterday, in the Rochester Hospital. He had been in the hospital since the accident.

WANTED SOMETHING THAT WOULD RELIEVE

World's Tonic Certainly Did More Than I Ever Expected.

"Off and on I had suffered from severe pains in my arms and legs," said John Tinko, a man of middle age, who lives at 155 Budd Street, Sharon, Pa. "These pains would come on me at night usually, but sometimes in the daytime, when the weather was damp and cold, and they felt like a sharp knife had been sunk in my flesh. Most of the people I talked with said they were caused by rheumatism. But when these pains got so severe I could not work, it did not matter to me whether it was neuritis, rheumatism, or whatever else it could be called. I wanted some medicine that would give me relief.

"I took a number of preparations that were advertised for rheumatism, and they affected my stomach. Soon I noticed that not only was I afflicted with indigestion, but that my liver was very sluggish, and I became both bilious and constipated. My breath first got real bad after I had the flu. I had to take different kinds of physics every night in order to get my bowels to move. The pains increased and I began to rundown considerably, losing weight and energy. Finally I had to quit work entirely.

"Because I was so rundown I needed a good tonic. I was told by one of my friends that there was a new medicine gathered from different parts of the world known as World's Tonic, and I began taking it to build up my strength. To my great satisfaction, it helped my biliousness right away, aided my stomach, and entirely freed me from pain in about three weeks. The results were so good and came so quickly that I was hardly able to believe I was well myself. Since then a few doses now and then when I feel the need have kept me well, and there is no man in the county of my age who enjoys better health than I do. World's Tonic certainly did a great deal for me—more than I ever expected, and proved itself a wonderful medicine."

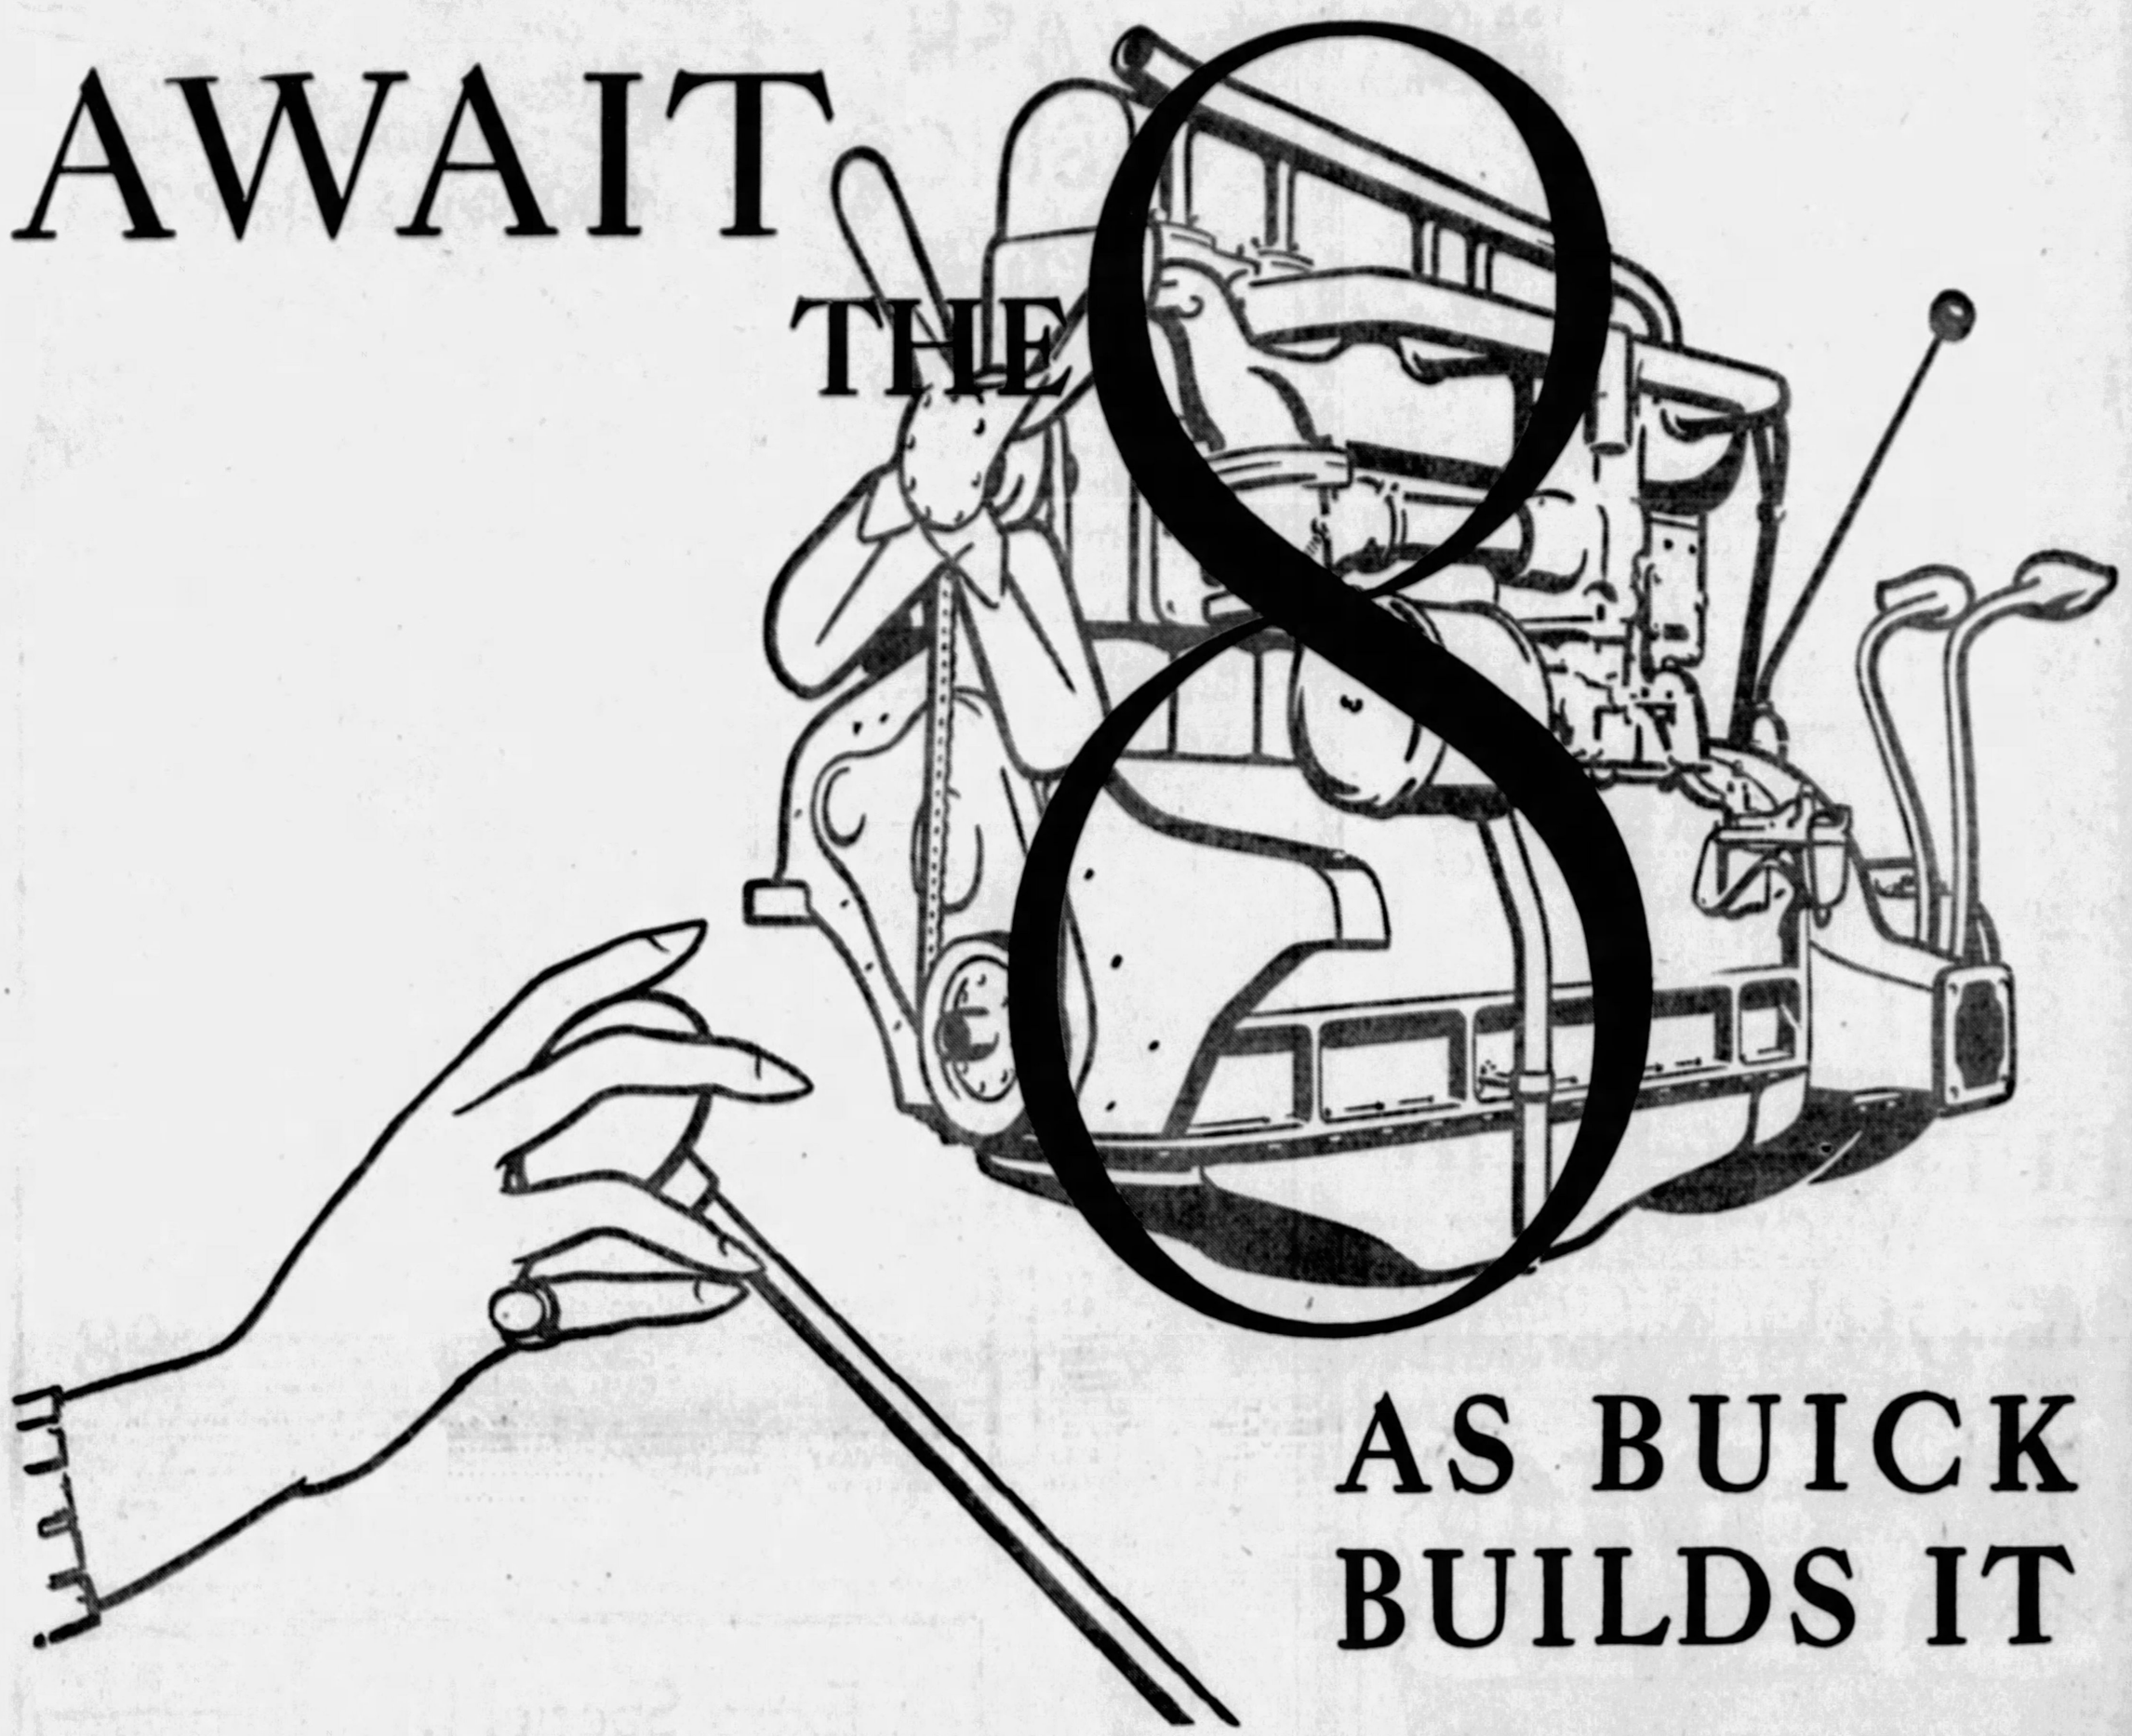
AWAIT THE



AS BUICK BUILDS IT

FOUR NEW SERIES OF STRAIGHT EIGHTS

. . . . VALVE-IN-HEAD, OF COURSE . . . .

NEW SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION*

One of Buick's four new series—with new Valve-in-Head Straight Eight Engines and new Insulated Bodies by Fisher—is priced $200 lower than last year's Buick six. It is the world's lowest priced Valve-in-Head Straight Eight!

Buick, winner of more than twice as many buyers as any other maker of fine cars, will soon present the most brilliant creations in Buick's twenty-seven years of fine car building—

Four series of Straight Eights providing twenty ultra luxurious models! With masterly new engines—all Valve-in-Head, all Straight Eights—revealing performance far surpassing even the finest previous Buicks! With new Syncro-Mesh Transmissions* assuring the highest degree of smooth, silent, non-clash gear-shifting! With new Insulated Bodies by Fisher endowed with characteristic Buick beauty and protected, like a fine home, against heat, cold and noise! Together with a host of other important improvements!

Buick is building eights exclusively. The Eight as Buick Builds It is fundamentally a better engine. Every unit has been carefully designed to assure uniform excellence throughout. The entire chassis reveals increased size and strength to conform with the increased power of the new engines. And the result is an entirely new degree of roadability—a train-like sureness and steadiness of flight heretofore unknown in Buick's field.

You are familiar with Buick's twenty-seven year record of leadership. . . . You have hoped for greater goodness and greater value in straight eight manufacture. . . . Await the Eight as Buick Builds It!

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT . . . BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

* Buick alone, of all cars at or near its price, provides the famous Syncro-Mesh Transmission. This ultra-fine, ultra-luxurious feature assures smooth, silent, non-clash gear-shifting through all gears and at all speeds. It is employed in three of the new Buick series, with Buick's fine standard transmission in the series of lowest price.

BRADFORD RATE CUT ORDERED

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP)—Rates on iron pipe couplings from Bradford, Pa., to Texas and Oklahoma oil fields were found inapplicable and in some instances, unreasonable by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Carriers involved were directed to publish before October 7 rates "which shall not exceed those contemporaneously in effect from Salamanca, N. Y."

The principal question involved appeared to be the logical geographical location of Bradford in the rate-making structure, the decision declaring that Bradford seems to belong more logically in the group with Salamanca than in the Rochester group.

Two cases were jointly heard in which the Hope Engineering Company and the Lone Star Gas Company were complainants, respectively, against the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Abilene and Southern railroads.

Philadelphia Bank Consolidation Voted

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(AP)—Approval of the proposed consolidation of the Bank of Philadelphia and Trust Company with the Bankers Trust Company of Philadelphia was voted unanimously by directors of both concerns and it was said today that approval by the stockholders at an early date was assured.

Samuel H. Barker, president of the Bankers Trust since its organization, will head the consolidated institution, which officials said would have deposits of approximately $48,000,000 and total resources of $60,000,000.

Former Legislator Dies at Elverson

ELVERSON, Pa., July 22.—(AP)—Ira D. McCord, 55, former member of the State Legislature, died at his home here yesterday. For 32 years McCord was connected with schools in Chester County. He formerly was principal of the Soldiers Orphans' Home at Chester Springs. He was elected to the Legislature in 1906 and re-elected in 1908.

RESCUED AFTER LEAP OFF SHIP

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP)—Capt. Johan Jensen, master of the liner Minnekahda, said on arrival from Europe that one of his passengers, a Detroit girl, leaped overboard at sea Saturday, but was rescued.

After she was rescued, she apologized to the captain for the trouble she had caused, saying:

"I often do silly things like that."

Two Killed, Burned As Airplane Falls

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 22.—(AP)—T. J. May, Jr., and William Morris were killed and their bodies burned late yesterday when their airplane fell from about 300 feet. Morris was at the controls and May was a passenger. The cause of the crash was undetermined.

GOOD TUBES insure GOOD RADIO RECEPTION

"That's why you should use RCA Radiotrons in every socket" Say Engineers

Summer broadcast conditions demand the very best that your radio set can give. Why penalize performance by using inferior tubes? RCA Radiotrons are the quality vacuum tubes of the industry. The leading set manufacturers say: "Use RCA Radiotrons and assure yourself of the greatest possible measure of radio enjoyment."

Here Is The Reason for This Mysterious Ad---

To purchase these sets so as the public could benefit at the unusually low price, it was impossible for us to mention the name in this ad. These same sets are selling other places for as much as $162.00. Only 200 sets to be sold at this price. This Radio is Nationally known and famous for distance. Absolutely all electric and internationally famous for tone, selectivity and sensitivity.

Trade in your old musical instrument at full cash value. This trade-in offer will be limited and may be withdrawn at any time.

FIRST TIME EVER OFFERED

It is our belief that this is the first time this famous set manufactured in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio, operating and maintaining one of the largest broadcasting stations using the call letters W7W has ever been offered at a price below $100.00 and we earnestly urge you to investigate this offer at once. You can get a set of tubes FREE very easy, everyone can.

$47 LESS TUBES

NOTICE!

The radio less tubes for $47—you can have a set of high grade nationally priced tubes for this radio FREE, by filling in the 3 missing letters in the name. This is very simple and can be done by everyone. Every missing letter is used in the larger, blacker type of this ad. You can get these easily. We want everyone to get these TUBES FREE with this radio.

Free To The First 100 Customers A Complete Set of A-C Tubes

Fill in 3 missing letters and call at our store, ask the salesman to show you the radio that is offered for $47.00 and call it by its correct name. This will entitle you to a complete set of 8 A C tubes free. Everybody should go home with a set of tubes without cost because it is easy to figure out. All 3 missing letters are used in the large blacker type of this ad. Remember, when you call at the store ask the salesman to show you this set and call it by its correct name so the set will only cost you $47.00 complete delivered and installed in your home. At the end of 30 days if you are not satisfied with the set you may exchange and be allowed all money paid. What an offer, folks.

NEW BIDS FOR VOTE MACHINES OPENED

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

My Dear Mr. Pfarr:

"Please do not captain, as suggested by one of your readers, 'a no-tipping-for-taxicab-drivers' campaign.' Taxicab drivers earn little enough as it is; they have passed through a lean winter and many of them have wives and children to support. Practically all of them bear a sad countenance from their inability to make financial ends meet, and anyone who begrudges them a modest tip is one in whom the milk of human kindness is turning sour.

"M. A. MUSMANNO."

To those who have been taken in by the pleasant, if considerate, authority which Havey Boyle injects into his sports writing, it is a pleasure to report that in his recent radio talks he twice approached the breaking-down point and had to be reassured by the professional announcers. When Mr. Boyle lights a cigaret and sets himself down to his typewriter it is impossible to embarrass him. But put him in front of a microphone to speak his stuff, get the broadcasting rooms with sightseers from the provinces, and Mr. Boyle will stammer and stutter.

It is true that he was highly satisfactory to his radio employers and that in the 50 times he faced the microphone he lost himself only twice, but who are we to remember his successes? Mr. Boyle has resigned from the radio and his place has been taken by capable Bill Farren. However, Mr. Farren pronounces "error" just as Mr. Boyle did.

At one of the downtown theaters this week a "Miss Pittsburgh" appears with a dozen or so maids of honors selected from the defeated contestants. The maids march across the stage bearing ribbons which display the names of the concerns which sponsored them. A few of these ribbons read: Miss Perfect Laundry, Miss Overhead Door, Miss Consolidated Ice, Miss Kleber Trunk and Bag. There is no Miss Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

In the summer time we long for wealth and leisure. We'd like to have lots of money to go places and see, but not do, things. But we aren't greedy. The average person, when he wishes, wishes for a million dollars. All we want is a half-million dollars. Surely, among all the philanthropists of Pittsburgh, there is somebody willing to set up what we would call the William Pfarr Endowment.

In return, we are willing to write a monthly report to our benefactor. One month we should be telling him (or, possibly, her) of the good fellowship which springs from a beer garden in Germany and the next we should be reporting on the kaleidoscopic nature of Agua Caliente. This is the last time this offer will be made.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 22.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph

The treaty passed, and we knew it would. Wish they would have adopted the following resolution:

"We sign this treaty because we sent a fine delegation over and they did the best they could, and we will back 'em up, but this is the last one we will sign. While the whole idea sounds fine, it's a lot of 'hooey' in practice. You can no more tell a nation what inch gun he is to shoot you with, than you can tell him what he is to wear while shooting you, so we hereby plead with all nations, let's quit holding conferences, stop conferring, and just be friends again."

Yours,
WILL.

MYSTERY PRIZE TO FEATURE OUTING

Numbers to Bring Reward As Business Men of East North Side Hold Picnic

Everything is set for the Sun-Telegraph Mysterious Number contest at the Business Men's Association of the East North Side picnic tomorrow at West View Park.

Picnickers will be handed numbered tickets as they enter the park. Among the tickets will be some duplicates. Holders of these will be eligible to special Sun-Telegraph prizes when they present the pair at the clearing house in the dance pavilion.

Peter A. Straub.

The Sun-Telegraph has taken care to provide useful articles, according to the assurance of General Chairman Wilfred S. Kuhl, of the Association.

According to Peter A. Straub, chairman of the refreshments committee, arrangements for refreshments dwarf those at all former picnics. Every need of the family will be found at the park.

List of water events has been published by Earl C. Hanna, chairman of the water sports committee. They are all prize events. As a safeguard for participants, Hanna has set forth two safety rules; all contestants, he says, must be able to swim at least 100 yards and no swimming other than scheduled events is to be permitted.

Seven events are scheduled: Dash for men and boys, dash for girls and women, tub race for boys under 18, snapping hot dogs for girls, greased pole, duck hunt, Vaught-Kimmich contest.

These events are expected to attract some 15,000 North Side residents to West View Park tomorrow, according to W. A. Stoehr, publicity chairman. Arrangements have been made, says Stoehr, for all business houses on the East North Side to close Wednesday afternoon.

Co-operative Picnic Being Held Today

Annual basket picnic of the Co-Operative Club of Pittsburgh is being held late today at the country home of Ken Cunningham, Kittanning pike. Refreshments will be furnished by the club and a program of special entertainment has been arranged. The picnickers will motor from the city about 4 o'clock and special signs will be erected by the club to direct the members.

MISS HARD-BOILED

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojos exercises the charm of her fiery beauty to win the love of Bill Johnson, the richest man in her home town, Hermosa, on the Mexican border. Johnson previously had been engaged to Lily, a cabaret singer at Keno Joe's place, the Eldorado. One night, in the Eldorado, Raquel hears a stranger asking who she is. "Beautiful!" he says. "Beautiful as a dream! But—hard-boiled."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI.

Raquel flushed excitedly as she thought of the tall, slender stranger.

Suppose he had not been in Keno Joe's the night of Lily's summary trip across the border. Suppose he had come to the Eldorado the night before. Or the night after.

She, Raquel, would not then be in this train bound for Phoenix, for New York, for who knew what gaily carpeted fields of high adventure. She would be back in Hermosa, married to Bill Johnson. Or about to be married to him. Making ready for life in the big stone house he had promised to build for her on the 10 acres out by Pueblo Creek. The place he had bought for Lily.

Lily's was to be a six-room frame house. It had been no trouble at all, Raquel found to wheedle a larger stone house out of Johnson.

"I won't live in anything that had to do with—with—her," she told Johnson. Lily was always "her" between them.

"What do you want me to do?" the badgered cattleman asked plaintively. The changing moods of Raquel bewildered him.

Victorious
Raquel Is Promised Stone Mansion

"I want you to build me a stone house, bigger. I deserve better than her."

They were sitting on the bench outside Pancho Rojos' adobe hut. Raquel rose, fluffed out the folds of her faded green lawn dress, prinked at the flame-red cactus flower she had tucked into the smoke of her black hair behind her left ear.

"I met a man up at Pete's store this morning," she said lazily. "He was buying a saddle, Mexican. Carved leather with silver trim."

Johnson recrossed his legs, studied the toe of a dusty boot. "Who was he?" There was a bald attempt to inject indifference into his question.

New Friend
Raquel Is Attracted to Jack Farrell

"His name's Farrell, Jack Farrell. He's an engineer. Something about mining. My, but he's handsome!" Raquel's eyelids—Johnson had seen camellia petals exactly like them—closed dreamily.

"About our house—little Raquel," Johnson motioned her toward him. "If your heart is set on a stone house, stone it's got to be. You draw a picture of what you think you'd like to have and I'll send it on to Phoenix so's the builders up there can draw the plans."

Wheedling a 10-room stone mansion out of Johnson had been as easy as that.

The promise of a wedding trip to San Francisco, though, had been more difficult. Johnson was set on honeymooning along the Rio Grande. There was an isolated ranch house on one of his tracts. Built by a fellow from the East who tired of the desert loneliness and returned to the more acute by more glamorous loneliness of the city.

"I want for us to be alone, little Raquel," Johnson insisted stubbornly. "I never got you to myself, what with your folks and all of Hermosa sticking their noses in our affairs. This ranch house I'm telling you about's got a patio and this loco from the East even piped running water into it."

Raquel turned away to hide the grimace of distaste she could not help making.

She wished that this great hunk of a cowman would stop his stupid drooling and go about his business. She was going to meet Jack Farrell, Jack, the stranger, who had called her "hard-boiled" that night in Keno Joe's gambling place. Jack with the merry gray eyes and the tongue that had surely kissed the Blarney stone.

Raquel had been meeting Jack Farrell now for several weeks. Cladestinely. That is, the meetings were clandestine so far as Johnson was concerned. Raquel suspected everyone in Hermosa knew of them, except Johnson. And Pancho, her father. Pancho was so busy playing the braggart over his daughter's conquest of the richest hombre in Hermosa, he had time for little else.

Adventure
Dreams of Traveling With Jack

What was there about Farrell that drew her, like a magnet, from the course she had so definitely set for herself? He was compelling. Warm and vital and young. The way his red hair brushed back from his brow. Raquel was always wanting to smooth it, to know the feel of it under her fingers. His lips? Sensitive, caressing even when he talked in the most casual way. And his laugh? You simply could not help laughing with him.

What was it Jack said?

"I've hung my hat under more different flags than any man of my age in this or any other country."

A rover, Jack. Light of feet. Light of heart. Soon he would be roving from Hermosa. Only Raquel held him. He had not told her as much, but she knew. There was a tacit understanding between them. She was in his blood like fine wine. When he was with her, she wanted only to stay by his side, to go on and on. To Alaska, where he was thinking of prospecting, or to one of the South American republics, or Northern Africa, whither his fancy was flitting.

Raquel Angry
Refuses to Give Bill Her Promise

Adventure. To go places. To see things—people. After all, money was not worth as much as she had thought. Johnson had it. And here he was, stumbling about in the dust of Hermosa. With the rest of the toads and scorpions. A blind toad in a dust puddle.

Farrell had very little money. Practically none, in comparison

Action on Two Offers Delayed by Absence of Armstrong; Plan Tests

The County Comissioners today opened bids for vote machines which they plan to install in a greater part of the county for the November election.

There were two bids, one from the American Voting Machine Company, which offered its machines at $1,120 each, and a second from the Automatic Voting Machine Company, whose bid was $1,154.82. The first company offered to deliver 700 machines before the election. The second company promised 500 machines.

NO POLITICAL STOCK

Both companies assured the commissioners that none of their stock was owned by a state or county official.

In the absence of Commissioner Armstrong, who is touring Canada on his second honeymoon, the contract was not let, but Commissioner Babcock predicted it would be given out next week.

Babcock approved a request of State Senator Frank J. Harris that a competent critic examine the machines on which bids had been entered and report his findings to the commissioners.

SECOND BID OPENING

This is the second time bids have been received for the machines. On the first occasion only one bid was received.

The lone bidder proposed to furnish machines equipped with a hoist for elevating one panel above another when the devices were being prepared for use on election day. Competitors declared the hoisting device was requiused by the specifications, but that the contrivances were patented and restricted to the lone bidder. The commissioners ordered the clause for the hoist stricken from the specifications and invited new bids.

PARTY TO VIEW FARM PLANT

Experimental work in agriculture and poultry will be demonstrated at Wooster, O., for more than 80 Allegheny County growers and raisers during a two-day motor bus trip starting tomorrow.

Two buses have been chartered to carry the party which will leave the Courthouse at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. The tour will be under direction of the Allegheny County Agriculture Extension Association with Henry R. Eby in charge.

The demonstrations will be given at the agricultural experiment station in the Ohio city. They will include vegetable experimental work, including fertility problems, poultry, plant and orchard spraying.

Two Face Hearings After Liquor Raids

Two men arrested late yesterday in raids by constables and prohibition agents in North Braddock were free today on bail to await hearings.

They are George Kinick, arrested, agents said, after beer was found in his poolroom on Brinton avenue, and John Dusolia, found in a club on Brinton avenue, in which agents reported seizing three gallons of mash.

Aunt Sues to Get Custody of Niece

A habaes corpus writ to obtain custody of 13-year-old Jean Wood is being sought in Common Pleas Court by the child's aunt, Eva Mae Limmer, apartment 1, 6712 Thomas boulevard, in a suit against the child's mother, Mrs. Mary A. Wood, 3710 Penn avenue. The case will be heard Friday.

The petitioner states that she and her mother, Mrs. M. Elliott, had custody of the child since she was 11 months old, until last Christmas, when the little girl went to visit with her mother. Since then, despite repeated requests, Mrs. Wood has refused to let the child go back to her aunt. It is claimed the mother neglected to provide for the child all of the 12-year-period she was with her aunt.

Christian Endeavor Meets Friday Night

The Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Union will hold an "echo" meeting Friday night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. The meeting will be an aftermath of the Pennsylvania State Christian Endeavor convention, which was held June 30 to July 4, at Hershey, Pa. Cow Routs Park Loungers; Now City Prisoner

North Side police who last night captured the cow which demoralized the army of relief-from-the-heat-seekers in West Park, today were trying to locate the owner of the animal, now being held in the city stables in Tunnel street.

Police said the cow escaped from a truck at Ridge and Irwin avenues, and struck out for the grass in West Park, where numerous North Siders lounged about. Patrolmen Charles Sauslein and Ray Roman captured the beast after a chase through the lower Allegheny district.

Baby Dies in Cab Racing To Hospital For Aid

The two-month old daughter of Mrs. Marie Bresslin, of 12 Horner street, died in a taxicab last night while the mother was urging the driver to put on more speed in his race to Allegheny General Hospital.

They had been placed in the cab by a policeman who stopped the mother at Fifth avenue and Wood street when he saw her hurrying along the street with the the child in her arms.

A hospital report to the coroner's office said the child had died from marasmus, an ailment similar to malnutrition.

William Bresslin, the father, said he had been out of work for some time. There are four other children, aged 2, 5, 6 and 7.

FLEES DETROIT SLEUTH, RUNS TO CAPTURE

Local Officer Interrupts Flight That Starts in Water Street Restaurant

James Amick, 27, former Washington (D. C.) patrolman, was on his way to Detroit today in the custody of Detective Frank Dettloll after Amick's effort to escape was frustrated last night by local police, who captured him in a wild chase through the downtown district.

Police said Amick escaped from Dettloll after the officer stopped off here en route from Washington to Detroit. They went to a Water street restaurant, and while Dettloll paid the bill for their meal Amick broke away.

Scores of persons were attracted by Dettloll as he ran from the restaurant, revolver in hand, yelling to pedestrians to catch Amick. The fugitive ran over Grant street to Diamond street to Smithfield street and then to an alley in the rear of the Postoffice, where he was captured by Patrolman James Scanlon.

NAME SPEAKERS ON SAFETY

Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey and Fire Chief Richard L. Smith today announced each had appointed a man from his department to serve as a traffic safety speaker in the Better Traffic Committee's playground safety campaign. Frank F. Meyers, a member of the traffic squad for seven years, and Robert G. Capes, a member of No. 1 Emergency Fire Squad, are the speakers.

SEEK BUS LINES FOR SWISSVALE

The Public Service Commission today heard the application of the Swissvale Coach Company for permission to start two bus lines in Swissvale, operated on a 10-cent fare.

One proposed route is from the Pennsylvania Railroad and Braddock avenue, Swissvale, to Blackhawk street, a mile. The second would be from the Pennsylvania Railroad, Swissvale, to Noble and Braddock avenues, one and a half miles.

Gustav Popper and Peter Sandas, the proprietors, testified passengers could cover both routes for one fare, if desired. They already operate a bus line from Forest Hills to Braddock. Twenty-five women residents of the Blackhawk street district emphasized the necessity for the new service. There were no objections.

HOLLANDER RUM CASE DROPPED

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today ordered dropped charges of violating the liquor laws which have been standing for two years against Joseph M. Hollander, J. H. Reichberger and Mrs. E. Hoechstetter, officials of the Hollander Brothers Wholesale Drug Company, of Braddock.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham asked the order, with the approval of Attorney General Mitchell. Graham said there was not sufficient evidence.

The government charged that from 1925 to 1928 the defendants unlawfully diverted 1,500 gallons of whisky, 750 gallons of wine and two gallons of alcohol. Two years ago their withdrawal permit was revoked.

Hollander and Mrs. Hoechstetter had pleaded guilty. Reichberger had not been apprehended.

TWO OVERCOME, THIRD BURNED BY ACID

Fiery Liquid Showers Over Victim as Extinguisher Tank Bursts in Hands

Two firemen today were confined to their beds and a third was recovering from injuries sustained while fighting brush fires in the county yesterday.

Ray Petty and George Phillips, members of the West Homestead department, were overcome while battling a fire on the Calhoun farm, between West Homestead and New Homestead. Petty, who was taken home, was said to be in a serious condition today. The department was called to the farm to extinguish three brush fires in six hours yesterday.

James Desiderio, 38, of the Clairton department, was removed to the West Penn Hospital shortly after he was showered with acid when a chemical tank he was handling burst while fighting a fire on a lot in Waddell avenue, Clairton. He suffered burns of the face and upper body. It was at first feared he might lose his eyesight.

VOTE CONTEST CLOSES

The Wilmerding election contest, which has extended over many months, closed today with exception of arguments which will be made in September.

Former Judge T. J. Prather, special examiner, ordered 1,251 pages of testimony turned over to Quarter Sessions Court.

Attorney John D. Meyer, representing the anti-Volpe faction, closed for the contestants, after an opinion was received today from Judges S. H. Gardner and Frank P. Patterson holding that testimony concerning alleged forged tax receipts in rebuttal of statements by James Volpe was not permissible.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, for the Volpes, followed suit. No decision has been rendered on Eaton's motion for a recount of ballots in five districts.

The contest involved borough offices filled at the last November election, particularly that of tax collector, in which James F. Richards, former collector, was defeated by C. R. Shiring, Volpe adherent.

TAX-DISCOUNT ENDS JULY 31

July 31 will end the period during which county taxpayers are granted a 5 per cent discount on bills for 1930, according to Treasurer John Francies. Taxes will be collected at face during August and a 10 per cent penalty will be added September 1, Francies said.

Collections as of July 19 totaled $3,350,656, which compared favorably with receipts for the corresponding period last year in considering the increased millage this year. Francies said he expected 1930 collections would total $14,500,000.

STATE UNFAIR TO CITY, SAYS MAGISTRATE

Points Out $22,517 Levy On Traffic Court Fund Last Year; Desires Help

Traffic experts and public-spirited citizens today charged tag "fixing" and a lax policy in discharging offenders responsible for conditions which led Traffic Magistrate William Soost to suggest a state appropriation to help bear the expense of his tribunal.

Last year the state, Soost pointed out, received $22,517.50 from fines imposed on offenders in traffic court. Soost declared:

"Not one penny of this was turned back toward the operation of traffic court.

"This is unfair to the city."

HEAVY COST TO CITY

Activities of tag "fixers" result in a monetary loss of $79,000 and discharges cost $40,200 to the city annually, figures compiled on the basis of last year's report show.

According to Soost's statement, the city so far in 1930 has received $33,894 as compared to $82,174.20 for last year. This in spite of the fact that 198,500 tags were printed last year and 180,000 at least in the first six months of the present year.

State revenue, including fines for serious offenses, has dropped to $9,465 for the first six months as compared with the $22,517.50 for 1929.

RATIO OF LOSS GROWS

Over 191,000 tags were received by the magistrate in 1929. So far this year 90,000 have been received.

While only 7,500 tags were lost last year, at least 50,000 have failed of accounting during the first six months of 1930, it was shown. Less than two weeks ago the Police Bureau exhausted its tag supply, according to Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey, and was forced to request several thousand more.

11 PUNCHBOARD OWNERS FINED

Nine confectionery store proprietors and two druggists today in North Side Police Court admitted keeping punchboards in their places of business and were fined by Magistrate Ray Schneider.

The following were fined $25 each, with the alternative of 30 days in jail: F. K. Reich, 1334 Reedsdale street, and Abe Lefkowitz, 1449 Woods Run avenue, druggists; Leonard Wagner, 326 Federal street; Peter Dean, 104 Federal street; Henry Laughlin, 827 Galveston avenue; August Pase, 1111 Federal street; Fred Dorsch, 914 Madison avenue; C. E. Ward, 724 Jackson street; J. J. Clark, 1229 Columbus avenue; Robert Farrell, 1441 Woods Run avenue, all confectioners.

Peter J. Musbuner, confectionary store owner at 1235 Spring Garden avenue, was fined $10 after he admitted having a penny punchboard.

REPORT HOLDUP AND ROBBERIES

A holdup and two robberies were reported to the Detective Bureau today. W. G. Garner, of 5624 Woodmont avenue, said four men held him up near the Indian Head Spring, in Schenley Park, and robbed him of $8.

Robbers broke into the refreshment stand near the shelter house in Schenley Park and stole a quantity of merchandise, and into the home of Zeddee Moore, of 2635 Brackenridge avenue, where they took $22 and a stickpin valued at $75.

'Numbers' Threat Found in Auto Just Joke

Samuel Rost, 501 East End avenue, confectioner, today said that he had his auto, which had been tagged in Uniontown, Pa., with a threatening note, back in his garage. Rost explained that while "Buck" Schanal, of Uniontown, who was using the car, was in a restaurant, some jokester placed the note under the windshield wiper. Police found the parked car, and, discovering the note, hauled the car away.

The jokester revealed himself and assisted in recovering the car, Rost said. It was then brought to Pittsburgh.

15,000 TO EAT MELONS

Fifteen thousand lovers of the delectable watermelon are expected to be in attendance at 56 institutions next Tuesday, when Leo G. Altmayer, local produce man, celebrates his birthday with a real old-fashioned melon feast.

Leo Altmayer

Among the institutions on the schedule are the Leech Farm, U. S. Veterans' Hospital, at Aspinwall, and orphanages scattered throughout the Greater Pittsburgh district.

Music and entertainment will feature the watermelon feed in each instance. The party is an annual event with Altmayer.

CENSUS THANKS GIVEN CHAMBER

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday received the thanks of M. E. McGinley, chief special agent of the United States Bureau of Census, for the help the industry division of the chamber gave to the census takers who collected data on manufacturers and distributers.

McGinley wrote from Washington to James Rae, president of the chamber, announcing that tabulation for the City of Pittsburgh has just been completed.

Advocate Widening Road in Mt. Lebanon

The Mt. Lebanon Community Association is advocating the widening of Beverly road in the business section between Ralston place and Overlook drive. A committee appointed by President W. H. Babbitt will canvass property owners in the district affected. It is said that necessary parking in this business section has resulted in the slowing up of traffic and also that several bad accidents have been narrowly averted. The committee consists of B. H. Aires, chairman; M. W. Petrie, Henry Protech, C. E. Hoppe and George R. Fisher.

Officers Installed By K. of C. Councils

Seventy-five officers representing five councils of the 21 district of the Knights of Columbus were installed at a joint meeting in the William Penn Hotel last night. Installation exercises were headed by Grand Knights Leo. J. Aaron, Pittsburgh; Laurence O'Toole, Chartiers; John P. Leyland, Washington; John F. Sullivan, Coraopolis; Archbishop Canevin and J. H. Hamill.

WAR CUTS 'GYP' INSURANCE

Efforts of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, under C. H. Roth, secretary, to combat "gyp" auto insurance clubs now said to be flourishing in Pittsburgh, are showing their effect through a reported general let-down in the volume of their business.

"Gyp" automobile clubs have been selling memberships on a two-year basis for several years, according to Roth. The protection promised makes the plan appear better than standard insurance, he says. He declared the solicitors promise all forms of bail bond, towing service, gasoline discounts, detective service and legal representation. Roth said:

"The public should beware of such promises from little-known companies. If people would call me at the motor club I should be glad to give them any information I have about the standing of the agencies."

Storekeeper's Will Distributes $19,000

Samuel Cohen, who was proprietor of a store at 1419 Penn avenue, disposes of a $19,000 estate in his will filed for probate, today. His son, Jacob, is given the merchandise. He leaves $100 each to the Jewish Home for the Aged, Montefiore hospital and his grandchildren. His widow, Etta, receives the remainder. At her death it goes equally to their seven children. The Potter Title & Trust company is executor.

Typothetae to Hear Safety Council Head

G. E. Clarkson, manager of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, will speak at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Typothetae of the Pittsburgh district in Gimbel's dining room tomorrow. The subject of his talk will be "The Annual Congress and the Purposes of the National Safety Council."

HUNDREDS SEE SHOW BOAT

They came from all directions to see "Tildy Ann" make its debut in the Golden Rod, Capt. Menke's river show boat tied up on the Allegheny River at Montrose landing, beyond Aspinwall.

They included the city's sophisticates and the "sad young men" who had read Edna Ferber; the rustics from the countryside and hills beyond Aspinwall, the well-dressed dames who didn't go to Europe this year.

There were the "nudgers" of the substantial domestic class—those who dig into their partners' ribs when the point to the story is reached. There were campers who came in canoes and motor boats, and river dwellers in prosaic rowboats.

"Tildy Ann" opened for a week's run at least, and its four acts played right through to the hisses and jeers, and the many laughs of the audience.

Pittsburgh folk in hundreds last night got their first glimpse of a show boat made famous by the Ferber book. Capt. J. W. Menke, jovial, laughing, seemingly enjoyed the rush of people—although he has followed the river show business for 25 years. The curious were allowed to wander on the decks and see the cabins, the dressing rooms and the other appurtenances of a "floating" stock company.

John Arnott, director, said the little group of players had a repertory of about 10 plays, including "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" and "East Lynn," and would remain in the Allegheny as long as they played to people in the seats. He told of them, how they are recruited from many stages—some from Broadway, some from the movies, others from stock—some always show boat people. Their veteran, Vic Faust, the bell ringer, has trouped for 46 years. He's been tumbler, acrobat, juggler, musician, character actor, and now—show boater.

2 PILOTS FIGHT OVER TOWBOAT

When rivermen argue over boats, something usually happens.

Sam Eads, 42, of 1242 Resaca place, and R. J. Hasley, 43, of 1902 Brighton road, discussed the purchase of the Old Reliable, a towboat for many years on the three rivers.

Hasley, a pilot, guided the fortunes of the Red Cab until the recent taxi strike. Since then the cab business has been conducted by the Parmalee company.

The rivers beckoned to Hasley. He met Eads and the purchase of the towboat was considered. Hasley thought the price was too high. Eads, it was testified at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, in Central Police Court today, paid $100 to bind the bargain. Hasley, meeting Eads yesterday, told the latter what he thought of the deal. Eads swung, according to testimony, and the two men were arrested. Today Eads was sentenced to pay $5 or serve three days in jail, and Hasley was discharged.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO MAN

Injuries sustained Monday when struck by a machine near his home caused the death, late yesterday, of G. J. Burzynski, 53, of 2402 Bigelow boulevard, in the West Penn Hospital, according to a coroner's report.

F. S. Brenner, of 341 Oakland avenue, said by police to have been the driver of the car, has been notified to post bond for a coroner's inquest.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Downey Honored at Dinner

Old Sol's Spanish inquisition during the past few days has driven everyone who can leave town just now to the mountain tops or the shore in search of a cool breeze. The colonies in summer resorts are growing daily, and colonists are finding many delightful pastimes.

Over the week end entertainments were many with Pittsburgh folks among the guests.

One event of the week end was a dinner Mrs. Edward Van Ingen gave in honor of her daughter, Mrs. G. Faber Downey, Jr., of Sewickley, at Mocomanto Cottage on Saturday evening.

And while I'm on the topic of the Hamptons I want to mention that Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards is on the committee for the village fair to be held at East Hampton on Friday afternoon by the Ladies' Village Improvement Society.

Seek Breezes

And now I have a fresh budget of travel news. Did you know that Miss Neil Stewart is the guest of Mrs. George F. Baker at Spring Lake, N. J.?

Thomas Orr and his family are in Bay Head for the season, where they have a cottage.

And have you heard that the William L. Mellons, who are cruising the waters of the Atlantic shore in their yacht Vagabondia, have been visitors at exclusive Newport?

The W. F. Morelands are at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City.

News comes from Franklin, Pa., that the Frank McIntoshes, of Franklin, will give a dinner dance Friday night in the Wanango Country Club in honor of Frances Kier, daughter of the Frank J. Kiers, of Beechwood boulevard, who'll make her debut in the fall, and in honor of Margaret Smith, of Franklin.

Honor Fall Bud

Frances and her father and mother and brother Albert are returning today to the States after a winter abroad. Frances studied art in Paris.

And some time next week the Kier family will leave for their Michigan summer place.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Jane Roberta Smith, daughter of the junior Anthony W. Smiths, of Elwood street, and M. Graham Netting, which took place in the Smith home on Thursday at noon. Only the members of the families were present. Miss Vera Smith, aunt of the bride, played the wedding march. The home was decorated with palms and ferns and a profusion of yellow roses.

July Bride

The bride wore a forest green traveling frock with a corsage of orchids. The Nettings have gone on a honeymoon in the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania. They will be at home after August 15 in South Highland avenue. Mrs. Netting is a post-graduate student at the University of Pittsburgh, and Mr. Netting is assistant curator of herpetology at Carnegie Museum.

Miss Florence Wakefield has named Thursday as the date for her marriage to Alan Hays, son of Mrs. Bessie Irene Hays, of New York. The ceremony will take place in Delaware, O., in the garden of the bride-elect's grandfather, the Rev. A. M. Courtney, who built the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church of the North Side. Mr. Courtney will be the officiant.

Mrs. Albert W. Pettit, of Steubenville, O., will be her sister's matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Mildred Wakefield. Miss Jane Hays, of New York, and Miss Anna Bornhurst, of Allentown, Pa., will be bridesmaids.

Arthur Garfield Hays, of New York, will be his cousin's best man, and Harold Hays, Jr., of New York; Cyrus Coleman, of Hartford, Conn., and Frank Lewis, of Indianapolis, Ind., will be ushers.

GREEN REMAINS AS A LEADING COLOR

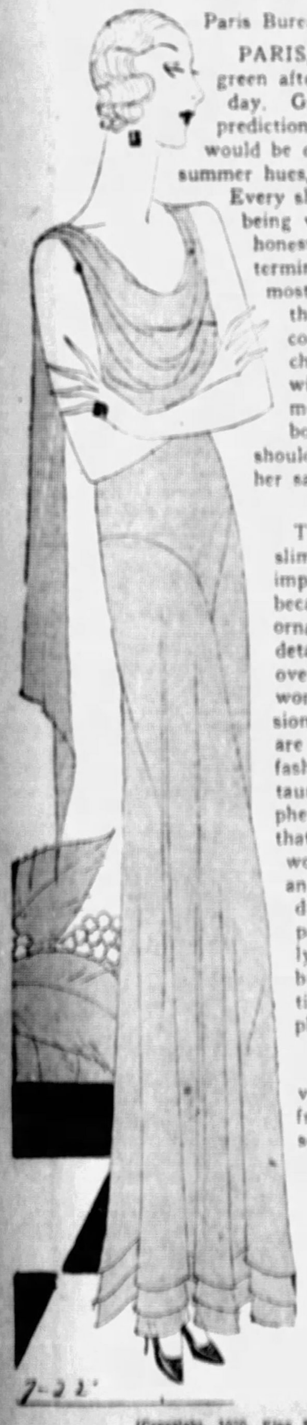
Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph



PARIS, July 22.—Many of us are green after dark as well as during the day. Green is obligingly fulfilling a prediction made by this bureau, that it would be one of the leading spring and summer hues, and it is still going strong. Every shade and variation of green is being worn and so it needs but an honest and unprejudiced eye to determine just which shade is the most flattering or the kindest to the complexion, whatever the coloring may be. Green is charming on a slim figure who will find that the green family is more than good to her, and both for day and evening she should include a diet of greens in her sartorial menu.

THE FROCK OF LONG slim lines made to convey an impression of striking simplicity, because of an utter absence of ornamentation and unnecessary detail, is sweepingly triumphant over here and is worn by every woman who has definite pretensions to smartness. Such dresses are frequently seen at the most fashionable resorts and restaurants and bestow an atmosphere of distinction on the wearer that is most desirable to the woman who dresses to create an individual effect. Such a dress is the one shown on this page which was sketched lately at the very charming Ambassadeurs, whose garden setting provides an ideal atmosphere for lovely clothes.

THE DRAPED BODICE is very graceful with its cowl front and back and the long scarf which may be thrown across the shoulders from one side to the other, or may be worn hanging as in the sketch. The wide, but straight-hanging, skirt is set onto a pointed yoke and is finished with three deep folds at the lower edge. The material is bright green georgette of a very heavy quality.

Three Contests Conducted By Federation Home Unit End Aug. 1

The three contests being conducted by the home department of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women will close August 1. Already a number of essays have been received by the several district chairmen of the department and by the state chairman, Mrs. John M. Phillips. Mrs. James Armstrong, of Monaca, chairman for this district, has been in California all summer, but will return home early in August.

The first contest is for essays of not more than 500 words on "Homemaking as a Profession" and is open to all club women. A prize of $5 is offered for this and for the second contest, to which only juniors are eligible. It also is an essay contest, with "What I Would Most Like to Do in Life" as the subject. The third contest is for a poem on the home or any phase of home life and is open to both juniors and seniors, with an award of $5 for the winner. All awards will be made at the October convention of the Federation in Scranton.

Dr. Percival Hunt, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Phillips will be the judges in the poetry contest, and for the other two, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. James G. Chalfant, chairman of education in the State Federation; Mrs. John E. McKirdy, district president, and Mrs. Armstrong will serve.

Tomorrow evening in the Nurses' Home, Carson street, a benefit card party will be held by the St. Joseph's Hospital Guild. The proceeds will be contributed to the hospital building fund.

Chairman Named For Shrine Outing

John J. Mamaux is general chairman of the sixth annual outing which members of the Syria Temple Automobile Club will hold at Conneaut Lake Friday, Saturday and Sunday. A special show for children will be staged at the resort. It is expected a Goodyear blimp will appear.

CHILD WELFARE STUDY IN FALL

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—President Hoover's conference on child health and protection will convene in Washington November 19-22 to study the preliminary surveys of its 20 odd sub-committees.

Announcements of the meeting were sent today by Dr. H. E. Barnard, director, to the 1,100 volunteer educators, technical men and women, all specialists in child welfare work, who a year ago were organized at the instance of the chief executive.

Nearly as many more, the director said, will be invited to participate in the conference.

For the last year, since July 29, 1929, when the President's selected planning committee of 27 met, surveys and recommendations to determine present progress and future needs have been in the making. In November, Dr. Barnard said, they will be ready for presentation to the conference.

RAIL COMBINE PLAN STANDS

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission will not alter for the present any provisions of the plan announced last December for consolidating the nation's railroads into 21 trunk line systems.

Trade bodies in Philadelphia, the Moffet Tunnel League in Colorado and the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine railroad in Texas had asked the commission to reconsider terms of the plan.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad and other interests in turn asked the Commission to refuse the reconsideration petitions.

The Commission today gave notice it would not take up the whole subject again and dismissed the petitions asking it to do so.

RUM MEN FACE TARIFF CHARGE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—Ten men, captured 23 miles off the New Jersey coast on a tug towing a barge bearing $300,000 worth of liquor, will appear for hearing August 4 to answer to prohibition law violation charges, also to the unusual charge of conspiring to violate the tariff act of 1930.

The basis of the latter charge is that the men were arrested in American waters on a vessel which contained foreign goods with no papers to show how they came by the cargo. It carries a penalty of a $5,000 fine or two years in prison, or both.

Coast guards effected the capture of the men and their cargo. Davis Straus, of New York, was said by authorities to be the leader of the alleged conspirators.

Rescuers Back, Fail To Find Burma Flier

RANGOON, Burma, July 22.—(AP.)—The party which has been searching the Burmese jungles for Eric Hook, missing British flier, returned to Prome today baffled, saying no traces of the aviator had been found. Hook and James Matthews were flying from England to Australia when their plane crashed between Akyab and Rangoon early this month. Matthews reached Prome after days of wandering.

3 Dogs, 2 Cats, Doomed, Win Stay

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—(INS.)—Three thoroughbred dogs and two Angora cats which were ordered executed by their late mistress, Mrs. Charles Winterman, today were assured at least a temporary lease on life by the action of Mrs. Nancy L. White, of Pasadena. Mrs. White obtained a temporary restraining order to prevent the immediate execution of the animals.

GET WASTE OUT OF YOUR SYSTEM

Banish Constipation at the Start with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Look out when you wake up tired and stay tired. Beware of headaches, unpleasant breath. These are usually the first symptoms of constipation.

The trouble is that your intestinal system is clogged. You have eaten too many bulkless foods. But you can clean your system safely, if you start at once to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a cereal that you can eat naturally. It sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Far better than habit-forming pills and drugs.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurring cases with every meal. You'll like its crispness and flavor. Your system will benefit by its rich store of iron and healthful elements as well as by its roughage.

Ready to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits and honey added. Recipes are on the package for muffins and griddle cakes. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants and dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GIRL CHOKED, FIANCE HELD

DETROIT, July 22.—(AP.)—The body of Miss Lillian Ferguson, 23, was found in an automobile which had been parked all day on a busy street and her sweetheart, Ellis P. Hudson, 29, was under arrest, accused of killing her.

The girl had been strangled by a handkerchief knotted about her throat. She had been dead 10 or 12 hours.

Hudson, dazed and incoherent, surrendered to the police a short time before the girl's body was discovered. He said he had no recollection of what had happened.

Miss Ferguson came to Detroit about seven years ago from Virginia, police said.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Why Should Lovers Be Bound by Vows?

Why is marriage?

Why can't we have unfettered "free love"?

Perhaps at 50 these questions seem very unnecessary to you. But they're burning problems to many a youngster of 20. And those youngsters will understand Mora's letter—even though it may shock you.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I am a high school girl of 16 and the other day I read a play called 'Why Marry?' by someone, and it has set me thinking. In the play two splendid young people love each other, but are loathe to wed. In the end they're trapped into it, as, of course, they would be.

"The point is this: I have been reflecting, and now I'm worried.

MARRIAGE A MOCKERY

"Why on earth do people consider a woman who opposes the marriage ceremony 'bad'? I can't see it. It seems to me that marriage is a mockery. A veil makes it pure. In the play Helen is condemned before the ceremony for wanting to go with Earnest. When she is his wife—oh, then it's all right!

"I can't understand. Sex is sex, and not all the ceremonies in creation can make it any different! What is the difference, underneath, anyway?

"In this play those two young people were like two glorious giants among a race of mean, evil-minded pigmies. A valuable formula for saving children's lives was at a crisis, and the colleagues, a man and a woman, were together all night in the laboratory, working on it . . . and then the relatives quibbled because Helen was female and Earnest was male, and it had been dark outside! Can you possibly respect such pettiness and such little meanness? Yet, they were good people! Oh!

"I have a very wonderful mother, but when I told her my views, she didn't say much, and I knew what that meant. She doesn't understand.

"Don't you, Sally Martin? Can't you help me? I am only 16 and I see things with a terrible clarity which the older people don't possess. They are used to it and it is custom. Enough. But I can, oh yes! I can see! And sometimes this world is a mighty hateful place, it seems.

ASKS ADVICE

"Why can't we have the ideal life where narrow-minded prigs are banned and standards are measured, not cold laws. It is so unjust.

"Won't you please help me out. Answer my letter. I reckon you would better not print it if you think it'll stir up a hornet's nest among the pharisees.

"And if you do, please don't reveal my identity in any way. I have some conventional relatives who are easily shocked and very conservative. MORA."

Why does society frown if a Helen gives herself to an Earnest without the bonds of marriage? Because she is giving much more than herself, Mora. She is giving the future of her unborn children. She is risking the safety of all other unborn babies and helpless mothers.

Marriage wasn't invented to legalize sex. It was invented to stabilize homes . . . . to provide security for women and children.

COMMON SENSE

That isn't priggishness. That's common sense. Mothers and babies need roofs over their heads and food in their tummies and a sense of protection. Otherwise the whole human race will go blooey. Theoretically, of course, men and women should be noble and intelligent enough to stand by their responsibilities. But unfortunately, we humans are still far from perfect and we need something that will keep us acting regular when we go native. So we have marriage—a tiresome institution at times, but mighty convenient for Junior and Sister.

All this seems horribly business-like to you, doesn't it, Mora? Well, marriage IS a business, the biggest business on earth. Sex seems very thrilling at sixteen—and romance overshadows everything else. But sex and romance are secondary matters in the great plan of life. And the lovers who are heedless of the common good—are rightfully considered on a par with other hoboes.

And believe me, little girl, any lover who's worth his salt will WANT to seal his devotion with every legal bond that can be found. For the right sort of a man is as proud of being a Regular Husband as he is of being a regular citizen.

Happiness Depends on the Quality of Our Imagination, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

They constantly think only the best thoughts of each other.

If there is a delay in a meeting, or one misses a phone call, the imagination furnishes all manner or delightful excuses for forgiveness.

But often, after marriage, the beginning of the end is imagining things in a bitter light.

Jealousy is the evil flower of a bitter imagination.

A practical joker sometimes lends a hand, and the first thing you know the weeds of imagination begin to choke the flowers of trust and content.

Madge Learns That Noel Also Received Letter

Philip Veritzen's full signature already valuable to autograph collectors was appended to the astounding letter which he had penned to Mary. My brain was already sending out queries in all directions as to the real meaning behind this epistle with its proposition so insulting to the girl's heart and ideals. One of these queries fastened itself upon this boldly written signature, and carried its image to a recess in my brain files where I locked it away for future consideration. Just now I knew that I must give all my attention to the girl whose tragic eyes were watching me.

"Well!" she said when I had finished reading the letter and looked over at her. "What shall I do about it? Shall it be said that I 'took the hundred thousand dollars'—pipe the comic sheets—also the car-e-e-r, and went out of Noel's life for-e-v-e-r?"

Her laugh at the end of her bitter little screed was not a pleasant thing to hear and I looked at her intently.

"If you have a single impulse toward an affirmative answer to this thing, Mary," I struck the open sheet contemptuously, "then any advice I might give you would surely be superfluous."

She winced as if I had struck her, but there came no swift impetuous denial such as I had expected, and my mental thermometer traveled quickly downward. Was it possible that Philip Veritzen's offer embodying, as it did, the certainty of both fame and financial independence was appealing to some hidden weakness in her character?

"I know what you're thinking of me, Auntie Madge," she said, "but please look at it from my standpoint. "If Noel wants me enough to tell his father where he can go with plenty of ice packs and palm leaf fans as baggage then I can afford to add a swift kick to the old goat. Otherwise why shouldn't I make the old hyena come through with the promises he's dishing up? One hundred thousand dollars and the renewal of his promise to make me the most famous Veritzen star aren't to be sneezed at when a girl has nothing else in sight."

I was seeing my way more clearly now, and I made my voice appealing.

"Come over here Mary," I said softly, for before I had finished reading the letter, she had sprung up from her kneeling position and walked a few paces away.

She did not obey for a second or two, but stood with tensed figure and stormy eyes, looking down at me. Then she flashed over to me and sank down at my feet again with her arms across my knees.

"Shoot the works," she said. "I'll take any medicine you hand out."

"I'm not sure that you need anything but a tonic," I told her smiling. "But I do want an answer to this question: Why do you think that Noel may not want you enough to defy his father for you? Could there be a more complete defiance or renunciation than he made just before Philip Veritzen disappeared?"

"No, there couldn't," Mary admitted slowly, then her face shadowed.

"But, Auntie Madge," the words were an anguished cry, "ever since these letters came he has been so changed. How do I know what he may be thinking?"

"These letters," I repeated slowly, mindful of the fact that I must not betray my previous knowledge of the epistles. "Was there more than one, and have you shown them to Noel?"

"Indeed I haven't shown this thing to him—" the gesture of her hand toward the letter I still held was like the savage lashing out of a horse's hoof—"but he had one at the same time that mine came. Aunt Katherine handed them out together, and I couldn't help seeing that Noel's was in the same handwriting as mine and looked exactly like it."

"Do you know what was in it?" I asked, although I was sure that she did not from the description which Katherine had given me of the way Noel had burned his letter. He patiently had meant no eyes but his own to see it.

"I don't know anything," she returned, "for I've never seen it since—I believe he must have destroyed it—but it must have been something fierce, even worse than mine—for ever since then Noel has been so changed. I—I—it's a hard thing to talk about, Auntie Madge," her head dropped lower to my knees, "but we're engaged, you know, Noel and I—and he'd like a petting party as well as anybody, but—but since this came, it seems just as though every time he put his arm around me or took hold of my hand, something clutched at him and made him jerk away again. And if I happen to put my hand on his or—or—anything like that—he first snatches at it and then shrinks away as if it were something poisonous. Oh! What could his father have said to make him act that way?"

Household Hints

Rubbing with the inside peel of a banana will remove ink stains from the fingers.

To remove a stamp from an envelope place over it a piece of blotting paper soaked in water.

When crackers lose their freshness during the warm weather they can be crisped again by heating in a hot oven, but in this manner they never retain quite the same flavor. The best way is to spread them out in the sunshine on a warm day. When they are thoroughly dried out you will find they have also regained their original flavor and seem like fresh crackers.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Woman-Haters—and Others

When a young man starts out in life with the firm intention never to marry, he is nearly always sure to come to a sad but respectable end as a devoted husband. It's the playboy, who starts out with no serious intentions whatever, who usually dies with his bachelor's buttons intact.

Probably George Washington could not tell a lie—but, then, he never had a chance to abili himself at the other end of a telephone. So, he got no practice.

Every earnest woman-hater believes that the female of the species is an unreasonable creature, who will eat anything except real food, wear anything except clothes, do anything but the expected, and believe anything except the truth.

It is easier to get a motor car run by a hundred horsepower than to get a lawnmower run by one husband-power.

It's hard to find a man who doesn't secretly believe that he could beat the stock market, write a play, run a chicken farm and conquer almost any woman.

Modern marriage should be listed under the "Arts and Crafts," considering how much art it takes to get a man to the altar, and how much craft it takes to hold onto him, after you've got him, these days.

A man might escape from a love affair that has become tiresome much more easily and quickly, if he would only realize that the girl may be suffering from a touch of heart fag, too.

There are no limits to what a woman can do with a man—so long as he knows that she can do without him.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, July 23

The lunar transits for this day hold augury of interesting and probably gratifying conditions for those in employment, who may be assured of favors, recognition or some measure of advancement from employers or those in authority. New projects are also under a favorable rule for successful launching, but a mildly adverse position of Mercury urges the need of discretion in writings and contracts. Be careful in letter writing and in speech.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of recognition and advancement if in the employment of others. There is prospect of small favors or preferment from those in authority. New undertakings are also under a fortunate rulership for successful launching and progressive development, but sign all papers and letters with precaution.

A child born on this day may be shrewd, capable and ambitious and should reach a fairly successful status in life through favors or recognition from those in positions of authority and might be wise to inculcate high principles of honor and veracity in early years.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Occupational Neuritis Is Common

On my desk is a letter from Oakland, Cal., asking for an article on "Occupational Neuritis."

There are many of the so-called occupational diseases. We know furnace stokers and bakers suffer from the effects of intense heat, and packers, in storage plants suffer from the cold. Lead and mercury poisoning are found among painters and other workers. Divers suffer from bad air. The immediate annoyances of most of these disturbances disappear when the person leaves his work at the end of the day.

DR. COPELAND

The term "occupational neuritis" includes a large number of disturbances of nerves and muscles due to long-continued overuse. They are due to strain or to repeated shocks to nerves or muscles because of the demands in certain occupations.

As a rule these are occupations requiring intelligence and concentration. But occasionally persons doing unskilled labor are troubled with pains in overworked parts.

The most common of the occupational disorders are ailments known as "writer's" "telegrapher's" and "typist's" cramp. Many musicians, particularly pianists, violinists and drummers, develop neuritis.

Others who suffer are carpenters, machinists, tailors and masons. In fact, anyone who holds the same position for a long period or who goes through the same motions repeatedly may have trouble.

This condition shows itself in pains and cramps in the muscles during exercise or while holding the position which has caused the trouble. Later these pains disappear during rest. As a rule, there is increased tenderness along the course of the nerve in the involved part.

Neuritis due to occupation may be avoided by changing the position of the body frequently. These changes transfer the muscular pressure from one group of muscles to another. The symptoms are always relieved by brief periods of rest. Indeed, when trouble has developed rest is the first thing to be thought of as a means of benefiting the victim.

If there is much pain massage, heat and electricity are all helpful. Sometimes it is necessary to have a complete change of occupation.

When you leave you, work change to fresh clothes and take a short walk. Do not eat if you are tired or do not feel well. Rest for half an hour, wash the face and hands thoroughly and take a cup of soup. This should refresh you and drive away the result of the day's work. Later you will enjoy the evening meal.

Answers to Health Queries

V. B. Q.—What do you advise for insomnia?

A.—Many cases of insomnia are due to intestinal disturbances, constipation, worry and overwork. If the underlying cause is known you must set about correcting it at once.

L. M. K. Q.—What is the cause of enlarged finger joints?

A.—Some sort of infection present in the system is responsible for this condition. Have the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, kidneys, intestines and gall bladder investigated.

* * *

G. R. J.—What can I do in order to overcome constipation? I have suffered with this trouble for years.

A.—You should correct your diet. Avoid foods unduly rich in starches and fats. Eat only simple food.

Alberta E. Q.—I have at frequent intervals extreme dryness of the mouth and throat and find difficulty in swallowing my food. What is the cause of this ailment?

A.—This condition may be due to cold settling in the throat. Make sure your tonsils are not diseased. Keep your general health built up so you will not be so susceptible to colds. As a tonic take a tablespoonful of pure cod liver oil after meals.

Patty, Q.—What causes my lips to be colorless?

A.—May be due to anemia. Take deep breathing exercises, lots of sunlight and nourishing food. Have your doctor prescribe a good blood tonic.

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

with Johnson. Yet Farrell lived. He laughed. He loved. Yes, Farrel knew the meaning of love——.

"Your cheeks are as red as a poppy, little Raquel." She started. It was the nearest to a compliment Johnson had ever paid. Not that he hadn't tried; wrestled with his awkward tongue to make it trip along a pretty speech. It simply wasn't in him to do it. He felt foolish. Like a blind bat trying to play butterfly.

Raquel had almost forgotten Johnson, there on the bench. She must get rid of him if she was going to meet Farrell.

Farrell was waiting for her. By the crumbling adobe wall on which she had sat the night she got the idea of how to silence Lily.

"I thought you'd pass me up, Raquita," he said, taking her quick slim hands in his lean brown ones. "It's been years since——"

"Yesterday," she interrupted. It was good to hear these things. Farrell loved her. She would like to listen to the caress on his lips. If it were not that they must be going on into the town. This meeting was not to be a clandestine one. She would make sure it would come to Johnson's ears. Johnson had to be taught a lesson.

Farrell could scarcely conceal his surprise at Raquel's change in attitude toward him. She was willing to be seen openly with him, to let the whole town know he found favor in her eyes. She even clung to his arm as they passed along the main street baiting him, indulging in happy raillery.

The touch of her was like quicksilver in his veins. His pulses leaped. Jove—she was beautiful. The incarnation of that flaming cactus flower she wore in her hair. Did she love him? Was she going to throw Johnson over—for him?

Raquel dismissed Farrell at the corner of the lane leading to the Rojos shack. The news of her frank admiration for Farrell must have traveled fast. Already it had brought Johnson to the hut, fuming over her return.

"I thought we might get hitched right away," he greeted her with a flourish of magnanimity, "and take that trip to 'Frisco you been wanting."

Raquel shrugged indifferent shoulders. A far-away look in her eyes.

"Why the hurry?" she asked. "The stone house isn't even started."

"I don't like you running around with his fellow Farrell."

So that was it, Johnson was afraid of Farrell. He was willing to buy her away from Farrel with a trip to 'Frisco. All her life with Johnson would be like this. Bargaining. With him getting the best of it in the end. 'Frisco, a few weeks of escape from Hermosa—problematical weeks, so far as happiness was concerned, she knew now—then back to the dust, the desert, the deadly dullness. Johnson would find ways to keep her here, too, once she belonged to him.

"I don't want to be married—now," Raquel said petulantly. "We'll wait till the house is finished."

Johnson's brows drew so low that his eyes were two surly wells of thwarted hope.

"All right," he growled. "But you got to cut out Farrell. You got to promise you'll never see him again."

Raquel turned on him in a white fury.

"Brotcho-buster!" she cried. "I promise you nothing."

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Climate has a good deal to do with the health of the hair. In a dry climate it breaks. In a moist, warm climate it is likely to be thick and abundant. Hair grows faster in the summertime than in the winter. One hair doesn't grow as fast as its neighbor—one may be young and the other old. The human hair is always renewing itself.

Treatment for frowns between the eyes: anoint with a heavy cream. Place thumb at lower end, first finger at upper point. Keep finger stationary and iron upward with the thumb. Follow with a rotary movement, little circles done with the first finger. Finish up with an ice ironing. The necessary step of course is to stop frowning.

Liverspots are not caused by the liver, they are chemical changes in the pigment of the skin. When the flesh lifts under the spots, it is practically impossible to remove them. Lemon juice applied in the early stages will sometimes discourage them. Peroxide they don't like. The more cold cream the better. Exposure to sunlight is bad policy.

Ready for Use

Each summer we are tempted to bring to the housewife this little tip because it has been such a help to us. Purchase a small aluminum saucepan and in this keep paraffin, both old and new. Then when you have jelly to cover, put the pan on the stove and melt as much as is needed. It pours easily and the leftover hardens again and is ready for the next time.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Invitation and the Announcement

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My daughter is to be married next month, and, following the ceremony, for the family, only, we are holding a reception. What is the correct procedure? Should I mail invitations for the reception or mention it on the announcements, which would, of course, have to be mailed some time before?

READER.

The invitation to the wedding ceremony is sent about three weeks before the date set for the wedding, and if there is to be a reception after the ceremony, we enclose, with the invitation, a card of invitation (formally engraved, like the invitation). This invitation to the reception should be separate from the invitation. The card is half the size of the invitation, and is not double-sheeted, as is the invitation.

And, by the way, the announcements are the cards that are sent out after the ceremony has been performed. They tell the news of the marriage; the invitation invites to the wedding.

Flowers for the Deceased

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I wonder if it is proper to send money to relatives of one's deceased friends for flowers, to be put on the graves on different occasions, as it is impossible for me to ever visit the different cemetaries?

MARY.

Yes, this would be proper, and a very thoughtful thing to do. And a gesture that I am sure the relatives would love and appreciate. I can't see how it could possibly be misinterpreted. Usually, too, this kind of arrangement can be made with the superintendent of a cemetery, although it would probably be better to do it through the relatives of the friend, if that is possible.

Asking Permission to Go to a Party

1.—When a boy asks a girl to go out with him for the first time, and she wishes to do so, but not without asking the consent of her parents, what kind of answer should she give him?

2.—Should the boy or the girl ask her parents?

DOUBTFUL.

1.—She should tell him just that—that she wishes to ask her parents first. And he will admire her for this, if he is, as we are sure he is, a well bred cavalier!

2.—The girl.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

For something to cry out loud about, read the lady from Detroit, who, when a man decides they aren't suited, postponed the wedding date innumerable times, breaks engagements and fails to phone, still insists that she loves him and wants to marry him! She adds along with this statement that they are "totally unsuited." Can you tie that?

I'll let her tell it to you. You wouldn't believe me:

"I am 20 and have devoted the past four years of my life to a young man 10 years my senior. We became engaged and he has repeatedly postponed the wedding or we have quarreled and didn't make up till too late for the wedding date. I have a lovely engagement ring, but he disappoints me so many times, breaking off dates, failing to phone, calling off the wedding!

"I love him devotedly but flew off the handle and was utterly selfish at times. He seemed utterly sincere in his plans made Christmas, to marry me this month. Later he told me that he had changed his mind and that he wasn't doing so well in business, and he didn't want to take on any more responsibility. You can't imagine my disappointment, and this wasn't the first time. Then I sent for him a few days later to put him out of my life, and he wanted to be friends. I was too hurt to consent to any such arrangement. We parted. Five months have passed and we meet but pass by with only a word of greeting. I miss him terribly; I'm not heartbroken, but I just miss him. I can't be bitter toward him to save me."

Listen to me, you are barking up the wrong tree. He doesn't love you, he doesn't want you, and he will let you go, as you say. I think you made a mistake not to give him his walking papers and not let him do the breaking off. The best you can do is to go with others and pretend to have a good time even if you can't. Soon you will be happy and meet a man who loves you.

It has happened before and it will happen to you if you let it. But for heavens sake stop mooning over this what-you-call-it! You haven't lost much. Too bad you didn't lose it sooner. I'm speaking for your good, not his.

A FLASHBACK TO LAST YEAR

HENRI COCHET — BILL TILDEN

Our Big Bill Tilden is back in the swim for the challenge round of the Davis Cup play against France this week-end. He is back against his "own better judgment," and is being hailed as the hope of this country in its effort to regain the famous trophy, emblematic of the world team tennis championship. Photo shows him with Cochet, star of the French team, after the latter had beaten him in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2, in last year's challenge round, at the Roland Garros Stadium, Auteuil, France, where this week's matches also will be staged.

ACCOMPANIED BY THE to-be-expected dramatics that the situation seems to call for, William T. Tilden, II, is back in harness for the Davis Cup challenge round and will bear the burden for the United States with George Lott, Jr., in the singles play while Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn will take care of the doubles against France, the defending team, at Auteuil, France, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Having got his syndicate writing affairs in order, Tilden now is ready to go ahead and play "against his wishes and own better judgment." He is doing his duty as he sees it out of his personal friendship for Joseph Wear, chairman of the cup committee, and Capt. Fitz Eugene Dixon, manager of the American team, and gives the impression that the tennis honor and glory of his native land come second to the fulfillment of these personal obligations.

HOWEVER, ANY ONE knowing Tilden will not take offense at the turn of events that brings him back onto the field of battle amid a blare of trumpets hailing the conquering hero. Tilden, the eternal showman, is that way. Just a big boy, albeit he is the "grand old man" of the tennis courts. Just a fellow who likes to be coaxed and wheedled into believing that he is doing something against his own will to help his friends, even if he still is nursing a pet peeve against some of the officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, whom he has had the satisfaction of humbling in previous clashes of wits and politics.

But, under any circumstances, we are glad to have Big Bill back in the lineup, even with his game old ankle sprained all over again and causing the utmost concern, to add to the general confusion of the eleventh-hour call to the colors. When Bill says, as he is quoted from Paris, "It (the sprained ankle) really is nothing, I'll play in the Davis Cup finals if it kills me!" we clap our aching palms once more for the colorful cuss that is Bill Tilden and like him all the more for his sense of the dramatic. The chap really is a better actor than he was given credit for being when he was working behind the footlights.

Tilden's presence and experience are needed on the Davis Cup team that has fought its way through the preliminary rounds without him and won the right to challenge for the trophy. Some of the youngsters have gone stale and Tilden demonstrated by his play in the recent Wimbledon championships that he has worked the miracle of a marvelous comeback to form this year. For one thing, he won the Wimbledon title, and, in the final round, accounted for Wilmer Allison, young Texan, who previously had defeated Henri Cochet, conqueror of Tilden in last year's Davis Cup challenge round.

WHY ALL OF the fuss about the Davis Cup, which is just a rather full-bellied bowl emblematic of the world team tennis championship? Does it really matter very much whether or not the United States regains possession of the bit of silverware? Well, on the sur-

ITALIAN ARMY RECALLS PRIMO TO SERVICE

OMAHA, Neb., July 22.—(AP.)—The Italian Army has ended the American appearance of Primo Carnera, the vast boxfighter from Venice.

Frank Paccassi, business manager for the Italian heavyweight, said last night that Carnera had received a summons to return forthwith to his native shores to serve out a year in uniform. Paccassi disclosed that a six-month extension of the date on which Primo was to enter the Army, granted by Mussolini himself, had expired.

The big boy's business manager prophesied an end to Carnera's career in the ring.

EXTENSION DENIED

The summons to return to Italy came on the heels of Paccassi's announcement that government authorities had denied Carnera and his manager, Leon See, an extension of their stay in the United States.

The application to immigration authorities was forwarded from Omaha after Carnera and See came here last week for the Bearcat Wright fight. Paccassi said Carnera and See were expected in Montreal sometime today and that the summons from Italy was received after their departure from Omaha.

U. S. ORDERS LEAVE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Byron H. Uhl, assistant commissioner of immigration here, said last night he had received notice from Washington that Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, and his French manager, Leon See, must vacate American shores, and had forwarded them the message received at Omaha.

Uhl said he did not know why the Secretary of Labor had denied the aliens' request for a six months extension of their legal stay in the United States. He said he understood, however, that Carnera and See entered the United States last December, and that their six months' permit had been up for some time.

SEE SURPRISED

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 22.—(AP.)—Leon See, French manager of Primo Carnera, when advised here last night that an extension of the time he and the boxer might remain in this country had been denied, said he had been of the opinion such an extension already had been granted.

See said that when he and Carnera left Paris for the United States they obtained a passport for 12 months from the American consul there. When admitted at Ellis Island, See said, they were given a passport for six months, with a provisional clause they could obtain an extension of six months if application was filed with the State Department at Washington prior to July 1.

See said he applied two weeks prior to July 1 to the State Department for an extension and thought it had been granted, although he said he had left the matter in the hands of his attorneys in New York and did not know what had been the result.

Carnera was the guest of the Italian Club here last night at a celebration and banquet in his honor. His four-round exhibition bout with a sparring partner headlined a boxing show staged by the club.

L. NORDSTROM TAKES LEAD

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—A strapping Nordic from Davenport, Ia., Lloyd Nordstrom, argued his way into the Western amateur golf championship yesterday and then as rebuttal shot a sparkling 71 to snatch the lead in the first 18-hole drive for the qualifying medal.

When Nordstrom, a rank outsider in championship calculations, came up to the first tee, he was advised his entry had not been received. After a long argument, he was permitted to compete and in his alternate anger and joy he came within one stroke of taming old man par in his 6,702-yard stronghold of yawning traps, bunkers and trees. He toured the first nine in 38, but came back with a 34, one under par, despite a four-putt green on the short twelfth hole.

Cyril Tolley and T. Phillip Perkins, two English stars who stand out as certain contenders, were near the top, Tolley landing in a three-way tie with Don Armstrong, of Aurora, Ills., and Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, with a smart 73, two over par, while Perkins scored a 75.

Charles (Chick) Evans, of Chicago, eight times holder of the Western crown, played within easy striking distance of the qualifying limit after the initial round with a 75. Two other favorites, Keefe Carter, of Oklahoma City, former Western champion, and Bob McCrary, of Des Moines, Ia., trans-Mississippi champion for the past two seasons, ran into difficulties on the first nine holes, but came back with a brilliant brand of golf to score 77's.

ANGELS TRY NIGHT BALL

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—(AP.)—The Los Angeles baseball team, at Wrigley Field, this evening joins the ranks of the night clubs. The $35,000 lighting arrangement was given its final test last night for the game between the Angels and Sacramento.

Primo Visitor Here; Off for Montreal

Wearing a frown and a worried expression, occasioned, no doubt, by the thought of wearing an Italian army uniform in the very near future, Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, breakfasted and was shaved in Pittsburgh this morning prior to entraining for Montreal, Que., his next stop before embarking for Italy and a year of military service there.

Showing no partiality for Pittsburgh's railroads, Primo enjoyed breakfast at the Pennsylvania Station, where he arrived from Steubenville, and was shaved in the barber shop of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie terminal. Primo, his manager, Leon See, and two sparring partners, left at 11 o'clock for Buffalo. There they will make connections for Montreal.

CANZONERI BEATS BASS

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(AP.)—Tony Canzoneri, slugging New Yorker, won a 10-round decision over Benny Bass, Philadelphia, recognized in a number of states as junior-lightweight champion, in the feature bout at the Phillies' ball park last night. Bass' title was not at stake. He weighed 125¾ and Canzoneri 130½.

Matty White, Philadelphia, defeated Mickey Doyle, Pittston, Pa., in a six-round go. Allie Wolff, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who formerly starred in the backfield of the Penn State football team, won the decision over Tony Tedesco, Philadelphia, in another six-round bout.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Well, folks, don't know whether it's us that's following the heat or what, but I guess I'll have to revise some of the things I said about St. Louis. It was 103 in Philly just before the game started, and I didn't notice much change at any time during the day.

A fellow named Al Lang, who is well known and highly regarded in Pittsburgh, came to our bench before the game. He is a big shot in Florida now. He said he came up for a little vacation, but he thought he would hustle back to St. Petersburg if the hot spell didn't break. That's a tight number when you go to Florida to duck the heat, isn't it?

HOT PLAYING DAYS

The St. Louis series was a hot one, and the one in Boston was a corker. The boys lost a lot of weight in them hot days, and there was some poundage dropped out there yesterday. I guess we're in for change, though.

Nobody on either bench had any pep yesterday, outside of Dick Bartell, who would be out there poppin' off if everybody else was collapsing. There's one kid that seems to feel good all the time.

Adam Comorosky brought a home-town kid in to work out with the Pirates yesterday. Jule allowed Adam to spend Sunday at home, and today he came up with a shortstop who will be as big as Rabbit Maranville some day if he keeps growin'. He was a cute little fellow at that. Pie Traynor got him up at the plate in the batting practice. Jule was afraid Pie was gonna keep him up there hittin' for 10 minutes like he did to some poor farmer boy who worked out with us here on the last trip.

PIE LIKES YOUNGSTERS

Pie gets an awful kick outa doing things like that. He's always tryin' to help the young fellas, but he has a great time if he can keep some greenhorn up at the plate while the rest of the regulars are trying to hit a couple. Well, maybe they get too much hittin' practice, anyhow. Some of the hits that ring in practice would be fine if they'd save them for the game.

German Champ Relinquishes Crown

BERLIN, July 22.—(AP.)—Hein Domgoergen has relinquished his German middleweight boxing championship because of dissatisfaction over a $500 purse offered him to defend his title against Erich Tobeck.

BILL O'LOUGHLIN BEATEN

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Favorites fought their way into the third round of the metropolitan lawn tennis turf championships yesterday. Frank Hunter, second ranking American star and seeded number 1 in the tournament, set the pace for the field with a 15-minute 6-0, 6-0 victory over Selden G. Noyes, of Brooklyn.

Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, and Jack Tidball, Los Angeles, came through in impressive fashion, Vines defeating Ted Burwell, of Charlotte, N. C., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, and Tidball tripping Gustave Boehmer, Jr., of New York, 6-3, 6-4.

Donald Cram, of Vanderbilt University, toyed with James M. Green, of California, to score at 8-6, 6-2. Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, national junior champion, took the measure of Hugh McDiarmid, of New York, 7-5, 7-5.

RODGERS FARMED OUT

Frank (Dundee) Rodgers, McKees Rocks lad, purchased by Baltimore from New Haven, has been released to the Peoria club of the Three-Eye League under option.

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Just when it seemed the Pirates were going places to do things they ran afoul of the National League ruins, known in too polite language as the Baker Bowl. Crash went a promising winning streak as Remy Kremer, the Buccaneer ace, collapsed in the joke park.

Baker's loose-lead ball club was deep down in the cellar as the Pirates reached town, and the Phillies are likely to stay there for some time as they are just like a lot of lost minstrels when they get on the road. But they seem to be bent upon holding back their fellow Pennsylvanians.

Defeated, 7 to 2, in short order yesterday afternoon, the Pirates will attempt to square the match this afternoon. Larry French will be on the mound for the Buccos, with Ray Benge or Phil Collins flipping the ball for the home team.

POOR PLAYING CONDITIONS

The playing space of the local park is in terrible shape as a result of giving over the park to prize fights. Yesterday's contest had hardly finished when a score of workmen began to dig holes in the diamond in which to set up a ring for the night's scrap. The infield is like a washboard. Pie Traynor almost was struck in the face with one grounder that hit one of the hundreds of ridges. All in all, the National League in Philadelphia has fallen into a low estate. And less than five blocks away, the American League owns a prosperous and alluring franchise just because baseball men are in the saddle.

Burt Shotten's disgust at the position of a club that was supposed to make a showing is so marked that one would think Shotton was about ready to give up for the year, but Burt had

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—After what they did on their present road trip, you can make violin strings out of the Cubs' stomachs any time you want to. When you can climb in the league standing at the same time you're climbing in and out of upper berths, you've got a team with more grit than a peck of spinach. All this was accomplished, too, with Rogers Hornsby covering second base from a porch hammock. I am beginning to think the only way those Brooklyn fans may see the world series this autumn is by getting it off bulletin boards or eavesdropping on Graham McNamee.

INTER-PARK ELIMINATION SERIES DRAW SET

FIRST ROUND SLATED FOR THURSDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The tournament committee officially in charge of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph revival of the Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships preliminary tilting in which was wound up in six local parks last Saturday today released drawings and pairings for the Inter-Park elimination series, carded for the splendid new Frick Park lot Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for the purpose of determining Steel City municipal champions in men's and women's singles. The Inter-Park tussles involve in combat the dozen survivors of individual park tourney play, six contestants being billed to cavort in the masculine division and as many more awaiting action in the feminine sector.

Frank Broida, brilliant little Harvard southpaw who annexed Frick Park honors, and Irvin Goodman, scintillant Pitt stylist and decisive Schenley victor, have landed byes in opposite halves of the man-to-man bracket and will accordingly enjoy opportunity to rest until Friday when the remainder of the contesting group will be out to meet them.

BEILSTEIN VS. REDMOND

In the initial round, upper portion, Karl Beilstein, flashy West Park winner, will tangle with Jack Redmond, youthful city high school titleholder and Highland champ, for the right to move ahead to encounter Broida in the semi-finals. Similarly in the lower section, Jack Herrmann, rangy Shady Side Academy lad, who triumphed at Riverview, will battle Robert Broad, dark horse captor of Olympia laurels, for the privilege of achieving a crack at Goodman. All of which indicates that an exceptionally well-balanced batch of competition is in the offing.

In the women's jousting, the good fortune of byes into the penultimate frame has gone to Anne Elise Searing, Frick driver, and Mildred Klages, agile chop expert of West Park. Ruth Staiger, Riverview aspirant, is booked in round one to tangle with Letitia Schmidt, Carrick slicer, who surprised the wise ones by coming through a Schenley field that included such tried campaigners as Jeannette Miller, Florence Schneider, Eleanor Lemon and Dorothy Albert.

The victorious party to the Staiger-Schmidt duel will encounter Miss Searing in the top half, while Ruth Spencer, Highland star, and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Olympia favorite, meet for the chance to combat Miss Klages in the opposite.

SLATE ANNOUNCED

Plans for the actual scheduling of matches call for the staging of first and semi-final round women's tussles on Thursday and Friday afternoons respectively at 3 o'clock. Corresponding rounds of men's milling will be reeled off on the same days at 5:30. The women's finale will get under way at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, with the men's titular feature following immediately at about 2:30. This arrangement allows for minimum expenditure of court time during busy hours and meanwhile provides convenient periods of play for both contenders and galleries.

By singular co-incidence, three of the Inter-Park Series luminaries stand forth as dangerous anglers for the Pittsburgh Center Junior crown to be skirmished for on the Carnegie Tech rectangles on July 29, 30 and 31. Broida, Redmond and Herrmann are the boys in question and their inclusion among the highly-rated chasers of both Park and Junior trophies is significant not only of the fact that a younger and more skillful generation is arising on the municipal lots, but also of encouraging outlook for Pittsburgh in junior ranks, a branch of the pastime that appeared decidedly on the down grade locally when such aces as the O'Loughlin trio, Byron Baur, Larry Semans, and Billy Ramsay passed into the senior field. The park pairings:

MEN'S SINGLES.

First round—Karl Beilstein vs. Jack Redmond; Jack Herrmann vs. Robert Broad.

Semi-final round—Frank Broida vs. winner of Beilstein-Redmond match; Irvin Goodman vs. winner of Herrmann-Broad match.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

First round—Ruth E. Staiger vs. Letitia Schmidt; Ruth Spencer vs. Mrs. Jean Artzberger.

Semi-final round—Anne Elise Searing vs. winner of Staiger-Schmidt match; Mildred Klages vs. winner of Spencer-Artzberger match.

Broida Reaches Quarter-Final Round

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—(AP.)—Frank Broida, Pittsburgh; Clayton Delaney, Baltimore, and Warren Munger, Philips-Exeter, yesterday advanced to the quarter-final in the junior division of the Pennsylvania state boys' tennis tournament at the Cynwyd Club.

Each won two matches. Broida defeated H. Goldstein, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-3, and Don Morrison, Washington, D. C., 1-6, 8-6, 6-4; Delaney eliminated M. Gabel, Lehigh, 6-0, 6-0, and Joe Kassoway, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-3, and Munger beat Bayard Goslin, Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-0, and Edward Leathem, Lansdowne, Pa., 6-2, 7-5.

PYLE, SPIKED, DIES

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 22.—(AP.)—James Pyle, 32, a member of the Bluefield, Va., City League baseball team, died in a hospital here last night from injuries suffered in a baseball game yesterday afternoon. Pyle, playing first base, attempted to tag the runner and was struck by his spikes. He finished the game as previously inning on it should, but was seized with convulsions later at his home. He was taken to a hospital, where it was found he suffered a fractured skull.

FAVORITE FALLS

TOLEDO, July 22.—(AP.)—A favorite went tumbling in the first event of the opening program of Grand Circuit racing at Fort Miami Park last night and Cap Gap, driven by Joe Palin, won the 2:12 class pace. Guy Lark, in charge of Jake Mahoney, had been installed a favorite, but never figured.

NET STARS ADVANCE

TORONTO, July 22.—(AP.)—G. Jackson Rogers, ailed Irish Davis Cup player, Jack Davis, of Los Angeles, and C. W. Fraser, of Montreal, all advanced to the third round of the Canadian lawn tennis championships yesterday.

RUMANIA BOWS

Keck's Sport Comment

face it would appear that all of the hoorah constitutes much ado about very little, but, underneath, there is a very practical reason why, aside from the glory that goes with the holding of the championship and the trophy, the United States Lawn Tennis Association attaches so much importance to the pursuit of the Davis Cup. Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association and tennis expert for your favorite newspaper, which you now are reading, sizes up the situation in a comprehensive manner, and he knows whereof he speaks.

TO THE UNINFORMED, Sullivan says, it may seem like a rather silly expenditure of time and money for sizable groups of our leading players to be sent abroad each year in quest of what, after all, is only a highly-engraved bit of the silversmith's art. Add to the actual expenses of European travel the very considerable sums put forth in providing for the team trials here in the spring, not to mention the cost of equipment and various incidentals, and you have a total that rather pales into insignificance the intrinsic value of the cup itself. Still, every summer since the French captured the bowl at Germantown in 1927, our racqueters have been hot on the trail. And why?

Well, there's a lot more to it, so far as the U. S. L. T. A., is concerned, than mere sentiment. When the Davis Cup is in American possession there is played at Longwood the Inter-Zone final for the purpose of determining the challenging nation, and, a week later, there is played at Germantown the Challenge Round, in which the survivor of the all-nations all-comers battles the United States for the flagon. The Inter-Zone Final usually is quite well patronized—say to the extent of $8,000 or $10,000—after which comes the Challenge Round that means over the three-day tie a total crowd of 40,000, perhaps 50,000, spectators at $2 and $3 a head. And that is not all; the National Championship tournament at Forest Hills is a much more colorful event when we hold international supremacy and this, too, is reflected vitally in the gate receipts.

THUS, AT A rough guess, American hold upon the Davis Cup is worth, minus expenses, in the neighborhood of $150,000. And does the U. S. L. T. A., hoard this great surplus in its treasury? It does not. The bulk of the wad is spread through the financially weak sub-associations of the country and employed to excellent advantage in the promotion of tennis in the provinces. Pittsburgh, for example, was a beneficiary of this largess for several years prior to 1928, and loss of the cup the season previous to this clipped income to such a point that no dividend has been forthcoming since. The Pittsburgh Tennis Association had been sinking its share of the U. S. L. T. A. fund in the furthering of junior tennis by sending the winners of the Pittsburgh Center Junior and Boys' tournament to the National youths' championships, all expenses paid. Last year, with the source of supply abruptly cut off, the local racquet organization was forced to go into the hole to ship its youngsters to the nation-wide competition. So, regardless of who else is pulling for American triumph at Stade Roland Garros this week-end, you may safely wager that the P. T. A. will be rooting high, wide and handsome for Tilden, Allison and company to flay the French.

Making a quick jump from world tennis doings, we find another form of international competition over which to become concerned regarding America's prospects. Johnny Weissmuller, famous swimming champion and Olympic hero of years gone by, was a visitor in town for a series of exhibitions yesterday and Sunday, and, before departing, shed copious tears over the dark and dank outlook of Uncle Sam in the 1932 Olympics, to be held in Los Angeles. That is, Weissmuller was worried about the swimming angle of the Olympics.

So far as our women swimmers are concerned, Weissmuller, a likeable chap, is not in the least perturbed, but he is very dubious about our men tank stars (no pun on heavyweight fighters intended). On his tour of the country, in the interest of better swimming and the popularization of a standard make garment, Johnny is keeping a weather eye peeled for good talent that may be shaped into winning material for the games two years hence. Johnny himself concluded his Olympic competition in 1928.

WEISSMULLER REPORTS THAT virtually all of the nations that the United States will have to oppose in the Olympics are improving in the matter of the performances of their male swimming stars, and in his present role, he looms as somewhat of a swimming Paul Revere going chasing about the land swinging a lantern and sounding the alarm to be up and at 'em. Two years is a long time and a lot of human fish will go floating over the dam before the Olympics arrive, but it is just as well to heed the words of wisdom of this Weissmuller fellow, for he knows his swimming strokes, and then, if the worst happens, we'll be in the position of folks who aren't in the least surprised, for we can sit back and say, "Well, we rather expected it; Johnny Weissmuller told us two years ago this would happen."

DIGNIFYING THE OCCASION when the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph holds its third annual banquet to reward the winners of its William Randolph Hearst junior golf championship tournament, in the William Penn Hotel tonight, will be J. Bernd Rose, president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, who will make the awards to the young stars, and Carl F. Kauffmann, the Schenley Park star, who holds the national public links title and has won that honor three years in a row. Last year, James F. Malone, then president of City Council, made the awards, and, the first year, E. V. Babcock, county commissioner and former mayor, did the honors. Thus is the finest event of its kind in the district annually given an official touch. Anthony Myers, 17, of Etna, who won the tournament this year with a fine 66 for the 18-hole layout, will be the guest of honor tonight. His reward will be the handsome 26-inch William Randolph Hearst trophy, a set of steel-shafted matched irons and a solid gold medal. Other prizes will go to individuals and teams.

Sport Vignettes

CONTRARY TO OTHER announcements, Frank Wykoff, University of Southern California sprint star, will not be a contestant in the National A. A. U. games to be held in the Stadium here, August 22, 23 and 25. Coach Dean Cromwell, of O. S. U., announced as long ago as last week that Wykoff, on the advice of a physician, has discontinued training and will not compete in any more meets this year . . . . The doctor ruled that the Coast speeder is too frail to be permitted to continue in strict training over a period of many weeks . . . . Wykoff also was scheduled to run in the United States-British Empire games in Chicago after the local meet, but this and all other engagements have been canceled . . . When Willie MacFarlane defeated Johnny Farrell in the playoff on Sunday of a tie for the Metropolitan Open championship, it recalled to the minds of golf followers MacFarlane's feat of beating Bobby Jones in the play-off of a tie for the National Open title at Worcester, Mass., in 1925 . . . . What may prove to be the last chapter in the career of Grover Cleveland Alexander, onetime pitching great, was written yesterday, when he was given his outright release by the Dallas Club, of the Texas League, after violating a probation to keep in condition. For all of his personal faults, the fans still revere The Great . . . . And he really was The Great when he was himself . . . . Can't you still see him out there on the pitching hillock serving them up to the batters? No, baseballs, not forked lightning, although that's what it looks like as you etch the scene again on the screen of your memory.

W. Va. Trapshooters Open Meet Today

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 22.—(AP.)—Preliminary events were held yesterday for the annual tournament of the West Virginia Trapshooters' Association, which opens today with entries from West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Minnesota.

The events yesterday were the 100-16 yard singles, 50-16 to 23 yards handicap and the 25 pair doubles. There were 72 entries. In the singles event, N. M. Walker, Tazewell, Va.; V. L. Foster, East McKeesport, Pa., and Harry A. Carper, Mt. Hope, were tied for high gun with 98 each.

A. B. Lallance, Huntington, won the handicap with 80 straight. A. M. Davis, Charleston, won the 25 pair doubles event, breaking 47 out of 50.

LEGION GAME TODAY

A semi-final round game in the county eliminations in the American Legion Junior baseball tournament will be played at 6 o'clock this evening with the Swissvale and Pleasant Valley Juniors opposed at Edgewood. The winner will meet the Forest City Club, Friday at Frick Park for the county title.

Lipton's Yacht 175 Miles From Azores

ABOARD SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S YACHT ERIN, Convoying Shamrock V, July 22.—(AP.)—The Shamrock V today was making an average speed of eight knots in a calm sea after a night of fresh northwest winds and a heavy northerly swell. At noon the position was latitude 48.23, longitude, 8.47.

The position given by the Shamrock placed her about 175 miles southwest of Land's End, headed in the direction of the Azores, where she will put in to take on supplies before heading for the United States.

BOUT POSTPONED

BOSTON, July 22.—(AP.)—A 10-round bout scheduled for last night at Braves Field between Eddie Hanlon, Detroit, and Ohio heavyweight and Paul Pantaleo, of Chicago, was postponed until tonight because of a heavy shower which swept over the city.

COWDEN TO QUIT

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—J. Chester Cowdin, sports writer of two American international polo teams in quitting the game, Cowdin's decision to abandon polo was revealed in the announcement that his string of polo ponies will be disposed of at public auction August 20.

THREE CENTRAL LOOP GAMES CARDED TODAY

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

CITY LEAGUE.
W. O. W. at Dormont, Pleasant Valley at Homewood, Book Shoe at Civics, J. L. Thomas at Stowe.

GREATER PITTSBURGH LEAGUE.
N. Bessemer at Verona.

CENTRAL LEAGUE.
Soho Traders at Allegheny, Y. M. H. A. at Fintex, Beckman at Lincoln.

C. & I. LEAGUE.
Reliance Life at Carnegie Steel.

NORTH SIDE LEAGUE.
Millers at Immaculate Heart; North Sides at Bluebird.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE.
McCreery's at Gimbels.

MAJOR LEAGUE.
St. George at Liberys.

By TOM BIRKS

The Pittsburgh Central League, with three big games scheduled, leads tonight's local sandlot card. All have a bearing on the second half championship and should prove interesting. Y. M. H. A., led by Manager Behr, will invade Warrington Park to do battle with the Fintex aggregation and that game should attract a banner crowd.

Soho Board of Trade will hook up with the Allegheny Collegians, and, seeing that it was Carson's outfit that nosed out Johnny Hornyak, the Soho nine will be out to avenge its defeat. It is possible King and Snee will oppose each other again, but Daley can work for Soho, while Tom Carson says Sammy Leon is in wonderful form.

BECKMAN MEETS CIVICS

The third game will be staged at Hartman Park, in Paulson avenue, and finds the Beckman Motors, one of the most popular teams in the district, providing the opposition. Manager Lutton feels that the Motors team will cop this half, but getting over the Civics obstacle is a tough problem.

The Civics have been one of the most consistent clubs in the loop, winning their share of games.

Reliance Life is going to have a tough evening trying to keep its slate clean when the Insurance boys anchor at Etna. Manager Weber has been priming the Steelers to give George Miller's club its first setback, and this game should prove worth while.

The Doelfels will meet the undefeated Lincoln Place nine this evening at Magee Field. The Doelfels have a snappy attack and some good pitching, but despite its win over the Cardinals, will experience some tough battles.

GRAYS' CARD CHANGED

Two changes have been made in the night schedule of the Homestead Grays and Kansas City Monarchs. The game slated Saturday at Forbes Field has been shifted to Denniston, O., and the game slated in Columbus, O., Tuesday has been moved to Akron. The Grays scored their third straight victory over the Monarchs last night at Altoona, 6 to 1.

Yesterday J. L. Thomas nosed out Stowe, 4-3, and the North Side Civics won from Book Shoe, 10-9, in the City League; the Homestead Aces tripped North Bessemer, 8-0, in the West Penn loop. Lincoln beat the Cosletts, 9-0, in the Central, and National Union dropped Mellon Bank, 16-0, in the Commercial.

St. Phillips blanked Methodist, 3-0, in the Crafton Church loop, while Whitaker and Reliance played to a 3-all tie in the Greater Pittsburgh group. Ingomar topped Troy Hill, 6-3, in the North Side League, and St. Adalbert's beat Jenoa, 5-4, in the Major loop. St. John's, St. Clair and Y. M. H. A. copped independent tilts.

ROBINS, CARDS SET RECORD

NEW YORK, July 22.—(INS.)—The performance contributed by three pinch-hitters in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader between the Robins and St. Louis Cardinals was booked as a record today.

All three pinch hitters knocked the ball out of the park. Jim Bottomley hit the first, swinging for Grimes; Puccinelli delivered the next, swinging for Lindsey in the eighth, and Harvey Hendrick produced the third when he stepped up to the plate for Mickey Finn in the ninth and won the game with a far-flung wallop over the right center field fence.

Nor is that quite all. Hal Lee was sent up to hit for Elliott in the second inning of the second game, and he, too, hammered a homer over the right field fence. Incidentally it was his first hit of the year.

The four homers accounted for 11 runs. Two were on when Pucinelli Hendrick and Lee delivered, and Bottomley found one mate roosting on the bases.

CUBS GAIN LOOP LEAD

Although Hendrick's ninth-inning homer won the first game for the Robins, 9 to 8, Brooklyn lost the second fray to the Cards, 17 to 10, and surrendered the National League to the Cubs, who blanked the Giants, 6 to 0.

Babe Ruth poked his thirty-fifth homer and Lou Gehrig hit his No. 28 as the Yankees slashed the Indians, 7 to 3. Ruth is now 12 games ahead of his record year, 1927.

GEHRINGER STARS

Charley Gehringer tripled with a man on in the fifth and then stole home, paving the way for a 7-to-5 triumph of Detroit over the champion Athletics.

Stewart spaced 10 hits he gave the Senators and the Brownies won again from Washington, 6 to 4.

Five safeties was all the White Sox could jar loose from Lisenbee, Boston taking it, 3 to 1.

Lester Sweetland was strong while Kremer weakened and the Phillies humbled the Pirates, 7 to 2. Whitney and Southern circuited for Philadelphia.

The Reds and Braves were idle.

BUCHMAN MANAGER

Herbert Buchman, Hyannis, Pa., has been appointed manager of the Hyannis club of Pittsburgh track team for 1931. Buchman will be a senior next year.

ALL-STAR GOLF TEAMS CLASH AT SCHENLEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

One of the most interesting exhibitions of golf of the year will be seen at the Schenley Park municipal links beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon when the 20-men teams of private clubmen and municipal linksters play their all-star match for the benefit of the fund which will pay the expenses of the Pittsburgh team to the national public links championship at Jacksonville, Fla., next month.

While the country club men always draw a large gallery during the competition, the largest number of spectators likely will trail the steps of Carl F. Kauffmann, national public links champion, who is getting in shape to defend that crown and, if within his power, cop it a fourth consecutive year.

WITHEROW IN CHARGE

Ken Witherow, United States Golf Association public links committeeman, is in charge of affairs today at Schenley, and it is expected those who attend will contribute liberally to the good cause. Richard C. Long, of Oakmont, is captain of the private clubmen.

Tomorrow a strong field will begin play in the Western Pennsylvania junior championship at the Westmoreland Country Club. The qualifying round will set the tourney moving for the crown to be vacated by J. Denny St. Clair, of Kiski, unable to defend it because he is over age.

PENN BEATS CORNELL

Yesterday several interesting events were staged throughout the district. The alumni of the University of Pennsylvania came through to beat Cornell, 2,345 to 2,450, in a big team match at the Longue Vue Club, which wound up with much merriment and a dinner party. A. J. McGregor, with 86, and C. H. Armstrong, with 87, were Penn's low scorers, while S. L. Spencer and A. R. Todd, of Cornell, each had 89.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association held its big mid-summer party at the Chartiers Heights Country Club, the noted Watts Gunn, of Oakmont, winning the kickers' handicap, for guests, with a 77.

EBERLE ON TOP

Otto Eberle, of the Country Club, and President Walter H. Mennigke, of Chartiers Heights, tied for time honors among the members with net scores of 78. A. Callender copped in the second flight with net 75 and E. F. Kimmich was second with a net 79.

Heat Hinders W. Va. Net Play

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 22.—(AP.)—The heat wave had a part in the West Virginia open tennis tournament yesterday when players in the men's singles, in which the elimination round was scheduled, were given the privilege of delaying the start until today with a hope the temperature might be less torrid. The women's singles were postponed until today because of the heat. First round singles results:

W. B. Baldwin, Cincinnati, defeated R. G. Baxter, Charleston, 6-3, 6-0.
W. F. Cherrington, Cincinnati, O., defeated Miss M. Perry, Washington, 6-3, 6-4.
C. H. Nicholson, New York, defeated Horace Schultz, Huntington, 6-1, 6-0.

Second round results:

Martin Buxby, Miami, Fla., defeated B. F. Barlow, Lexington, Va., 6-0, 6-0.

LAMB CANADIAN KING

BURLINGTON, Ont., July 22.—(AP.)—For the third year in succession, Willie Lamb, of the Uplands Club, Toronto, won the Canadian professional golf championship yesterday, scoring 71-75—146 for the 36 holes. A strong wind was Tom McNamara, of Brooklyn Valley, who followed him a stroke to 73 with a total of 147.

CARL F. KAUFFMANN

Kauffmann, winner of the National Public Links championship three years in a row, and a resident of Homestead, will be an honor guest at the dinner in the William Penn Hotel tonight at which the prizes will be presented to the winners in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's third annual junior golf championship tournament.

NIGHT GAMES FOR CHARLEROI

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Night baseball, introduced in the Middle Atlantic League last week with favorable results by Wheeling, gained another follower today in the Charleroi Governors.

Starting August 5 in a game against the Scottdale Little Cardinals, the Governors will play night games on the home lot under the illumination of electrical equipment to be installed at once.

In yesterday's Mid-Atlantic League games, Fairmont tripped Johnstown, 9-4, at Johnstown; Clarksburg topped Scottdale, 9-4, at Clarksburg; Cumberland beat Charleroi, 7-2, at Cumberland, and Jeannette won from Wheeling, 8-6, at Wheeling, in a night game.

Local Horses Seek Honors at Stamford

Seven head of saddle and show horses of the Green Valley string, owned by Miss Gretchen V. Schoonmaker, of Sewickley, were among the contestants in the annual Stamford, Conn., horse show which opened in that city today. The show will run until Saturday.

Among the local entries are The Golfer, Picturesque, Golden Actress, Irene Peavine, Bachelor's Hope, Prima Donna, Mountain Delight and Batch.

FLOOR STAR DIES

CHICAGO, July 22.—(AP.)—Arthur Cowell, high school student who suffered a brain concussion in a practice basketball game July 3, died last night.

HEARST GOLF FETE CARDED TONIGHT

There are 16 young men in Western Pennsylvania who have been looking forward to tonight for the past 10 days with a real eagerness—they are the individual prize winners of the third annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur golf tourney for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, who will receive their awards from the hands of J. Bernd Rose, president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, at the dinner to be held under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in the blue room of the William Penn Hotel at 6:30 this evening.

KAUFFMANN TO ATTEND

Among the honor guests will be the very famous Carl F. Kauffmann, national public links champion for the last three consecutive years, who is quite confident of beating his record by copping a fourth in a row next month at Jacksonville, Fla. John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County parks and former U. S. G. A. public links section executive committeeman, who was honorary director of the tourney, will be there, and so will Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Vern Swartsfager, golf editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be toastmaster.

The main guests of the evening will include the new champion, Anthony Myers, aged 17, of 72 Seavy road, Etna, who scored a brilliant 66 to top the field of 365 players from an entry list of 998; John Bing, 17, of 7120 McClure street, Swissvale, who ranked second with 67; George M. Brannigan, Jr., 18, of Washington avenue, Turtle Creek, who registered 68 for third place, and Christopher Paterlini, 18, of Monongahela, Pa., who shot a 69 in the tourney and a 37 to win the playoff for fourth honors.

TEAMS GET PRIZES

The Schenley Park links caddie team, which won the plaque for that competition, will be there with bells on—Anthony Onoretta, Andy Kosen, Pete Halahan and John Mediwed—and the runner-up team in the same event, Stanton Heights Golf Club, which includes Joe McAfee, John Broskey, Dave Wilson and R. Clay, also will be on hand.

Among the other guests to be present will be those who assisted in the conducting of the tournament and members of the editorial and business departments of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. They include Mrs. J. A. Comoroda, Ben Bright, Al McBride, pro at Schenley, and the rest of the Schenley family, Andy Petrolia, caddie-master; Johnny Hapchuck, Mike Lipchick and Chuck Onoretta, assistant pros; Eddie Kunold, Frank Petrolia and Tom Keefe; Ben Loeffler, of Valley Heights; Jim Carroll, of Stanton Heights; J. M. Richardson, of St. Clair; Paul Erath and Jim O'Donnell, of Edgewood; Nelson and Harry Zimmerman, of Wildwood; Dave Clarke, of Castle Shannon; Bob Bytheway, of Greensburg, and Earl Heinike, of Brownsville road; Francis Brennan and Tom Burrows, of the Bob-O-Link driving ranges; F. J. McNamara, Fred Onoretta, Al Beckman, Carl Shatto, Julius Levine, Jim Miller and Phil Grabowski.

RODGERS EASY WINNER

JACKIE ENDS DUNN FEUD ON TOP

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Dunn feud, of long standing, came to an end last night in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, when, before only a fair-sized crowd, Rodgers pounded out a decisive victory over the 10-round route. In fact, he just about did everything to Johnny but knock him out. He won every round as he pleased, and, after the first few sessions, Dunn was in there merely to last the limit.

It was their fourth meeting. Dunn won the first two bouts, at the Moose Temple and New Kensington, and a victory on a decision for Rodgers in their third clash, at Motor Square Garden, was booted down, although earned.

REFEREE IN BATTLE

A near riot was precipitated at the ringside when Referee Joe Keally took exception to offensive remarks directed at him by a spectator during the semi-final bout and undertook to settle the matter with his fists as he left the ring at the conclusion of this event. The men grappled in the aisle until police broke up the scuffle. Keally put up a forfeit for a hearing in the Braddock Police Station Thursday night. His opponent was not arrested. The spectator called Keally a "big bum" and other remarks also were personal, and the referee indicated from the ring he would see him later, to which the spectator replied that he would be waiting in his seat. No attempt was made to prevent the clash that could be seen coming.

Such baiting of the officials by patrons sitting in the crowd has been permitted at all shows, and the practice should be broken up. No official is sufficiently thick-skinned to withstand all of the verbal abuse that is directed at him on the cool night air, and our sympathies in this case are with Keally, even if he did lose his head and forget his official position for the moment. Under the conditions, he could not very well ignore the challenge of the spectator to physical combat and retain his post of authority.

RAIN MARS WINDUP

Rain marred the first two rounds of the main bout. The drops began to descend as the rivals were getting ready for action, and the preliminary maneuvers were hurried through and the bell rung. They immediately went close, and Rodgers pounded the body with his right until he had Dunn's left side reddened. Jackie continued the aggressor in the second round, and when Johnny finally opened up and began to trade punches late in this round a right to the side and a left to head jarred him, but the bell rang almost immediately afterward.

The rain stopped after the second round, but it made no difference in the style of boxing. Dunn continued to stay in close and try to tie up Rodgers, but was an easy victim for the latter's hammering right to the side of the body and was weakening under the continued assault to that spot. The attack all but paralyzed Johnny's left side and made it difficult for him to raise his left arm in an attempt to stave off the ever-pressing Jackie.

By the fourth round, the red welts on Dunn's side and back had become bloody bruises and he was trying to avoid punishment by clinching. From then on, with the exception of sporadic rallies, the most sustained of which was a flash in the last round, it was all Rodgers. In fact, it was amazing how the fragile-appearing Dunn could stand up under the punishment that has crumpled many more rugged foes. Only Dunn's heart and generalship enabled him to remain on his feet throughout.

PHILLIPS, SMACKEY DRAW

Tug Phillips, of Erie, 138, outgeneraled and outpunched Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, 137, in a grueling eight-round semi-final, which saw most of the fighting at close quarters, but the judges kicked the decision and Referee Joe Keally called it a draw. Judge Frank Ferris voted for Smackey and Judge Freddie Lux, for Phillips.

Tommy Ward, of the South Side, 142, after rocking Bud Cicerone, of Braddock, and formerly of Scranton, 146¼, with a right to the jaw in the first round, which he won handily, tried to repeat in the second and was beaten to the punch by Cicerone's right and dropped for the full count.

Jimmy (Snowflakes) Wright, Negro, of Cleveland, 162½, floored Joe Midway, of New Castle, 159½, four times in the first round and then knocked him cold with a left hook to the jaw after 55 seconds of fighting in the second.

Al Grayber alternated with Keally in the refereeing. A. C. Couch and Max Zeugschmidt were the timers. Ray Eberle did the announcing and Dr. M. R. Goldman was the commission physician at the ringside.

Between Rounds

Indiana, of Boston, one of the leading welterweights in the country, boxes Frankie Genaro, Cleveland and Erie ring favorite, in the main bout at the Duquesne Gardens next Monday night. Sammy Fuller, of the Hill and Steve Smith, former resident of Homestead, will top the semi-final bout. Jack Wilson, North Side welterweight, will be one of the principals in the eight-round semi-final.

Eddie Brannon, North Belmontweight, of Erie, boxes Gene Ballard in the main bout at Johnstown next Monday night. On August 18, Willie Davies, Chartiers

Bud Cicerone, of Braddock, and Bonnie (Whitey) Laudenslager, of Williamsport, lock the main bout of a show in the Embassy Theater, Altoona, next Friday night, with Jerry Dunn, of Clearfield, and U. S. Carpenter, of New Kensington, meeting in the semi-final.

Tommy Gregg, Akron Ritter Flowers in the Duquesne Gardens, New York, Saturday night. Sammy Dorfman and Lew Feinco are in the semi-final and Sammy Cheris and Emil Rossi meet in another 10-rounder.

Frankie Wine, Barberton (O.) heavyweight, who meets Tex Mitchell, of Johnstown, in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night, is due to arrive here tomorrow to finish his training for the event.

All of the boxers competing in the Golden Gloves amateur tournament under the auspices of American Legion Post No. 6, of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Thursday and Friday nights, will be weighed and examined at the Bowl between 6 and 8 p. m. Thursday, it was announced today.

Tuffy Griffiths and Tom Heeney will meet at the Queensboro Stadium, New York, next Tuesday night. Jack (Kid) Berg and Al Singer (the Jack Sightsinger Shuffle), pair of Limey juveniles, appeared for August 4 in New York. Gorilla Jones and Harold Mayfield, colored pair, are slated for San Francisco August 8.

MOVIES FILM JONES' FORM

ATLANTA, July 22.—(AP.)—A photographic study of the golfing wizardry of Bobby Jones which one golf expert described as the "greatest forward step in golf teaching" ever made has been completed here with a superspeed camera taking 3,200 pictures a second.

Details of the study, made for the Professional Golfers Association of America at the East Lake Country Club, Bobby's home course yesterday, were revealed today.

McNally to Send Farrell to First

YORK, Pa., July 22.—(AP.)—Mike McNally, manager of the Wilkes-Barre Barons, announced here today that Red Farrell, first baseman, had reported to him, and that he intended to use him in the game against York this afternoon. This, he stated, was the only contemplated change for today, and nothing was mentioned to indicate that Coburn Jones, the Newark Bears' infielder, scheduled to replace Larry Gallagher at second base, had arrived for duty.

Vagabond Is First In Long Yacht Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 22.—(AP.)—The schooner Vagabond, flying the burgee of the Milwaukee Yacht Club and skippered by Eddie Purtell, crossed the finish line of the Chicago-Mackinac race at 5:30 a. m. today. No other yachts were in sight at that time. First place still depended, however, on the time allowance of the other boats.

SPRAIN MENDS, BILL TO PLAY

PARIS, July 22.—(INS.)—Despite his injured ankle, William T. Tilden, chief hope of America in the coming Davis Cup matches, played a practice match with George M. Lott, of Chicago, at the Roland Garros Stadium today. Tilden played three sets, winning two, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3.

He then decided to call it a day, "not because my ankle hurts, but because discretion is the better part of Davis Cup chances."

Tilden evidenced a slight limp, but said the ankle did not bother him except when he rose on his toes.

"Otherwise," he said, "it's quite okay."

LITTLE BILL RECOVERS

ROSS, Cal., July 22.—(AP.)—William (Little Bill) Johnston, one of the world's leading tennis players 10 years ago, is making the same fight for health as characterized his net game, attaches of the Ross General Hospital reported today.

Johnston suffered a nervous breakdown in San Francisco last April. Physicians permitted him to take a 20-minute stroll around the hospital grounds yesterday.

Newton, Gavuzzi Lead Relay Grind

SHERBROOKE, Que., July 22.—(AP.)—The team of Arthur Newton, South African, and Peter Gavuzzi, of Southampton, England, won the second lap of the international relay race yesterday. The 55-mile jaunt was from Granby to Sherbrooke. Their time was 5 hours 15 minutes.

Fight Results

At Meyers Bowl—Jackie Rodgers defeated Johnny Dunn, 10 rounds; Tug Phillips and Johnny Smackey drew (referee's decision), 8 rounds; Bud Cicerone received technical decision, No. 2 round, Jimmy Gregg (Baker) Wright knocked out Joe Midway, 2 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Frank Cushmont defeated Benny Bass, 10 rounds; Ray Miller (pro-tem) defeated Harold Hanson, 1 round; Matty White defeated Mickey Unger, 6 rounds; Abie Wolff defeated Tony Tedesco, 6 rounds; Sonny Cabana defeated Joey Ruiz, 6 rounds.

At Peoria, Ill.—Eddie Shea knocked out Ray McGivern, 1 round.

At Newark, N. J.—Frank Montana and Gunboat Williams drew, 10 rounds; Tony Galento knocked out Pietro Corri, 6 rounds.

FRENCH FACES PHILS TODAY

Lester Sweetland's pace of the past couple of months has been so derogatory to the Phillies that most of the fans in the small crowd threw in the towel when he stepped up to the mound yesterday. Shotten, however, was playing the four left handers in the Pirate lineup and his strategy worked out in a satisfactory manner, aided and abetted by the famous short field fences.

FLUKE HOMERS SCORED

The disgusting right field fence did much to put the ball game on the ice in the fifth when the Quakers made four runs. With two out and two on, Chuck Klein came up and tried hard to make one of those Chinese homers. Chuck hit a lazy fly which would have brought the outfielders in on a real ball park. The loft scratched the fence slightly as it came down and the Waner boys had to stand helpless as two runs went over.

The same eye-sore gave the Pirates their only runs at the start of the game. Grantham connected for a real single with two out. Comorosky's fly hit the closeup barrier and Grantham reached third on the single. Traynor then hung a long double on the center field screen to score both runs.

The four runs made off Kremer in the fifth were all tainted, thus was Frenchy charged with seven earned runs. The unfairness of the whole thing is emphasized in the fact that a pitcher's value is partly computed on the earned runs basis.

NO RUNS DESERVED

To be entirely fair in the matter, it might be written that not one of the nine runs of the fast game was deserved. The two made by the Pirates were influenced by the short fence and, as stated, there was a flaw in each of the seven markers credited the home team. The game was reeled off in less than an hour and a half. The speed of play was the only thing about the contest to recommend it.

U. S. Track Stars Bow in Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, July 22.—(AP.)—Two of America's barnstorming track and field athletes met defeat on the second day of a three-day international meet here yesterday. C. Pendleton, of the United States, finished third to the German sprinters, H. Koerning and Erwin Gillmeister, in the 200 meter dash. The time was 21-710 seconds.

In the 120-yard high hurdles, Sten Petersson, of Sweden, defeated Steve Anderson, of the University of Washington, in a close finish, with E. Sjoestedt, of Finland, third. The time was 15 1-10 seconds.

BROWNS GET METZLER

CHICAGO, July 22.—The Chicago White Sox yesterday announced the sale of Outfielder Al Metzler to the St. Louis Browns over the waiver route.

BULLS RESUME CAMPAIGN TO LIFT STOCKS

Public Participation at Low Ebb—Shares Recede At Opening but Turn Up

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Bull forces confidently resumed their advance in today's stock market, having consolidated their position in the recession of the last two sessions.

Although the reaction yesterday, wiping out the advance of the entire previous week, was a little disconcerting in its severity it was regarded in brokerage circles as having represented merely momentary withdrawal of support rather than important liquidation. Professional traders who had been awaiting an opportunity to get into the market at lower levels replaced those who took their profits and deserted the cause.

PUBLIC HOLDS BACK

Public participation in the market held at a low ebb, but speculators for the rise expect that the attracting of a public following again will be a slow process. Commission house opinion remained mildly optimistic, but was inclined to look for further temporary reactions as the market quickly becomes overbought with participation as limited as it is, and business news providing little encouragement.

The day's industrial and corporate news indicated that current operations are coming increasingly under the influence of midsummer quiet. Steel mill operations in the Chicago district have been cut this week to between 55 and 60 per cent of capacity, against 60 to 65 per cent last week.

Second quarter and first half earnings statements continued to show notable exceptions to the downward tendency. Allis Chalmers reported first half net of $1.87 a share against $1.73. General Foods $2.01 against $1.89 and U. S. Leather showed a small balance for the quarter against a large deficit last year.

Westinghouse Electric's first half net of $3.13 a share, however, was substantially below the $4.95 reported for the same period a year ago, and Atlantic Refining's $1.05 for the first half was only one-third the net reported a year ago.

OIL CURTAILMENT

Early estimates of last week's crude oil output indicated further curtailment of about 30,000 barrels a day, largely in the mid-continent area, which encouraged further activity in the oils. Credit conditions were unchanged, with call loans officially at 2 per cent.

Further selling appeared at the opening, but pivotal stocks were well supported, and before midday bullish activity became vigorous. There was another faltering spell in the early afternoon, when the more active stocks sold off from a fraction to a point from their best levels.

American Can was a leader, rising more than 4 points in active trading. General Motors was active, but advanced only moderately. Its second quarter statement will appear in a few days, and is expected to show net of about $1.20 a share, against 98 cents in the first quarter.

LONG LIST RISES

Such issues as U. S. Steel, General Electric, Radio Keith, Radio, Standard of N. J., Du Pont, Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Electric Auto Lite, and Johns-Manville advanced about 2 to 3 points.

Among the wider gainers was Auto Strop, which moved up about 5 to a new top, accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of a merger deal with Gillette. Eastman and International Business Machines sold up more than 5, and Case jumped 10.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 22.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 7 points to an advance of 2 points. Relatively easy Liverpool cables probably accounted for some local selling, but their influence appeared to be offset by the failure of the early weather reports to show expected showers or rain developments overnight. Prices soon stiffened up and the new October advanced from 12.92c to 13.00c and January from 13.18c to 13.22c.

The market eased on the official report for showers in the western and parts of the central belt, and new October sold off to 12.85c and March to 13.07c, or about 7 to 10 points net lower, late in the morning. There was also some near-month liquidation, which sent July down to 12.74c, a net decline of 21 points, but offerings lessened off at the lower figures and the market showed rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest at midday.

LIVERPOOL, July 22.—Cotton: Spot dull, prices lower. Sales, 3,000 bales, including 1,400 American. Receipts, 8,000, American, 200. Futures closed steady: July, 7.22; October, 6.97; December, 6.91; January, 7.00; March, 7.09; May, 7.11; July, 7.19.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 22.—(AP.)—Prices firmed in the Curb Market today, but speculative interest was limited. Utilities were fairly active and there was some demand for the oils. In general, however, the session was dull, with comparatively little trading for either account.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

TRADE UPSWING AS RULE FIRST TO ARRIVE

Business Recovery Precedes Rise in Commodity Prices Generally, Survey Shows

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 22 — If business is to follow precedent, recovery of prosperity need not wait for a comeback in commodity prices.

Business recovery came first in 1921, and a survey of conditions for 40 years shows that business recoveries usually precede commodity price upturns. Two statisticians—Emerson Wirt Axe and Miss Ruth Houghton — who have made a close technical survey of these related economic phenomena summarize the results of their observations in the Annalist as follows:

"Cyclical peaks in commodity prices are sharp, in business activity flat or rounding. Cyclical troughs in commodities are flat or rounding. They tend to be shorter and sharper. The duration of cyclical upswings and downswings in commodities are approximately the same. But upswings in business are much longer than the downswings. Commodities normally begin to decline months ahead of business. Upswings in business have never except once during this period started while the main decline in commodity prices was still in progress. But business normally begins to advance 11 months ahead of commodities."

Wholesale commodity prices in the United States as represented by the Index Bureau of Labor Statistics, have been falling since September 1928. The decline was checked for a period last summer. The decline for the 21 months which ended in June 1930 was 13 per cent. Of this amount, all but 3 per cent took place in the last year. The decline following the inflation of 1920 reached 45 per cent in less than 20 months.

In the summer of 1921, business began to turn upward, six months before commodity prices turned about.

TEST FOR TRUSTS

One test of the efficiency of investment trust management during a bear cycle is whether it did better in its portfolio than representative stocks as measured by the familiar indexes. A survey of semi-annual reports of 18 such investment institutions shows that they surpassed the market averages. Although some trusts showed an increase in assets during the period, the group on the average revealed a net decline of 2.09 per cent. In the same period, the Dow-Jones average for industrial stocks fell 8.9 per cent and the standard statistics index for 90 stocks fell 4.6 per cent. Any trust, whose management can beat the averages, should be entitled to sell at a moderate premium over liquidation value, whereas at present on account of the present unpopularity of investment trusts in which the public has lost faith, numerous well-managed trusts are selling below their current liquidation, or break-up value. Their securities offer a means of acquiring an interest in diversified securities below prevailing market quotations.

The extent of the deflation is suggested by the fact that 50 Canadian stocks have declined $2,795,772,640 in market value from the 1929 peaks, according to a compilation by financial counsel of Montreal. Those who have faith in the long-term future of Canada can do that much better in purchasing Canadian securities low.

STABILIZATION NEAR

In the midst of general recession, there has been a tendency to overlook steps toward stabilization in the petroleum industry, which has succeeded in creating a better balance between supply and demand. Crude petroleum output has been reduced, refiners have curtailed gasoline production, and accordingly stocks of crude and refined oils have been decreasing. Although prices have not held up, producers are nearing the period when they expect stabilization. The new quiet, co-operation among petroleum producers, except in California, where there has been a price war at the filling stations, reflects an attempt to rationalize the industry.

Both the proponents and the adversaries of the new tariff law in the spirit of politics have exaggerated its importance. While foreign politicians are talking about reprisals and injury to trade, the edito. of the (London) Times trade and engineering supplement, taking a realistic, non-partisan view, points out:

"The United States covers a vast area and its population includes many different classes of inhabitants. There is ample first-hand evidence that a large number of prosperous citizens there have money to spend and are less concerned with price than with quality. They will buy what they believe to be best regardless of cost, and they are very valuable customers for exporters of the highest quality goods. These facts have been so fully authenticated that they are scarcely open to dispute. That there are other classes in the United States to whom price is very important is no doubt also true. But before the British exporter makes plans to cater for this class of trade he is bound to ask himself whether the game is worth the candle."

Forbes

Canada, Nation's Best Customer, Incensed Over New Tariff.

By B. C. FORBES

WESTERN CANADA July 22

CANADA OUR best customer is incensed over our new tariff. They call it a sky-scraping tariff.

Protests have availed nothing. three course are being considered.

SHALL REPRESENTATIONS be made by Ottawa to Washington to have President Hoover call upon this Tariff Commission to which he attaches so much importance, to consider promptly the reduction of specific schedules peculiarly aggravating and injurious to the dominion?

SHALL THE DOMINION proceed after the general election now in its closing stages, to hit back by enacting sky-scraping levies on U. S. shipments into Canada?

SHALL THE DOMINION enthusiastically indorse the "trade with the empire" movement now to the front in Britain and her colonies?

FROM MY MEAGER investigations and associations, I judge that the majority of responsible Canadians would prefer to have Ottawa and Washington strive to get together and work amicably towards smoothing out the obstacles which have been created. If however the conviction should be reached that Washington is merely stalling, then hostility would become bitter and reprisals doubtless would be launched.

As you perhaps know a lot of Canadians, especially those of the old school, feel that the Dominion is coming altogether too much under American influences, altogether too much Americanized in sentiment and in habits. They fear that in time, unless something develops to check this groundswell trend, propinquity will draw the two nations together politically.

Therefore, there is not lacking agitation calculated to strain rather than cement relations between the two great North American peoples.

AN EXCELLENT illustration of how a large section of the Canadian mind is working has just been given me by R. J. Cromie, owner and editor of the influential Vancouver Sun. He says:

"Perfection in this world is making the most of what you have. If the people of the United States and Canada start shoving up tariffs and erecting trade and treaty embarrassments against each other, we will not be making the most of what we have.

"This North American continent is the finest economic setup in the world. The south half — United States — has 120,000,000 people, and the North half—Canada—has 10,000,000 people.

"As far as reasonably possible, an interchange of products should take place as the Lord intended them to. Citrous fruits and warmer-climate products, cottons, oils, etc., should come to Canada from the South, and newsprints and metals and the cooler-climate products go south from Canada.

"Also treaties, whether it is the seal and salmon treaties of the Pacific Coast, or a treaty affecting the St. Lawrence waterway, or tariffs, should be made, not with the idea of helping this or that group, but with the idea of doing the greatest good for the 130,000,000 people who live on this North American continent.

"THE RECENT TARIFF of the states made me mad—it looked short-sighted on the part of the states.

"Canadians, if they have red blood, must answer that policy; they have, and they will, but where is it going to lead to?

"If there are executive discretions in the recent tariff laws of United States and Canada which can still help the flow of trade between our two countries, their statesmen should get busy and put those measures into operation.

"Don't worry about Canada, she is all right, and can look after herself; her small population of 10,000,000 has a good clean blood stream; and in a big rich country full of good things, puts her economically in a very fine position."

THIS MATTER of our relations with Canada must not be lightly regarded. We can't afford to throw away foreign trade, foreign orders.

Total United States Sugar Melt Lower

The total sugar melt of the United States reports from January 1 to July 12 was 2,575,000 long tons compared with 2,770,000 tons in the corresponding period last year. Deliveries amounted to 2,360,000 long tons, compared with 2,525,000 in the like 1929 period.

U. S. Daily Average Oil Production Off

TULSA, Okla., July 22.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended July 19 totaled 2,506,282 barrels, a decrease of 31,148 barrels daily, according to Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil output decreased 35,596 barrels daily.

N. Y. Firm Proposes Cut in Gas Rates

NEW YORK, July 22.—Consolidated Gas Company, effective August 1, will reduce the price of gas for house heating purposes 20 per cent, subject to approval of the Service Commission.

Blaw-Knox Reports Gain In Profit

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

MANAGEMENT HAS MUCH to do with the answer to the question, "How good is business?" The earnings statements of a few companies have shown that it is possible for some organizations to continue to report gains over the records of last year in spite of the condition of general business.

In some cases exceptions to the general downward trend of earnings in the first half of this year are found in special types of business which are free from depression. Other organizations, however, have continued to expand their sales and profits by the development of new products and new markets.

The Blaw-Knox Company continued its record of increased profits in the first half of this year. Earnings were 21 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1929. Shipments were 23 per cent higher than a year ago. Unfilled orders on July 1 were 23 per cent larger than a year ago.

Profits Increased

NET PROFIT in the first six months of this year amounted to $1,694,002. This was equal to $1.28 a share on 1,322,325 shares of capital stock.

During the past year Blaw-Knox has acquired several new subsidiary organizations so that a comparison with the company's earnings of last year would not present a fair picture. Including the earnings of these new subsidiaries, the profit for the first half of 1929 was $1,392,366. This was equivalent to $1.05 a share on the capitalization outstanding at present.

The company has no preferred stock or bonded indebtedness. The capital stock represents the only claim on surplus and earnings outside of current debts.

Outlook Good

THE INCREASE IN unfilled orders is a good indication of the prospects for the second half of the year. The outlook is further brightened by the fact that the final six months are always more profitable for this company.

In the full year of 1929 the Blaw-Knox Company earned $2,838,735, or $2.17 a share on 1,309,447 shares of stock outstanding at the close of the year. All indications point to 1930 profits substantially in excess of this amount.

Plants Busy

MOST OF THE PLANTS are operating close to capacity. Production at Blaw-Knox is at the maximum rate. Subsidiary plants operated by the Lewis Foundry and Machine Company, Union Steel Casting Company and National Alloy Steel Company are also busy. The Pittsburgh Rolls Corporation plant has been working at a lower rate but its business is beginning to increase.

Practically all phases of the company's business are being well maintained. Sales of transmission towers, road building machinery, steel gratings and castings have been large. The perfection of new products and the improvement of older products has been an important factor in keeping sales at a high level. Recent changes in departments have made it possible to concentrate a large portion of the engineering force on development work alone.

Plant in England

FOREIGN BUSINESS IS expanding. All the European subsidiaries are operating at a profit. A new plant recently was completed in England. Last April a plant was bought at St. Quentin, France.

The company is in a strong financial position. Current assets on June 30 amounted to $8,619,000 compared with current liabilities of $1,438,000.

Recent earnings have shown that dividend requirements of $1.50 a share annually have been earned by a large margin.

EMPIRE STEEL REORGANIZED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—Empire Steel Corporation, which operates steel plants and rolling mills at Mansfield, Niles and Ashtabula, in Ohio, has been reorganized, following resignations of President W. D. Davey and several other executives.

President Davey has been succeeded by C. D. Henkel, formerly executive vice president. J. D. Waddell, Niles, becomes treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of W. R. Jenkins. C. G. Stamm and A. J. Davey continue as vice presidents, in charge of sales and operations, respectively.

The reorganized executive committee includes M. Waddell, W. A. Thomas, Youngstown; A. W. Wheatley, Lima; W. H. Davey and C. H. Kenkel, both of Mansfield.

Members of the finance committee are: S. E. Bool, Cleveland; Paul Wick and Charles S. Thomas, Youngstown; Mr. Waddell and C. F. Ackerman, Mansfield.

ALLIS PROFITS HOLD STEADY

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company reports unfilled orders June 30 as $17,833,860 compared with $15,570,563 March 31 and $15,657,566 on June 30, 1929.

June quarter shows net profit after depreciation, Federal taxes, etc., was equal to 94 cents a share on 1,258,400 no-par shares. This compares with 1,170,937 or 93 cents per share on 1,256,448 shares in previous quarter and $1,165,713, or 93 cents a share, in the June, 1929 quarter.

Net profit for six-months equalled 1.87 per share, on 1,258,400 shares, against 1.73 per share based on above share basis in the first half of 1929.

Six-months booking totaled 29,480,951 against 28,022,998 in first six-months of 1929.

Soft Coal Output Gains During Week

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Total production of soft coal during the week ended July 12 gained 20.1 per cent over the previous week when working time was curtailed by the Independence Day holidays. The following totals designate the output for comparable periods, calculated by the Bureau of Mines: Week ended July 12, 7,858,000 net tons; previous week, 6,545,000 net tons; same week last year, 9,558,000 net tons.

STEEL OUTPUT CUT BY HEAT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 22.—Extreme hot weather prevailing through the Middle West is curtailing activities in rolling mills, and average production is not above 50 per cent, though schedules call for a 60 per cent average.

Of 51 independent open hearth furnaces, 28 are active this week, with Bessemer plants at 60 per cent. Relatively high operation of steel pipe mills is sustaining operation of steel plants. At Niles, Empire Steel Corporation has started its Falcon plant, with two other plants at Niles inactive. Of 120 Valley sheet mills, 50 were scheduled to start the week, but not all will operate through the period.

Strip mill operations are at lowest point of the year, due to reduced buying by the automobile industry. Youngstown Sheet and Tube average 60 per cent, and Republic Steel 65 per cent. The pipe mill division is active from 65 to 70 per cent.

MOTOR OUTPUT OFF IN JUNE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—June production of automobiles in the United States was estimated by the Commerce Department today to have amounted to 335,475 vehicles, of which 289,245 were passenger cars and the balance trucks and taxicabs.

For June last year total automobile output was 545,932 vehicles, while for May of this year it was 417,406 vehicles.

June Rolled Steel Statistics Reported

NEW YORK, July 22.—The National Association of Rolled Steel Manufacturers today reported that the unfilled tonnage of sheet steel as of July 1 totaled 431,324 tons, or 123.3 per cent of rates capacity. Total sales in June were 187,412 tons, or 53.6 per cent of capacity; total production, 208,675 tons, or 58.8 per cent of capacity, and total shipments, 212,920 tons, or 60.9 per cent of capacity.

Chrysler Reduces Prices on 'Seventy'

DETROIT, July 22.—Chrysler Corporation has reduced prices on four models of Chrysler 70 line. Three models were reduced $100 and $150.

Stock Exchange Topics

Trade Authorities Can See But Little Betterment In Copper Outlook.

There has been but little change of a constructive nature in the copper situation and the outlook is still decidedly uncertain, according to leading trade authorities. Most interests are of the opinion that it will require several months of shipments in excess of production before there will be a definite and lasting change for the better. In some quarters, it is the confident belief that the price of red metal will go lower before it starts an advance.

Judging by comments heard around the financial district, Freeport Texas is growing in favor with some important speculative interests. Most of the discussions heard are in connection with the new management and its plans for the future. An ambitious program is said to be in the making for increasing income steadily over a long period. The stock recently has attracted a moderate amount of outside buying, although most of the activity has been credited to traders.

Earnings of Briggs Body in the second quarter, showing $1.38 a share, were decidedly favorable and reflected the large amount of business from Ford during that period. It is now reported that Briggs is actively developing the foreign field with the hope of supplying Ford with bodies in England and on the Continent and thus sharing in any industrial recovery abroad.

The leading tobacco companies have long been looked upon as representing the nearest approach to depression-proof enterprise. The theory seems about to be proven again, judging from the Bureau of Internal Revenue figures covering production during the month of June as compared with the same month last year. Cigaret output for last month showed an increase of more than 900,000,000 over June of 1929. Totalling 11,750,524,523. Output of large cigareis was off about 33 per cent compared with a year ago, and production of large and small cigars as well as manufactured tobacco in other forms was moderately smaller. But the cigaret end of the business is the producer of biggest profits for these companies after all.

That those closest to the picture in the money market are not expecting current low interest rates to prevail indefiniately may be gleaned from a growing tendency in some directions to anticipate somewhat firmer conditions with the approach of the fall months. In that period the market usually feels the effect of the transfer of funds to the interior in connection with harvestings of crops. This time the tightening effect of that shift should be emphasized by a pickup in industrial demand for money. Several important banks presumably operating on the belief that considerably firmer money is ahead, are reported to be buying heavily of 30-day bankers' bills and at the same time selling freely of their holdings of 90-day bills.

The Harvard Economic Society expects substantial improvement will be shown in business during the current half of 1930. The Society's bulletin points out that some of the factors which have contributed to delay in business recovery, notably commodity price and stock price declines, seem at present to have about spent their force. No adverse factors are in sight the bulletin says, and it is believed the foundations have been laid for recovery and substantial improvement in business.

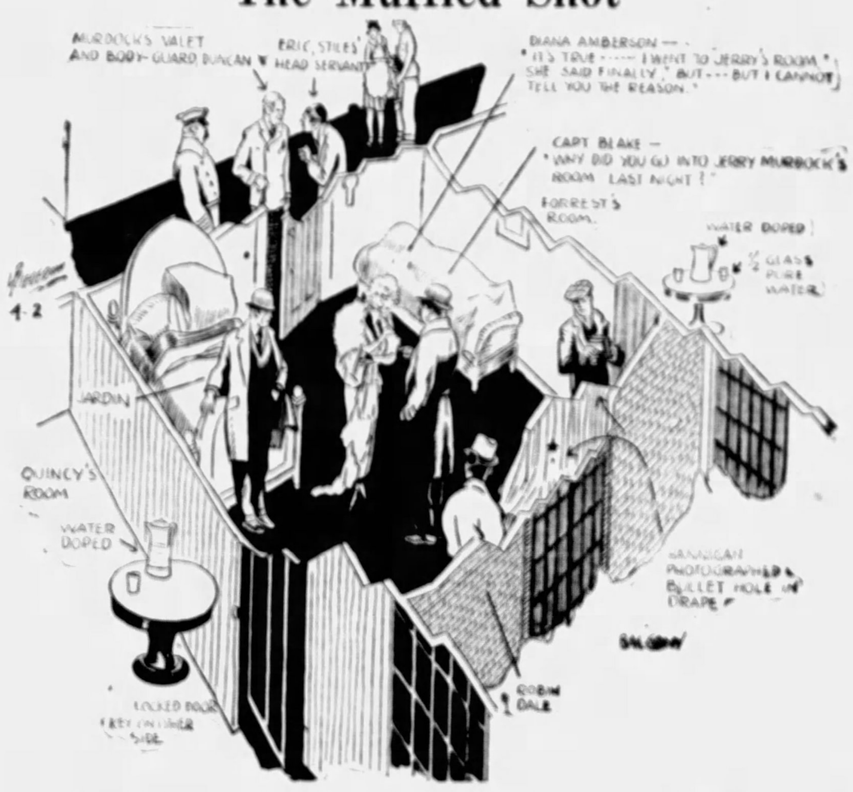
Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

The Muffled Shot



WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Jerry Murdock is mysteriously shot and killed at Gordon Stiles' palatial home in Manhattan Beach, a suburb of New York. The only clues are a bullet hole in a window drape and footprints in the snow. A number of well-known Broadwayites are at the house for a week-end party.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER II.

By this time Phelps, the finger print man, had finished his investigations without any particularly encouraging results, and Capt. Blake then sent Jardin for the first one to be questioned.

"Better get Murdock's man first, sergeant."

"Get them, Hannigan? Better take a picture of the bullet hole in the drape—and then you'll want to get this room with X marking where the body was found. That'll make a nice, intriguing layout. When you get to the office tell Bailey I'll be in with the story as soon as all the witnesses are questioned."

Hannigan had his two shots before Jardin returned with Murdock's man. Duncan was six feet tall and massively built. He acted as chauffeur, valet and bodyguard to the late Jerry Murdock. There was a surly expression on Duncan's brutish features, and at the first question it was evident he was not going to prove the source of much information.

"Did you hear the report of a gun last night?"

"I didn't hear anything."

"Where were you at 2 o'clock?"

"I was upstairs on the third floor in the back after 12. I didn't hear anything."

"Any idea who might have killed Murdock?"

"No, I don't know anybody."

There were a few more questions, but they elicited no information. The next to be questioned was Eric, the Stiles head servant. From that point on things began to happen. He was eager to speak without even being questioned.

"I've been anxious, sir, to explain certain things which may have some bearing on the case. It was after 1:30, while I was making the last rounds, seeing to the lights and the doors, sir, when on coming from the kitchen—that's at the rear of the lower hallway—I saw Mr. Murdock's man going out the front door. He was just closing it and did not see me. I thought possibly he was going out for Mr. Murdock and did not, therefore, attach the chain to the door. And, by the way, sir, I was the first down this morning and found that the chain was fastened.

"There was one other thing happened last night—one of those things a servant sees, but never speaks of. Under the circumstances, however, I believe I am at liberty to tell. After seeing Mr. Murdock's man go out I mounted to the second floor. As I got to the head of the stairs I saw a lady entering Mr. Murdock's room." Eric paused as though loath to go on.

"Did you recognize the lady?" Blake asked sharply.

Eric nodded, still finding it difficult to speak the name.

"Miss Amberson," he finally said in a low voice.

"That will be all for the present. Don't mention to anyone what you have told."

The servant walked noiselessly to the door and passed into the hallway. The three in the room sat for many minutes without a word.

"That ruins everything," finally uttered Jardin in disgust. "It looked a cinch that the murderer climbed up to the balcony, shot Murdock and then walked out the front door."

"That would have been too easy, sarge. Of course, Miss Amberson's presence complicates that, but what about the chain on the door? The servant said it was fastened this morning. I was thinkin' that it would have been easier for the killer to have come in the front door, shot Murdock and then gone away over the balcony."

"I'm thinkin' that there'll be so many motives it'll be puzzlin' —so it may help to do a little figuring before it's tangled up."

"I'll just take my chance on the motive . . . Jardin, ask Miss Amberson to come in."

Robin Dale walked to the window and stood there deep in thought as Diana Amberson entered. He did not turn until Blake had shot his first startling question at her. Then Dale saw a very beautiful women scarcely over twenty-one. Her most striking feature was a mass of blonde hair, which fell in long, rippling waves being caught up on one side behind a pink, shell-like ear. Her cheeks were slightly pale, without cosmetics, but her small, full lips were deep red even without rouge. Her eyes were soft and blue, but showed indications of a restless night. She shuddered as she glanced at the covered object on the lounge.

"Why did you go into Jerry Murdock's room last night?"

The unexpected question sent a perceptible quiver through her. A crimson flush invaded her features. Blake repeated his question when she remained mute, demanding an answer.

"It's true—I went to Jerry's room," she said finally, "but—but I cannot tell you the reason."

"Miss Amberson, do you know what it means? Fifteen minutes after you entered Murdock's room he died. You owe it to yourself to make some explanation."

"There is no explanation I want to make."

Jardin waited for the word to make the arrest when the telephone bell sounded. Jardin answered and motioned to Capt. Blake.

"Blake talking—yes, doctor, go ahead——" For quite a while Capt. Blake listened in silence, and then with a brief "goodby" hung up.

"I'll give you a little time, Miss Amberson, to think over your decision to remain silent. Of course, you're not to leave the house."

When she had gone Blake turned to the two men.

"That was Dr. Wattles. He's found that the water in the caraffe in Quincy's room was doped and so was the one in Forrest's room, but a peculiar thing—there was half a glass of water on Forrest's table which was absolutely pure."

Notices 1-A

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted and for the words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings during the illness and death of our beloved wife, mother and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson, Miss Josephine Hutchinson and Miss G. F. Hutchinson.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie Knode Kelly, who passed away two years ago today.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Tender thoughts fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by sons and daughters.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Capital to Invest

J. Warren Wadner opened his morning newspaper to the classified "Business Opportunities."

Wadner always did this, before he even glanced at the weather or the front page headlines.

"Business opportunities" were J. Warren's opportunities, if the parties advertising weren't too keen for him or too investigating. He maintained an office on the outer door of which was that intriguing and non-committal word "INVESTMENTS."

On this particular morning he skipped such advertisements as sought partners with capital to invest as he always did, and studied the few little agate-line paragraphs announcing a desire to invest capital in some "safe and sound going business."

These were Wadner's "meat." One could never guarantee that any business he provided would be safe and sound, but it was a sure bet that it would be a "going business"—going in the general direction known as "to the dogs" soon after Wadner got the cash safely tucked away.

Only one advertisement held his attention this morning. It read:

$10,000 TO INVEST — Young lady with business training. Must have executive position in firm. M. S. T.

J. Warren Wadner actually smacked his lips!

Any sum, even a mere thousand, interested him, but here was something worth while—and a young woman! Young women with money were almost always gullible.

He had scores of schemes on tap. It struck him that perhaps a real estate development would be easiest and most attractive to the young lady with the 10 grand. And so he wrote a very curt and business-like note to "M. S. T."

Lady Calls

There was the old development, started some years ago down in Long Neck. A death in the family of property owners had tied it up, put it in litigation and there it stood. J. Warren had used this on several occasions. He had secured the plans, maps and other matter from the promoters long ago. He got them out of his file drawer "R. E." (real estate) and tacked them up on the walls. Sometimes his walls were decorated with power plant projects, or factory site plans or mining prospectus advertising.

Miss Mildred Smith called on Mr. Wadner the next day.

She was the "M. S." of the advertisement. Wadner was very business-like, but already gloating, inwardly, because Miss Smith was such a perfect sucker type.

Not exactly an old maid, but mighty far from a flapper, Miss Smith was. And she was rather timid. Her light hair was smoothed back with great neatness. If it hadn't been for this and her large tortoise shell spectacles—and her too-plain, unbecoming dress—she might have been attractive.

"Oh, yes, you are the young lady who wanted to invest a little money," he said.

"Is—er—ten thousand just a little money?" she asked, giving him a startled glance.

"Some of our enterprises are financed for a million or more, but ten thousand will bring splendid returns, more than double what a savings bank or conservative bonds would bring."

"I hope so. This—er—enterprise is safe?"

J. Warren Wadner turned and gave her a faintly amused smile.

"My dear young lady," he said, "when one handles unsound and unsafe investments, he lands behind bars. I prefer to live outside and maintain my office."

Miss Smith flushed painfully.

"I'm sorry—I am afraid I was rather stupid. But you see I have only twenty-five thousand in the world and I thought that I ought to venture ten of that as a starter. I don't like being idle and—well, I don't relish being just an employe and punching a time clock—I had plenty of that before the money was left to me. You see I'm quite alone, with no one to advise me."

J. Warren Wadner unbent a little. He could see that other money coming his way, too.

Paints Picture

"I don't blame you, Miss Smith, and I must say that you have a keen mind, you will go far. Of course you know that the greatest truism is 'Land is the source of wealth' and . . ."

"You could start with this concern as assistant treasurer, and, when you learned the routine, you could become the treasurer," he explained.

This always got them, or almost always. It sounded good and it gave the intended victim confidence to feel that he or she would handle the money.

"Women," he said, "and I mean by that, intelligent young ladies like yourself, have better judgment in many things, such as sizing up prospective purchasers—we want only the best class of people, you see—and in the naming of the streets. Now, take this curving wide highway leading up across the development," he pointed out on the map, "why not name it 'Smithway?'"

"Oh—for me?"

"Why not? As a member of the company and an official, you deserve it—or perhaps call it—er—what is your given name?"

"Mildred."

"In any event, if it were called 'Mildred Avenue'—or whichever suits you best."

He talked much more, and well. He explained that they had just secured the property after it had been tied up. He took her out to look it over and it certainly was a noble property, with a sea view and many groves high and dry.

Miss Smith decided to go into the project with him. There was to be a conference. Wadner's outside partner, who posed as this or that big business man, appeared this time as Thornton Varney, who had won his case in court and was owner of the property. He had spent so much in litigation, winning his case, that he either had to wait until other investments came through or take someone in with him who had ready cash.

"We need twenty-five thousand," the so-called Thornton Varney announced. Wadner had, of course, told him what to say.

Miss Smith Agrees

"Look here, Mr. Varney. I usually keep out of these affairs, my business being to take my commissions for arranging these deals, but if you will let me in on this, I think Miss Smith and myself can finance it. Suppose we each put in twelve-five? That will provide the necessary twenty-five thousand and the work can be rushed at once. Miss Smith, as assistant treasurer, ought to have a weekly drawing account of, say, fifty dollars. In a few months the sales will bring such profits that her share will make her laugh at the fifty a week."

Mr. Varney haggled a little over splitting it three ways but finally admitted there would be sufficient profits for all.

"If you will draw up the papers, partnership papers, I think they call it, Mr. Wadner," Miss Smith said, "I shall be glad to put in the twelve thousand five hundred. You will do the same and we will deposit—er—where do you bank, Mr. Varney?"

"Make it any bank near — that is best," he told her.

He assured her that the papers would be ready.

Miss Smith thanked both gentlemen prettily for giving her this splendid opportunity and for the nice weekly salary. She would do her best to earn it.

"I hate, like so-and-so," Wadner said, after she had gone, ner said, after she had gone, "to lose that other money. Perhaps we can rig something and get it—keep her busy for a week or so, pay her the salary and then we'll find a chance for her to invest the rest of her money."

So J. Warren Wadner got busy on the partnership papers.

In these papers, with just the proper amount of "whereases" and "therefore be it agreeds," it was set worth that Mildred Smith was one-third owner and partner in the "High View Development Company."

Miss Smith was on hand at 1 o'clock the next day. She read her copy of the partnership papers with great care and said it was quite satisfactory. She had brought the check with her.

"Well, then," said Mr. Thornton Varney, "you two deposit the money and I will run out and put my laborers under contract for building the boulevards and putting up a couple of sample homes."

J. Warren Wadner stepped down to the bank with Miss Smith and produced his own check for $12,500. These were deposited. He handed the deposit book to her.

Keeps Bank Book

"As assistant treasurer, you had better keep that," he said. "By day after tomorrow we will have the office open out there, it will be cool and nice there for you to work."

They came out of the bank together and parted.

Just outside his office door, Wadner saw a man trying to get in.

"I wanted to see you about investments. I saw your sign—"

"Come right in," invited Wadner.

They stepped inside. Something heavy thumped down on Wadner's head and he passed out. The man removed a gray wig, pocketed his colored glasses, took Wadner's key, went out, locked the door and disappeared.

When Wadner came to his senses, something told him to hustle down to the bank. He did so.

"Your treasurer," he was told, "drew out all but fifty dollars of the twenty-five thousand, about ten minutes after you deposited it!"

"There's the sap we got five grand from this spring, over there, see him?"

"Shall we duck?" Wadner asked and then he grabbed his partner by the arm. "Look at that classy girl with him—my God, it's the Smith girl, Mildred Smith!"

"Look here, Miss Smith, I'll have you behind bars—"

"Try it!" she said, sweetly, "just you dare go to court about it and see what happens to you. When you robbed my husband here of his five grand—that was before we were married, I told him I'd get it back with big interest—you see I knew all about you. I've been with the Pington Detective Agency for years."

J. Warren Wadner turned away abruptly.

The most horrible sound he ever heard in his life was the gay laughter from that table.

MYSTERY CAFETERIA—YOU SOLVE THE MURDER

Case One Eight One Seven—Note the clues carefully. Try to memorize each detail. Let nothing escape you. Then read the official data printed below and try to solve the mystery.

"Dead!" exclaimed the coroner, scratching his head furiously.

"Dead?" asked the police detectives who had just arrived.

"Dead." The coroner repeated his conclusion and fumbled in his pocket for a handkerchief to place over the face of the man stretched on the floor with a bullet hole in his back.

CHAPTER TWO.

For the fourth time the police cornered Mrs. Aspinwall, and questioned her unmercifully. She stood, now, trembling, agitated but defiant, her back to the wall in the smoke-filled detective headquarters.

The woman did not answer.

"Did you fire the shot through his back?"

"No!" screamed the woman, frail but firm. "I tell you, NO!"

"But you saw who shot him?"

"Lock her up again," snapped the captain. "And give her only one lump of sugar for her coffee. She'll talk soon enough."

The woman, sobbing, was led away.

CHAPTER III.

"Well?" asked the district attorney. He was alone with Capt. Gulch.

"Well," said the captain, who was obviously depressed.

"Well, well," answered the D. A., sarcastically. "So you can't solve this one either."

"Please!" replied Capt. Gulch, nervously. "I'm tired. I admit I have failed. But I have questioned every one I could think of. We are certain that this man was shot as he left the elevator at the second floor. None of the passengers will talk. A strange case, Mr. D. A. A strange case. But we have one clue. The victim's wife assures us that her husband had a habit of rushing into crowded elevators and elbowing his way to the back of the elevator, and as soon as the elevator started he would yell 'Two!'"

Both men sat silent for some time.

Suddenly the District Attorney leaped to his feet. He pounded one mighty fist into the palm of his other hand.

"Captain!" he cried, his mouth remaining wide open—his eyes bulging. "Have you questioned the elevator operator?"

The reader now has all the facts of the mystery. The game is to try to decide who shot the man. Write your solution on a piece of paper and, just for fun, take it to police headquarters. Engage a detective in conversation. Give him the above data. Then see if your solution tallies with his.

Pennsylvania Should Electrify Tracks Here

The Pennsylvania Railroad proudly announces the addition of a 17-mile link to its system of electrified tracks. It has placed in operation an electric line on the Schuylkill division between Philadelphia and Norristown and now has 426 miles of electrified trackage, it complacently tells us.

And not one mile of it in the Pittsburgh district!

The Pennsylvania boasts it has 131 miles of electrified line in the Philadelphia area alone. It is to be congratulated on its enterprise there. But why has it neglected Pittsburgh? What excuse can it offer for failing to give us the benefit of this desirable improvement? Is it because we have never demanded our rights from the Pennsylvania as other cities have?

If there is any city on the Pennsylvania system that deserves generous consideration, it is Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh, source of enormous freight tonnage; Pittsburgh, hub of the system, with Pennsylvania tracks radiating out of here in every direction; Pittsburgh, which has always given the Pennsylvania whatever it wanted!

We have extended many favors to your railroad, Gen. Atterbury. In exchange, why not electrify your lines here and withdraw your steam locomotives with their belching smoke stacks which pollute our air and soil our houses and our clothing. We deserve the improvement as much as Philadelphia.

Women Deserve Thanks For Tree-Planting Plan

The Congress of Clubs and Club Women of Western Pennsylvania, which has done so many things to better conditions here and make life more pleasant, has in mind another important plan for increasing the attractiveness of the community in its tree planting program.

The forestry committee proposes, in common with women's clubs throughout the country, to celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington by planting memorial trees.

For years the Congress of Clubs has been planting trees or encouraging others to plant. The seedlings have been set out in the parks or at other places that would benefit by the presence of trees. Now it is suggested that the public authorities be asked to designate a new road or boulevard that the Congress may take over for beautification by bordering it with trees. The highway thus planted would become a George Washington Road of Remembrance, in fact if not in name.

If the Congress is willing to go ahead with the suggestion, which was favorably received at the committee meeting, the county should be quick to offer a road for the purpose. The women are entitled to the thanks of the public, whether they plant the Washington memorial trees along a boulevard or elsewhere.

Pittsburgh Needs More Public Golf Courses

The announcement that a public golf course is to be established in the borough of Ellwood City will make many Pittsburghers think with regret of our own lack of facilities for playing this popular and healthful game.

We are behind a number of other cities in the number of our municipal courses. The fact is that in all Allegheny County, with its 1,374,622 of population, there is only one municipal links—that in Schenley Park. It is true there are about 30 country clubs, but membership dues alone run from about $100 a year up, which bars thousands of golf enthusiasts in modest circumstances.

How keen the people are to play golf is shown by the attendance at the Tom Thumb courses and driving ranges. It has been estimated that 20,000 persons a day, on the average, play on the miniature links, where there is no opportunity to use any clubs but the putter and mashie.

At some time in the dim and misty future we are to have 18-hole courses in the North and South county parks. They were promised for last summer, and appear as remote now from completion as they were then. Why can't they be completed?

First Aid to Bridegrooms

They Need It.

First aid to shy bridegrooms was urged recently by Prof. Vergil D. Reed, of Boston University, in a recommendation to the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Jewelers' Association. Prof. Reed thinks that young men contemplating matrimony would like to buy their engagement and wedding rings in privacy, sheltered from tittering clerks and curious fellow-customers. He believes that if the bashful lover could have a secret booth in which to make his selection the jewelry business would pick up.

No doubt the professor is right. Perhaps he even speaks from sad experience. Few husbands look back on their ring-buying experiences with any degree of pride or pleasure. They may have been veritable cavemen in their wooing, but when it came to marching into a jewelry store and boldly demanding a solitaire or a plain gold band, most of them felt like a raw recruit going over the top or a small boy speaking his first piece in Sunday school. And looked like it.

By all means, secret booths. The jewelers should get hep to themselves. Screened alcoves are provided in tailor shops, where a customer can try on his new trousers without submitting to the public gaze. And buying a ring is 10 times as embarrassing.

SOLAR ECLIPSES

By Archibald Henderson

There is something deeply impressive and mysterious about an eclipse of the sun. In ancient times, people generally regarded an eclipse as an omen of deep significance, indicating some extraordinary event or coming cataclysm in nature or in world affairs. In modern times, eclipses are welcomed by the scientists as affording valuable though brief occasions for studying certain solar phenomena about which comparatively little is as yet known.

At the time of an eclipse, the moon intervenes between the sun and the earth. An eclipse may be either annular or total. In the former case, the moon appears a little smaller than the sun and a ring of light is seen around the moon. In the latter case, the moon completely hides the sun from sight for a very brief interval. This can happen despite the fact that the sun is larger than the moon, because the sun is so far off, compared with the moon, from the earth. The sun's diameter and distance exceed the moon's diameter and distance in almost the same ratio.

To the average person an eclipse of the sun is an interesting but almost meaningless phenomenon. The scientists are eager for eclipses to occur, in order that they may study the sun's atmosphere, the corona, the deviation of light rays and many other features about which comparatively little is known.

Scientists are now agreed that there are 92 chemical elements on the earth, although not all of them have as yet been isolated. Recent astronomical researches indicate that on other bodies—the sun, globular clusters, spiral nebulae and remote stars—there may be other elements not yet found on the earth. This seems to be indicated by the presence of cosmic rays, which have been studied by R. A. Milliken, and by certain phenomena of solar and other radiation.

During a total eclipse of the sun, the outer structure of the sun may be photographed, and only then. This structure, called the Corona, has been accurately described as a pearly white halo that envelops the sun and extends outward in more or less definite rays or streamers. These brilliant colored streaming lines, although not appearing so very large on a photograph, are really great fiery emanations extending sometimes many millions of miles from the sun.

The most valuable instrument for studying the corona is the spectroscope. The radiation of the corona is represented in the spectrum by certain bright lines. Some of these lines are brighter than others, the brightest occurring within the green band of the spectrum. There is some substance, according to the principles of spectroscopy, which must be responsible for these brightest lines. We do not know as yet the real nature of this substance, to which has been given the name "coronium." Astrophysicists are eager to learn more about this peculiar and mysterious substance.

The sun's "prominences," as they are called, are also especial subjects of study. They are immense red flames, chiefly hydrogen gas and calcium, which rise from the sun's surface, sometimes hundreds of thousands of miles from the sun's surface.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Why does the world give a college grad the razz? Why does it treat him as if he still belonged on a kiddie car?

Bill would like to know. By return mail, if possible. For Bill is "plenty peeved." A few weeks ago he was the big noise on the campus. Now, armed with a sheepskin and all ready to do his stuff, he isn't even regarded as a small squeak in the old home town. He's just Doc Wilson's kid—home from college. And the best he gets is a patronizing smile.

So Bill rises to demand: "Why do people insist on regarding a college graduate as a kind of joke? You know as well as I, Miss Robinson, that a fellow who really qualifies in college has to hustle. I'd like to see those old fossils do the amount of cramming I've done in the last four years. And yet you would think I had been going to some kindergarten.

"And their attitude toward athletics is even worse. Everybody raves about a fellow who hangs up an endurance record in some jungle or desert, but the average college athlete goes through ten times as much punishment in the course of his training. Yet nobody at home thinks that amounts to anything.

"My folks have been good to me. They sent me through college and I'm grateful. But I bet they'd take any day laborer more seriously than they do me. And it certainly makes a fellow feel sore to be treated like a baby after he's earned a big place for himself on the campus."

Why does the world treat the average college grad as a joke? Because, son, for all practical purposes, he usually is.

Yes, I know how you grind. You learn plenty and you take plenty of punishment, too. But there's one all-important thing you don't learn in college, Bill, and that's Life. You will probably deny this. You are sure that you have the low-down on life, because you can translate the jokes in Campus Comics and are hep to all the brawls. But that isn't living. That's just cutting up. And has about as much relation to real life as a squat tag has to a prison riot. For there is one element in real life which college life lacks—and that element is responsibility.

You think there's a lot of responsibility in making your credits or holding up your end in the big game? Sure there is—of a sort. Just as there's a certain amount of responsibility involved in beating the kid next door at marbles. But that's kid responsibility—not man responsibility. Man responsibility carries penalties—real penalties. The only thing that's penalized if you fumble in football or flunk in your classes is your conceit and your dad's pocketbook. But when you go into a huddle with Life you've got to be prepared to gamble all you've got—Life won't let you pick your courses. Life won't give a hoot for your conceit or make excuses for you if you fail. You won't be an upper classman in Life, with special prerogatives thereto. You'll just be a regular gob, getting the works.

Why do folks treat a day laborer more seriously than they do you? That's why. He's had the works and you haven't. But stick around—they're on the way!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Some people come back from Europe with notebooks and maps and hotel stickers that tell the whole story, but others come back with a long headache.

Last summer there was a jolly little party went all over Europe. Last fall, Mrs. Trott, who was in this here party, was visiting with two or three other traveled women. The others was telling their adventures.

"Oh, was you in Rome, Mrs. Trott?" one of them says.

"Rome? Why, I'm not so sure that we was."

"Well, there's a darling little hotel at Lucerne. Was you there?"

"Lucerne? I don't seem to remember it."

"How about London? Was you there?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I couldn't be certain whether we was or not. You see, I didn't keep any record, and my husband bought all the transportation and all the liquor for the crowd. Everything was lovely, I remember, but I can't recall the places we was at."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Unshared Good

It is not enough that man may live
His life to the fill, to know
Great tasks and the thrill they give,
Or love with its beacon glow.

Though his treasures pile heaven high
All gifts that the world desires,
Still after each smile comes a sigh
And his spirit droops and tires.

If he selfishly keeps for the few
The bounty that falls to him,
For his pleasures will not ring true
And his sunlight must soon grow dim.

It is not enough to gain,
After the toil is done,
A feeling of proud disdain,
A mountain crest in the sun.

For one who dwells thus alone
Will find earth a barren place
'Till he shares all the good he has known
And it shines from each brother's face.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Queen All Smoked Up

Much indignation has been dry cleaned and pressed among the better class of European royalty because the Queen of England smokes two cigarets after dinner.

"Bugs" Baer

There is a precedent for this but we must go way back into collateral history and bob up with a handful of Spanish moss.

When Sir Walter Raleigh discovered outdoor billboard advertising in America he immediately got himself a long-stemmed boiler and crammed it with good old Virginia leaf.

The first lead of smoke he blew through his nose was terrific. The concussion waxed his mustache and curled his beard. It was then that Pocahontas fell in love with Capt. John Smith.

She didn't know that this was the start of the American cigaret industry. She saw the smoke coming out of Sir Walter's olfactory funnels and thought he was racing the Robert E. Lee up the Mississippi.

Love at first sight is a great thing when you can trust your opera glasses. Sir Walter went back to England and strutted around like a flamingo with rheumatism. He laid down a smoke screen for Queen Elizabeth that would have cured a ham and certainly did cure the Queen.

Elizabeth was the first lady in the world to wear silk stockings. Elizabeth was not beautiful to look at. But you had to, anyway.

She was very fond of continued stories and arranged for Sir Walter to be buried in two instalments.

There is no truth to the rumor that Elizabeth smoked a pipe, and we know that cigarets had not yet been invented. So when Elizabeth remarked that she liked to roll her own she must have been referring to her silk stockings.

Now, all the ladies smoke cigarets. In fact, they have all the habits that can be borrowed.

If Queen Mary wants to inhale two cigarets after dinner that's no reason why the butler should do a back flipflop into a cup of coffee.

If that is all she smokes after dinner she will never win the tournament. English society is all excited about this. So are American social circles. But for two widely assorted reasons.

The English don't think it is so queenish. The Americans are trying to discover where she throws the stubs.

The Prince of Wales is nonchalant and always lights a cigaret between falls. This almost makes him a chain smoker.

When you are an important figure in the public monocle everything you do is of interest to the people. We would like to see the Queen of England in a blindfold test. The only trouble with this is that she is liable to pick out a new bonnet instead of a cigaret.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

And recently it has been shown that even in cultures of connective tissue-cells outside the body, if a tension is set up locally, the fire-forming cells not only grow parallel with its pull, but multiply more vigorously here than elsewhere.

Here then the chain of proof is complete. The original chemical differentiation brings into being that general kind of tissue we call connective. Out of its pervading meshwork the mechanical forces of the living body themselves elicit all the multifarious details of particular tendons and sinews.

H. G. Wells

So the size of blood vessels and the thickness of their walls depend chiefly upon the volume of blood poured through them, as is strikingly shown by those cases where a big artery is gradually blocked, and the blood, finding its way round through small by-ways, forces them to enlarge and assume the structure and size of major vessels.

The digestive system alters with the diet. John Hunter, the great anatomist, made a sea gull produce a passable imitation of a gizzard by feeding it for many months on grain only. Few organs escape some degree of modeling by their own activity.

Development, we see, is a step-by-step process. In the bit of living matter that is to develop, each difference between one region and another is the parent of further differences.

The first regional differences come from without—the egg has its main axis imposed upon it, and then its two-sidedness. Later the influence of the active "organizer" region spurs it into chemical activity.

The segmented egg, while it is still little more than a mass of cells of different degrees of activity, becomes parceled out into a series of separate areas, each with its own peculiar chemistry.

Each of these areas has its own axis, contains its own local differences in activity and thus within each area new sub-zones come into being, each characterized by its own chemical peculiarities. The processes they set in train run their appointed course.

The chemical mosaic becomes a mosaic of visibly different structures. Ultimately this mosaic becomes a whole again. All its parts have become interconnected by blood and nerves and are falling into subjection to the government of the brain.

Hormones make widely separated parts grow or shrink in synchrony, the nervous system throws into simultaneous action the most widely diverse kinds of organs and tissues. The parts work for the good of the whole, and in so doing they achieve the perfection of their own structure and the body its full measure of co-ordination.

To achieve success in this elaborate shaping of a new individual, to prevent monstrosities from appearing, marvels of adjustment and timing are needed, certainly no less accurate than those in the engine and magneto of the car.

And the more delicate the adjustment the more need for it to be removed from outside interference in its plastic early stages.

The rarity of human monstrosities is in part due to ages of natural selection, by which heritable disharmonies and maladjustments have been weeded out, in part to the rich and uniform conditions and the perfect protection from outside interference provided for the developing embryo in the maternal body.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

LONDON—Just as the dapper little Paris gendarme with his cute shoulder cape, waxed mustache and enameled white club amuse the visitor so does the London cab and bus driver. There is no freemasonry among them and their wells of sarcasm are deep and acrid. They fairly spit venom.

Each is a road hog in a city of narrow streets. They mock and abuse each other and exchange unprintable epithets. They have no wit and their lives seem a perpetual growl. This morning driving to Fleet street my driver locked horns verbally with a bus Jehu. The air turned sulphuric blue.

He nearly unhinged my neck dropping behind the busman and jockeying in front of him to unloose a flood of billingsgate. His parting shot as he swung dizzily around a corner on two wheels was: "Your 'ol woman, she was owled to the gizzard again last night." Another way of saying the busman's wife was drunk.

The London bobby, however, is a totally different species. He is more than a policeman. He is a guide, counsellor and friend. He is especially considerate toward the provincial and the foreigner. Address one of them as "Inspector" and the flattery will make him your slave.

The chin-strapped bobby breathes law and order—the triumph of the uniform. If he rebukes you be humble. I know from experience. One time here when I was a bit more of a smartie than now I sassed a bobby. I got a dressing down I never forgot. He cured me of sucking eggs from then to now.

London, as you know, is a sartorial heaven for the male shopper. I always strike out for the Burlington Arcade to see the haberdashery, shirt, hat and boot shops. Many articles are priced in dollars—such as: "$5.07 approx."—the first time England has ever even nodded toward the dollar.

The most masculine of thoroughfares are Saville Row, St. James street and Pall Mall. The predominate type of well dressed Londoner is habited of mornings in black coat, striped trousers, black derby at the proper angle, white soft collared shirt with deep blue tie and, of course, spatted and monocled.

For the lover of parks, London is a mecca, distinguished by scenic naturalness. There are dull thickets spangled with bright flowers, clumps of sudden woods, silvery rivulets and coy paths. They hug the past with wagonettes, dog carts and other assortments of the Victorian gig. In one today I saw a red coated hunter on a caracoling mount—like a rare old print. It is perhaps because London is so grey and gloomy the parks stir the imagination. Anyway they seem more inspiring and vivid here than almost any other place I've ever been.

Berkeley Square has been glorified recently by the successful play of that name in New York. I passed through it this afternoon—a small sunless patch flooded with ancient quiet and opulent sobriety. At No. 11, Horace Walpole lived. "Auld Robin Gray" was written at No. 21 and Clive ended his life at No. 65 with poison, if, memory serves. Of many streets running off Berkeley is Charles and at No. 42 once lived the dandiacal immortal Beau Brummell. Passing his abode I somehow thought of Jimmy Walker. And adjusted my bright orange cravat.

I stopped into one of the ancient pubs, featuring old ale and a sanded floor, for a lemonade—and it was served piping hot. The pretty bar maid, who did not look unlike Billie Burke, fell into talking about America. She wanted to know all about Al Capone.

One of the noticeable changes here is in drug stores. They used to be staid apothecaries, but have gone completely American chain store. The old chemist's chromatic window display has given way to safety razors, rubber dolls, lead pencils and cut rate books. The soda fountain in one offered a "Greta Garbo sundae."

And along Piccadilly I ran across something I had never seen before—a condiment shop. Its window was a crazy quilt of exotic and peppery delicacies from every corner of the civilized world. "Hot stuff," I remarked to my wife, which is the absolute low record for wheeze whittling on this excursion. But a fellow has to get off something now and then.

Bond street is London's Fifth avenue and Rue de la Paix. Tripping along it this afternoon was Anna May Wong, the Chinese cinema cutie, looking very princesse du pays de porcelaine—I just can't shake off my French. It just occurs to me a Frenchman doesn't speak his language. He gargles it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Some friend has told you that you are a fool for doing a certain thing.

You did not take kindly to the remark; in fact you thought he was interfering in your affairs in an unwarranted way.

Perhaps you told him so and shattered a friendship of many years.

Since then you are inclined to think that he was right.

You wanted to say you had forgiven him, but other matters finally crowded it out of your mind and now a feeling of displeasure has come.

Your good or your bad deeds reflect upon them as well as yourself.

You may think that you can get away with something which is known to many, but time may prove otherwise.

Be glad of a friend who dares to risk your anger and who likes you well enough to step in and try to save you from possible disgrace.

This is the sort of friend to whom you should stick.

Text For Today And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up: That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life.—John, iii: 14, 15.
